Getting Big Game

is a serious proposition

And it's the man who equips himself with the most modern fire-arms and ammunition—Remington UMC—who gets the biggest bag with the least trouble. 100 years spent in arms-making—fifty years in ammunition-making, with matchless resources and equipment certainly show their results in

“His Majesty's Land Navy.”

Of the landships, or “Tanks,” one continues to hear amazing stories. They proved of great service, and the men of the crews behaved magnificently. It must under any circumstances be no small feat of a man's abilities to be shut up in a steel box and to trust one's self deliberately out ahead of one's own fighting line, a mark for every enemy within range. It must be considerably worse if anything happens to the machine so that it is compelled to stand still, or is thrown on its side, far out in the enemy's territory. This happened in more than one case.

“One ‘Tank’ still lies out there on its side, making a barricade across which the men and the Germans have been bombing each other all day. Another got out of repair and could not be moved. The officer in charge rendered the machine unusable, and then he and his crew got out and came back to help in carrying our wounded under fire. The ‘Tank’ still lies there until we can repair it and get it going again, for the Germans will not get it though it is in their lines. In the case of another, which was crippled, the crew similarly went to help in the wounded under heavy fire.

Many of the ‘Tanks’ have come back all dotted with the marks of machine-gun and rifle bullets. One whose steering gear got out of order could not turn to right or left, so it trundled straight ahead till it was quite out of touch with our men, then it sat down on an enemy trench and for five hours stood off bombing attacks. In yet another case the landship found that the infantry was not coming on behind, so it went back to find out what was the matter. They were held up by a trench which ‘Tanks’ had overtopped, where a strong bombing party of the enemy was situated. The machine walked over to the trench, deposited itself on top of it, and wiped the enemy bombing party out.

One ‘Tank’ is known to have put out of action six German machine guns in a single position. Another wandered round for some few hours nosing out German machine gun parties in shell holes about the open and dealing with them firmly when found. Another, after rendering yeoman service in the operations at High Wood, went on to what it thought was out front trench and then discovered it was a German one. It came back shortly afterwards with twenty-five German prisoners, who walked beside it like a flock of sheep, covered by its machine guns.

Another cleaned out a German machine-gun post in a shell-hole; then one of the gunners of the crew got out and took charge of the enemy gun and stayed there to use it against its former owners. Certain of the Overseas troops have two of the ‘Tanks’ with them, named ‘Gordon Rover’ and ‘Greene de Menth’, which they would not part with for worlds. They have been of enormous help already, and are sitting out there now, like two huge tame pachyderms, ready to push along again when the next move comes. The troops regard them as something between a mascot, Leviathan and a fairy godmother.

It is difficult to speak of the things quite seriously, because they are so propitious, so unlike anything that ever was seen on earth before. But they have proved themselves a real and formidable engine of war. A new service has been created, His Majesty's Land Navy; and already the men have shown a gallantry of which any of the sister services might be proud.

THE ANOMALY.

While riding in my ‘buzz-buzz’ car, ‘I hit’ Bill Wax and spoiled his frame, and knocked his marrow-bones apart, and he remarked, ‘I was to blame!’ I said, ‘This dark disaster, Bill, to my sad life, now sorrow lends; I do not run my car to kill or mangle my dearest friends. I'll pay the surgeon, if he'll fix the bones I've broken, rent, and bowed; and if you journey o'er the Styx, I'll see you have a Plam Beach shroud.’ ‘It was my fault,’ I heard him say, ‘and you don't have to pay a cent, for I was walking like a jay, and wasn't looking where I went. I busted every rule, I think, which ought to govern gents on foot, and now you've put me on the blink, I think a while I should stay put.’ Bill Wax shines brighter than a star. Bill Wax deserves immortal fame; he says the owner of a car is not in every case to blame! Hereafter, as I tour the town, in my new car that swiftly flies, I'll always try to run him down in preference to other ways.

Bay De Verdre Notes.

The fishery since the 1st September is almost a failure with hook and line. Squid bait is plentiful and motor boats prosecute the fishery on the best grounds and report a great scarcity of fish. The season's voyage on the whole will be thousands of qts. behind that of last year.

The schr. J. J. O'Flaherty sailed from here last week for Halifax with a cargo of fish purchased by Mr. J. Lockyer.

The Church of England here is undergoing extensive repairs. A new roof is being added to the building which is covered with asbestos shingles. A very handsome tower which will rise eighty feet heavenward will adorn the building and give an attractive appearance. The work is under the supervision of Messrs. Harrison, Brant and Chislet.

The grounds in front of the R. C. Church is being finished with concrete. The work is being done by Mr. Elijah King, of Grate's Cove.

His Lordship Bishop March accompanied by Monsignor McCarthy and Fr. O'Brien arrived here by Tuesday's train and will remain for several days as guests of Rev. Fr. Donnelly.

Rev. Canon Smart and Revs. Upward and Stickings also arrived Tuesday night. They held a missionary meeting Wednesday night. Rev. Canon Smart holds a missionary meeting at Grate's Cove to-night.

A sale of work will be held in St. Barnaba's School by the Church of England Women's Association on the 18th and 19th insts. Elaborate preparations are being made to make it a success.

The schr. Sea Belle is loading fish for St. John's for J. F. O'Neil.

The schr. Edna B. arrived from St. John's to-day and will load dry fish to-morrow for D. O'Neil.

