Royalty Weds!

George and Mary Made Man and Wife

Amid a Blaze of Pomp Scenes of Splendor,

Beautiful Weather, Cheering Crowds and Profuse Decorations.

The Queen, the Royal Family and the Highest Nobility Present.

A Brilliant Function-The Dresses the Bride and Bridesmaids — The Clergy and Guests—A Triumphal Tour Through the Streets—Reminiscences of St. James' Chapel.

London, July 6.—The marriage of the Duke of York (Prince George of Wales) and Princess Victoria May of Teck, an event to which all England had been looking forward to with great interest, took place at half past twelve o'clock today, in the Chapel Royal, St. James' Palace. The wedding was a brilliant function, and was attended by a large gathering of the members of the British royal family, continental sovereigns or their representatives, and many members of the highest nobility. The weather was beautiful, and if there is any truth in the old proverb, "Happy is the bride whom the sun shines on," the new Duchess of York will be exceedingly happy, for a more splendid day has seldom been seen in London. The occasion was made one of national rejoicing and a partial British holiday.

seldom been seen in London. Incocards was made one of national rejoicing and a partial British holiday.

GREAT CROWDS OF PEOPLE gathered many deep along the line of route from Buckingham Palace up Constitution Hill through Piccadilly, St. James street, and Mariborough gate to the garden entrance of St. James' Palace, which is situated on the north side of the Mall. The decorations along the line of the royal procession were profuse and beautiful. The roadway was kept open by the horse troops in their giltering uniforms, by detachments drawn from the military depots, by the metropolitan volunteers and militia, by Middlesex yeomen and by the police. The scene was full of life and movement, and the ceremony eclipsed in pomp and splendor any recent state ceremonial in connection with the British court.

The royal party left Buckingham Palace in four processions, the first conveying the distinguished guests. The next procession included the Duke of York and his supporters, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Edinburgh. The bride came in the third procession accompanied by her father, the Duke of Teck, and her brother, Prince Adolphus of Teck, and her brother, Prince Adolphus of Teck. The last procession was that of royal carriage drove forward. The members of the royal family and guests on alighting at St. James' Palace walked to the state apartments, and subsequently down the grand staircase and under the color court colonade to the seats for them in the chapel. Her Majesty alighted in the ambasador's court under a specially erected canopy over the glass doors of the passage leading to the chapel. Then she walked to the haut pas at the north end of the edifice. The spot was beautifully adorned with palms and flowers from the royal conservatory and carpeted with crimson. Upon the same platform seats were provided for the Prince and Princess of Wales, the bride and bridegroom and the other members of the royal lamily and royal guests from abroad. The members of the rowal damily and royal guests from abroad. The members of the Prince May had ten bridesmaids. she walked to the haut pas at the north end of the edifice. The spot was beautifully adorned with palms and flowers from the royal conservatory and carpeted with crimson. Upon the same platform seats were provided for the Prince and Princess of Wales, the bride and bridegroom and the other members of the royal family and royal guests from abroad. The members of the diplomatic body, including members of the United States Embassy and the other invited guests, occupied special seats in the body of the chapel and in the royal and east galleries. Drawing. the body of the chapel and in the royal and east galleries. Drawing room dresses were worn by the ladies, the gentlemen appearing in full leves dress. The marriage eceremony opened with the procession of the clery into the chapel. This consisted of the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London, the dean of the chapel royal, the subdean, the Bishop of Rochester, the Hon. and Rev. Carr-Glunn (vicar of Kensington), Canon Harvey (domestic chaplain to the Prince of Wales), and Canon Dalton (honorary chaplain to the Duke of York). Handel's march from the "Occasional Overture" was hain to the Duke of York). Handel's march from the "Occasional Overture" was plyed by the organist as the procession came forward. While the archbishop and clergy were taking their positions a portion of the march in "Scipio" came from the organ, and immediately the front of the second procession, including the royal family and royal guests, came in sight, and the members of it were conducted to their seats as they entered. As the Queen's procession, which included the Duchess of Teck and the Grand Duke of Hesse, walked up the aisle Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Imperial March" was played.

