A Service that does not

Accommodate.

The manner in which the Provincial Government conduct the steamboat service between Charlottetown and Orwell, affords very little accommodation to the people of Orwell, Belfast and surrounding country. The steamer Hillscountry. The steamer Hillsborough makes one trip a weekon Wednesday-from Charlottetown to Orwell and return. She town to Orwell and return. She leaves Charlottetown at 8 o'clock in the morning and returns about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Persons from Orwell, Belfast or that section of country that would come to the city by this steamer 1945.

It will thus be seen that this steamboat route, presumably intended for the accommodation of the people living adjacent to the points at which the steamer touches, affords them little or no accommodation. It must necessarily follow from this that very few of the people from those sections of the country will come to town by this route, however much they might desire to do their business here. Perhaps that is what was intended. Not being able to come to Charlottetown by steamer, make their purchases and return home the same day, many of them will not come at all. In that case they may perhaps feel themselves obliged to purchase their goods from Hon Mr. Forbes, who is a member of Mr. Forbes, who is a member of cent. or 840. the Government and has a say in Sadie McLeod, Bradalbane, 1065. regulating the time table of the Hillsborough. Everyone in business is entitled to secure all the legitimate trade he can, and buyers D. L. Mellish, Montague, 939. are supposed to be free to purchase their goods where they please; but the way in which the Government have arranged this service appears to so handicap the people of the section named that they are not always free to act in acare not always free to act in accordance to their wishes in the matter of trade.

Locomotives and Losses.

THE Montreal Witness has this to say regarding locomotives: It in June, 1902;  the examination in algebra for first-cal in June, 1902;  the examination is not surprising that, after the French;  in French and Algebra. first shock of surprise, resentment should be expressed by the makers of locomotives in the United States at the statement that their engines were 'dear as a gift, contained in reports concerning then from Burmah and Assam, and laid before the British public by Sir Alfred Hickman and others. But when to this is added the report from Egypt that American locomotives average ten per cent.
more in the consumption of coal and oil than the British, the matter becomes quite serious. And this is in a measure confirmed by the report of the chief engineer of the Orleans railway, in France, who states that the American enthe Orleans railway, in France, who states that the American engines bought last November by the company are more expensive to maintain than the European engine, and that they undoubtedly burn more coal. They will not discard the American engines, but will buy no more of them. The general manager of the Cape Colony railways reports that the American engines burn twenty per cent more fuel than the English ones. Upon the foregoing the Halifax Herald comments as follows: Can it be possible that Blair's enormous deficits on the I. C. R. are due to his imported locometives? If so these ported locomotives? If so these purchases will be rendered still purchases will be rendered still more inexcusable. But we cannot imagine that the whole of the $4,000,000 that will be lost as the result of this fiscal year's operation of the I. C. R. can be fairly charged to the Doukhobor and other United States engines. There was a general election during the year, and it is probable that a million or so was spent in defeating.