Patridge are plentiful on the Grate's Cove Barrens. Mr. Ed. Cotter secured 5 brace yesterday. Well done, Ned.

Mr. George Veitch, of Holyrood, recently paid us a visit and his friends were glad to see him.

Hungary Stunned by Famine Menace

Food “Surplus” Promised to Germany and Austria is Non-Existent. Confidence Waning. Tentative Soldiers Show Lack of Discipline as Hope of Triumph Dim.

London, Oct. 10.—Food is the great problem in Austria-Hungary, writes the correspondent of the Morning Post at Budapest, under date of September 25. The preceding day was Hungary's first meatless and fatless day, the correspondent says, and the fact that Hungary has been obliged to have such a day seems to be viewed as the most important event of the war.

“The food conditions are simply indescribable,” he writes. “The Government awoke too late to the situation. There is not the slightest chance now of improving matters. Nevertheless, the exports to Germany and Austria are still going briskly, as the Government has a contract to supply her allies with what was estimated to be Hungary's surplus stock. Now it is found that there is no surplus.

“The Germans and Austrians are still demanding their share, and are thus reducing the country to such a condition that it is absolutely certain that by next April or May there will be no bread, no milk and no meat left.”

Cafe Keepers Near Revolt.
The correspondent adds that the uproar in Vienna against the ministerial decree forbidding the cafes and restaurants, of which there are so many in the Austrian capital, to serve bread with lunches and dinners is growing. The cafe keepers and the public are on the verge of revolt, and the former declare that they will close up unless the order is withdrawn.

The Express publishes a three column article aimed at proving that the final disillusionment of the Germans is in progress, and that they are hungering for food and peace. The truth is beginning to leak through the German censorship, the paper says, and depression and gloom are prevalent. The old blind confidence in a Teutonic victory in the war has vanished.

“Robbery and other crimes, including suicide, are increasing in Berlin,” says the article. “The revolutionary tendency is spreading, and there has been rioting at Hamburg, Berlin and Cologne. In a riot in Dresden at the end of August 280 persons were killed and 180 injured. There is appalling distress in the manufacturing districts of Westphalia.

Army is Discontented.
“The army is becoming discontented, and the men are losing their discipline,” says the writer, who quotes as authority neutral diplomats, travelers and residents of Germany on whose word the fullest reliance may be placed. He quotes a neutral diplomat as writing, among other things:

“My impressions is that the morale of the German soldier has become weakened and he has no longer confidence that his efforts are really worth while or are ever going to help Germany's best cause. The German strength can now grow no greater. It has reached its limit.”

The writer says the following is an extract from a letter written by an American physician who has been studying in Berlin for some years: “Until September, 1915, there was no hardship in Germany. Then the thumb screws began to tighten, and now the people are being surely, though slowly, starved out. It is a riddle how the poor families have managed to keep alive and conditions are growing worse. The pitiful thing about it all is that it is the women and children who suffer.”

Berlin Feels Shortage.

Great difficulty is being experienced in provisioning Berlin, according to the Socialist newspaper Vorwaerts of that city, as quoted by Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent. The potato supply is said to have been stopped during the last few days, the interruption being attributed to lack of field laborers.

The decrease in the milk supply is the subject of anxious discussion by the authorities. The Socialist newspaper says many of the large milk dealers have discontinued their consignments to the city, owing to the shortage and also to the fact that when they have been able to send in small quantities the profit has been slight.

Stokers Strike.

PORTIA SAILS.
The coastal steamer Portia, which had been held up by the strikers, got away yesterday afternoon, for Western ports, the ship having been supplied with firemen who arrived by train yesterday. When the ship reached Cape Spear she was ordered back for some passengers who were accidentally left behind. The Firemen's Union have sent representatives to the outposts, where the Hotel steamers are passing, in connection with the strike.

The Kaiser's Rapacity

We have received the following letter on the subject of the Kaiser's rapacity, of which a further instance is furnished:

When in Palestine a few years ago I visited, at Damascus, the tomb of Saladin, the great Saracen commander in the time of the Crusades. The Kaiser had been there some years previously, paying his devotions at the shrine of one who had defeated an English King, and he observed that the cedar sarcophagus (of inestimable value intrinsically and artistically) was unworthy of so great a hero, and that he would provide a more befitting tomb. At his request it was packed up and sent to Berlin, and some time after a very inferior, ordinary article was received, of stucco work as well as I remember, which, of course, had to be accepted.

But the Turkish authorities were prepared, and are prepared, as we know, to cut dust before the Kaiser. Did they not break down the Wall of Jerusalem, so that the gates can be no more shut, to allow the imperial entourage to pass in without difficulty—while at Haifa, on the Bay of Acre, they built an ornamental stone pier with electric light for the Hohenzollern to lie alongside. This pier was never used for any other purpose, and in 1911, at the time of my visit, was quite ruinous, with the electric standards twisted into fantastic shapes by the storms of the Mediterranean.—London Times.

Rush Orders for Steel

To Complete the New Span for Quebec Bridge.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 6.—Rush orders have just been placed here for steel to complete a new span in the Quebec bridge to replace the one which recently fell into the St. Lawrence River. It became known to-day. The Dominion Bridge Company has placed a contract with the American Bridge Company to fabricate the new span and the Carnegie Steel Company will roll 5,000 tons of steel shapes and beams at its Homestead plant.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

“That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylax and Zylax Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylax at your druggists.”
