The postal system of the world is a marvel -- a stupendous concern -- a revelation—an inspiration—a revolution.

As we wander from place to place in our progressive country, few departments offer a more interesting subject for a half hour's study than a village post office. There is a pressure often brought to bear on the capacity of the waiting room—at times all sorts, sizes and classes meet there, from the tiny six-year old to the three-score and ten. We look into eyes steel blue-eyes blue, eyes light or dark brown, or black as midnight-eyes dull, heavy and weary under life's burden-eyes sad, plain tive, pathetic with sorrow-eyes that spap and sparkle, swift as a bunch of Chinese fire-crackers—eyes that laugh and weep in the same moment-eyes that charm, entrance and bewilder you eyes that scorn and hate-reproachful eyes that scintillate little darts at a semi delinquent lover-trusting, confiding, loving eyes that accelerate your

We see silver hair-golden hairhair flaxen, red, brown and blackhair frizzled and frowsled, banged, water falled, tressed and trussed-hair twisted and coiled and spiralled-hair braided and bewitched and switched at

Fine figures and forms divinely fair, with gaits that sway and swing-o-cilate, undulate, vibrate gracefully, sweetly to the rythm of life.

Voices that whisper-voices that don't whisper-voices that fife and flute and roll and tremor-that trill winter meetings. In addition to all and thrill-merry and sad-voices unutterable that beam from the eye-the echo of a joyous tintinabulation.

The little room in the post office is well filled—the hour for distributing sale. the evening mail is near. Fine looking, cultured young gentlemen pass the lingering minutes in formulating sacharine-coated, good natured pellets and firing them as fair girls-these young ladies retaliate by shooting back lavender-scented pellets of wit, which, in their vivacity and animation, flow ast as South African bullets.

The wicket opens-the grave look ing business man takes his business letters with a business air and hurries to his place of business. A stream of point-letters that surprise-letters from angry politicians, the pen dipped in more than gall-lighnings flash in sarcasm and vindictive wrath-crimin ation and recrimination. Letters that candidate in West York. praise-letters that mourn and weep. address reveals a secret to a close ob server near-that is a love letter-the unconcious smile ripples and dimples the ch ek that quickens the heart as tion with a tell tale blush. Our guardian angel may tell how pupils and students in this high schoolformed their first mutual attachment in the little old post office-an attachment that soon grow into friendshiprising into fondness-then affectionsuddenly unfolding the bud in a blaze of blooming love. To find all these, we must pass over hill, dale and moun tain -cross rivers, lakes and continents -then rise above Coudland, on beyoud the star gemmed dome, where Arcturus reigns-pass the sweet bands of Orion's union-into the realm of

It needs no analyst or p ophet to dis ern that even now, daily, in that office on Memory's tablet are written warm-hearted, true hearted, pure heart ed thoughts that will be known and read when the dust of the tomb is and sheds its fragrance o'er the quiet sleeper's bosom. countenance also indicates gentle patience, an earnest kindness, a sincere courtesy free from vanity, the very material that goes to form a true folower of our Lord.

And the years go and come down the corridors of time, and pupil and student, teacher and professor will soon pass on and off the Bridge of Sighs. The vast reunion is swiftly approaching. Learn well your part, have ready a grand recitation—your theme, Redeeming Love—for soon it will be Commencement day for you in the high school in heaven. W. S. Hough.

HOLD MONTHLY MEETINGS.

Under above heading, The Sun, one of the best agricultural papers in the province, gives this very sensible advice: The regular Institute meetings now being held in various parts of the province are doing a great deal of good. But officers in charge of local Institutes should not, however, limit their activity to these regular and supplementary meetings. In East York, in the township of Scarboro, the mem bers get together at regular intervals during the winter and discuss among themselves matters of local interest At one meeting, for instance, a member will be expected to open a discussion on fruit culture, at another meeting some other member will lead on poultry, and so it goes, practically every department of farm life being taken up and discussed during these this, the Scarboro farmers have at their March meeting every year a seed fair to which members bring specimens of the grain, roots etc. they have for These sales often run into the hundreds of dollars, and buyers obtain at a few cents above the market price, first class articles for seed.

G. T. FULFORD'S LIBEL SUIT.

Barwick, Aylesworth & Wright, acting for E J. Reynolds, of Brockville, have filed at Osgoode Hall Senator George T. Fulford's statement of claim in the $10,000 slander action against N. ECON OMIC FEED COOKER

Read what Practica Pig-raisers Say About

James Loucks, Yonge Front, says: 'I know that I have saved fully 25 per cent by feeding cooked roots to my pigs last fall."

Wm. Byers, Prescott Road, says: "I fed 60 pigs last fall on cooked roots and saved my bacon; although prices were low, I made some money on them. The only trouble was the Cooker was too small (40 gals)—had to cook several batches a day."

Israel Stevens, Delta, says: "The Economic Feed Cooker is a grand thing, but the 40 gal. size is too small for to feed a large head of pigs."

In order to meet the demand for the large size, I have procured patterns and am prepared to furnish them to order up to 100 gals. These Cookers are made with grate-bars and ash-pit below. The fire-box can be lined with brick, ensuring safety and economy of fuel. I also make the No. 40, same as last
