

LETTER OF INTRODUCTION.

TRURO, N. S., Jan. 30, 1887.

MESSRS. Z. POOR & Co., Boston.

GENTLEMEN, — Allow me to introduce to you my young friend, Mr. David Webster, who visits your city for the purpose of obtaining a situation as book-keeper. Mr. Webster is well acquainted with the general principles of book-keeping, but he has had very little experience in practical work. He is, however, intelligent, industrious, and thoroughly reliable. I have, therefore, much confidence in his ultimate success, and beg to commend him to your favorable notice.

I am, gentlemen,

Yours sincerely,

PETER KAUFMAN.