A march in "G" composed by Smart, was played during the progress of THE BRIDEGROOM'S PROCESSION, and as the bride and her supporters passed up the aisle to the altar the organ played Wagner's march from "Lohengrin." The bride wore the veil which was worn by the mother on the occasion of her own marriage. Her wedding gown was of silver brocade, in perfect harmony with the bridesmaids' toilets of white satin and silver lace. The bridesmaids' gowns were made with low bodices, and neither hats, wreaths nor veils were worn—only a simple rose in the hair. The bridesmaids were the Princesses irch from the "Occasional Overture" was Victoria and Maud, of Wales; Princesses Victoria, Alexandria and Beatrice, of Edinburgh; Princesses Margaret and Victoria Princeia, of Connaught; Princess Victoria, of Schleswig-Holstein, and Princess Eugenie. The Archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the other clergy, performed the ceremony, the bride being given away by her father. The magnificent gilt sacramental plate, the central alms dish, of which is said to have been manufactured in the reign of Charles I, and is valued at $50,000, was displayed upon the altar, which was decorated with the choicest flowers. The service began with the marriage choral "Father of Life," specially composed by Dr. Cresser for the occasion, and sung by "the gentlemen and children of the Chapel Royal," as the members of the choir are styled. In the middle of the service Sir Joseph Barnaby's "O Perfect Love," a choral sung at the marriage of the Duke and Duchess of Fife in Buckingham Palzec Chapel, was given. The service concluded with the hymn "Now Thank We All Our God." Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was played as the royal party left the chapel, the; united procession of the bride and bridegroom leading to the throne room where the registry of the marriage was attested by her Majesty and the other members of the royal family and royal guests.

The dejeuner was served at Buckingham.

The dejeuner was served at Buckingham The dejeuner was served at Buckingham Palace, the Queen proposing the toast of the "Bride and Bridegroom," and the lord steward the toast of the "Queen." After receiving congratulations the Duke and Duchess of York left Buckingham Palace, driving through the Mall to the city, and thence proceeded to the Great Eastern Railway from Thiel street to Sandringham. The lord mayor and wheriffs met the newly-wedded pair at St. Paul's Cathedral, and their progress through the lavishly-decorated and crowded streets was

A TRIUMPHAL TOUR.

To enumerate the bridal gifts and the names of their donors would require several columns of newspaper space. Presents were received from all parts of the British dominions. The Duke of York's present to his bride consisted of an open petalled rose in pearls and diamonds, and a five-row pearl necklace. The pearls are not exceptionally large, but they are perfectly pure in color and splendfully made up. The Duke and Duchess of Teck gave their daughter a suite of jewels, comprising a tiara necklet and brocch of turquois A TRIUMPHAL TOUR.

tiara necklet and brooch of turquois and diamonds.

Much has been said regarding the Much has been said regarding the PRINCESS OF WALES' OPPOSITION to the marriage, it being stated that she did not approve of her son marrying the girl who had been engaged to his brother, even though that brother was dead. The present given by the Princess of Wales should put to rest these rumors, for it is doubtful if a more valuable gift was according by a work on a similar consequence. ever given by anyone on a similar occa-sion. The Princess' gift consisted mostly y and precious stones, the whole ued at £250,000.

being valued at £250,000.

THE GOING AWAY DRESS.

The toilet in which Princess "May" went away from Buckingham Palace and drove through some of thelprincipal thoroughfares of London to the Liverpool street railway station en route for Sandriugham was of which Liverpools and he Mayardah. Adolphus of Teck. The last procession was that of

THE QUEEN,
who was accompanied by the Duchess of Teck. Her younger sons and the Grand Duke of Hesse drove in state to the ceremonial. Each procession was accompanied by a Life Guard escort, and in addition to this the Queen had an escort of Indian, native and Australian hore. Her Majesty rode in the handsome glass coach used at the opening of Parliament and on other special occasions. The body of the carriage, which is of Irish manufacture and built in Dublin, is painted a dark color, and its richly gilt panels are adorned with the royal arms. The roof is surmounted by a crown and bordered with a wreath of gilt roses, thistles and shamrocks.

The cheering was immense as the royal carriage drove forward. The members of the royal family and guests on alighting at St. James' Palace walked to the state apartments, and subsequently down the grand staircase and under the color court colonade to the seate for them in the chapel. Her work of the carries, the Queen's youngest daughter. Nothing short of fire could ever destroy it. white Irish poplin, and was made by Measrs. Redfern, of Bond street and Conduit street.

of her wedding cake.

