A MATTER WHICH CONCERNS OUR READERS
THE BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL (Feb. 19, 1910) Writing on Phosphorus in Food, says: "The importance of administering phosphorus in a form suitable for assimilation has long been recognised, and for this end many attempts have been made to prepare it in various forms of organic combination. There is evidence that the organic compound of phosphorus which occurs in some natural foodstuffs and in the body itself presents this element in a form especially favorable for its assimilation."
 "In this connection attention has been drawn to Plasmon as a source of phosphorus. Plasmon, as is well known, is a preparation of the casein of milk, containing rather over 80 per cent. of pure protein, but its considerable content of phosphorus in the form of combination in which this exists in milk is perhaps less generally recognised."
 "Plasmon Cocoa, which yields a beverage of much greater nutritive value than ordinary cocoa, was found to contain phosphorus equivalent to 2.32 per cent. of P2O5."
