They Came Togother.
Mrs. A. and Miss F. Bainard, mother and daughter, the former on a trip to Bay City, Mich., and the latter visiting at Bayfield, by coincidence returned to their home in Westminster on Saturday, each having written to Mr. Barnard to be met at the station here. Each was surprised to meet the other, as neither expected the other to return so soon.

An Unwelcome Clock Repairer.

An Unwelcome Clock Repairer.

Saturday afternoon a man rather advanced in years and with a full gray beard called at the home of Mrs. McPherson, Ann street, London West, and, stating that the clock was out of order, wished to repair it. Mrs. McPherson replied that the clock needed no repairs, and so the obliging genteman went his way. Shortly afterwards he returned to the house, having seen Mrs. McPherson start for the city. He went in, acted improperly toward her little daughter, took the clock and carried it away. No sign of either the man or clock has since been seen.