Princess May had ten bridesmaids-Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein (the single daughter of Prince and Princess Princess Victoria of Prince and Princess single daughter of Prince and Princesses Christian), the Princesses Victoria, Alexandra and Beatrice of Edinburgh, Princesses Margaret and Victoria Patricia of Connaught, and Princess Victoria Eugenie of Batteriborg. Five of these are little children and the other five grown up girls, and the freeks had to be suitable to both ages,

tty much alike.
of ivery satin with chiffen and the bottom, turned up or and the satin is to be tucked ations for the younger ones. nheer is laid a row of an er inde with silver braid and title stars of crystal beads nother row of this lace is odice just below the pleated mes close to the neck; the even is of chiffon, and each ry satin sash with rather each shoulder and

ELDER PRINCESSES.

lver lace round the rather long spray of pink roses on the front of each corsage.

THE QUEEN'S MARRIAGE RECALLED Her Majesty herself is now 74, and it is fered that the ceremony in the chapel royal at St. James' will be the last at which she will have the strength to be present. It is curious to note that it was in the same church where the ceremony is took place to-day where she herself was united in wedlock to Prince Albert, on the 16th of January, 1840. On the 16th of January, 1840. On the 16th of January, 1840. The Queen announced her to the paleon of the Queen and their other relatives and left the paleon and their other relatives and their the paleon and the route selected, which was literally black with humanity. The carriage was escorted by squadrons from the Life Guards and Lancers.

ON THE WAY TO THE STATION,
As the carriage drove off the Queen and started and the members of the royal party stood upon the balcony over the grand entrance and waved good-byes to the bridal couple. The Duchess of York had thrown aside her wedding took place.

The Duchess of York had thrown aside her wedding dress and donned her going way to the grand entrance and waved good-byes to the bridal couple. The Duchess of York had thrown aside her wedding dress and donned her going way the grand of the Blamed for Their Brutai Behavior. spray of pink roses on the front of each corsage.

THE QUEEN'S MARRIAGE RECALLED

Her Majesty herself is now 74, and it is fered that the ceremony in the chapel royal at St. James' will be the last at which she will have the strength to be present. It is curious to note that it was in the same church where the ceremony took place to-day where she herself was united in wedlock to Prince Albert, on the 10th of February, 1840. On the 16th of January, 1840, the Queen announced her approaching marriage to Parliament. On Feb. 6, Prince Albert landed at Dover, and four days later the wedding took place.

Historians tell us that the morning broke gloomily, and the rain fell in torrents. Finely dressed ladies, who, by 8 o'clock in the morning were already in their carriages on the way to the center of attraction, looked cold and dispirited, while the white favors on the horses' hasds and the servants' hats were wet and drooping. However, were the start of the rain regard of St.

looked cold and dispirited, while the white favors on the horses' heads and the servants' hats were wet and drooping. However, about 11 the rain ceased, and St. James' Park was soon filled with people. At the same time the royal carriages entered the courtyard of Buckingham Palaeethe Life Guards removed their heavy cloaks, and appeared magnificent in their imposing boets and dazzling cuirasses.

Shortly after midday a flourish of drums and trumpets announced the arrival of the Prince, and the bridegroom's procession entered the chapil at 12:20, that of the bride being a quarter of an hour later. The Prince wore the uniform of a field marshal, and the order of the Garter, surmounted by two white rosettes. He carried a Bible in his hand, and the strain he was enduring showed itself in the pallor of his thoughtful, amiable face.

The drums and trumpets sounded again, the chapel doors were once more flung open, and the Quara' on proposition was even.

the chapel doors were once more flung open, and the Queen's own procession was seen slowly approaching—"plain without pomp and rich without show." Neither she nor any of her bridesmaids or attendants wore any of her bridesmaids or attendants wore a single diamond, the Queen's sole jewels being a necklace of brilliants. They were all clad alike, in dresses of rich, white satin trimmed with orange blossoms, and wore on their heads wreaths of the same blossoms. The only thing that distinguished the bride was the wealth of Honiton lace which enveloped her dress, and the fact that she wore a veil, which, however, did not conceal her face, especially noticeable for its extreme paleness and traces of nervous effort."

WHAT THE QUEEN WORE.

LONDON, July 6.—The Queen headed the procession to the altar. She walked alone, leaning on an ebony stick. Her Majesty was attired in a black dress with a train. The bodice was of broche silk with lace. She wore across her bosom the broad blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter, and on her head was a small diamond grown, from her head was a small diamond crown, from which a veil depended. Around her neck was a necklace of diamonds with pendant attached. As her Majesty passed up the nave of the chapel the whole assemblage bowed.

FOLLOWING THE QUEEN.

Following the Queen came the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Edinburgh and behind him walked a number of admirals in full uniforms escorting the bridegroom who were the uniform of a fleet captain. The Czarewitch was in military uniform and wore a picturesque white jacket edged with ermine.

The King of Denmark escorted his daughter the Princess of Wales. The Princess wore a dress of pure white silk and a tiara of diamonds.

The Marquis of Lorne wore the dress of a Highland chief. Princess Louise was attired in a heliotrope-colored robe. See also had a tiara of diamonds.

The haddelessed wore the arm of her

The bride leaned upon the arm of her

The bride leaned upon the arm of her father, and as the procession advanced her train was carried by her bridesmaids.

Among the notables present were Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone. They were in their seats before the royal party appeared in the chapel. Gladstone were the uniform of the brethren of Trinity House, which included layer pairs of parall ensulettes. Mrs. a large pair of naval epaulettes. Mrs. Brussels lace, and a black cap studded with diamonds.

The Queen sat throughout the ceremony with absorbed attention.

The Duke of York responded to the questions in a clear voice, his answers being audible in the farthest corners of the chapel. Princess May's responses could be heard scarcely beyond the royal circle.

KISSING THE BEIDE.

KISSING THE BRIDE.
The Queen was the first to salute the

to be heard scarcely beyond the royal circle.

The Queries of Nales and the Dake and Duchess of Nales and D and two long side. Round is desired to blossoms.

At half past 2 o'clock the royal party the pretty full withdrew from the balcony to attend the dejouner, which was a very social affair. The said of the bloom to have been that is to bught down on the reappearance of the bride and groom their way to Sandringham, the Prince of Wales' country residence, where they

The Duchess of York had thrown aside her wedding dress and donned her going away gown—a charming confection of white Irish poplin, embroidered with gold cord. The bediee was close-fitting, had broad seams covered with gold embroidery and gold beads. She carried a small white poplin mantle, with embroidery matching that of the gown, and a small over-cape of costly lace. The bonnet was of gold work surmounted by a small cluster of green-colored plumes.

Along the four miles of the route from the palace to the Liverpool street station the royal couple received an unbroken ovation. Such enormous masses of people were never before seen in London. Both kept up an untiring acknowledgment of the were never before seen in London. Both kept up an untiring acknowledgment of the salutations extended to them.

When the procession reached St. Panl's Lord Mayor Stuart Knill and the sheriffs of London met it and presented to the Duke and his bride an address of welcome to the city. The station was reached at 6 o'clock.

WINNESSES OF THE WENDING Among those who signed the registry of he marriage at the chapel royal were 'rime Minister Gladstone, Lord Herschell, Lord High Chancellor, the Earl of Rose-berry, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, the Earl of Kimberly, Lord Presi-dent of the Council, and the Duke of Nor-folk. The Duke of Norfolk is a Catholic. He signed the registry as the heriditary head marshal of England.

TERSELY TOLD.

The New Haven (Conn.) opera house was gutted by fire Tuesday night.

Some of the World's Fair people estimate the 4th of July attendance at 250,000.

mate the 4th of July attendance at 250,000.

Mrs. M. P. Bradley and her two children were fatally injured by a runaway at Oregon City, Ore., Tuesday night.

Joseph L. Curtis, ex-sheriff of Brooke county, W. Va., who dissppeared from his home in Wellsburg, is said to be short in his accounts about $40,000.

Geo. Booth, 14 vears old, in attempting to jump on the pilot of an engine at West Albany, N. Y., Thursday, was run over, the head being severed from the trunk.

Miss Margarette A. Moody, a teacher in a public school in South Boston, Mass., has resigned, after an uninterrupted service of 52 years. The alumni association gave her a basket containing 52 roses.

Thomas Maloney, an 11-year-old boy

Thomas Maloney, an 11-year-old boy, was drowned while bathing in New York, and three of his companions, Frank Kago, Patsy Radigan and John Maloney, have been arrested, charged with drowning him for a 25-cent piece he had in his pocket.

Both Killed.

Utica, N. Y., July 6.—Two strangers, one named Fred Stewart and the other called Jack, both claiming to be harness-makers, of Chicago, were killed by a fast West Shore freight train near Little Falls

The Sunday Street Car Question. Toronto, July 6.—The city council this afternoon decided that the vote on the Sunday car question should be taken on Aug. 21 instead of Aug. 2, so as to have the vote take place on the new voters' list.

Got Off Easily.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Rev. John T. James, of Virginia, who smashed the whisky exhibit of Sir John Powers, in the agricultural building on the Fourth of July was fined $25. Mr. James declared he would go to jail and pose as a martyr for demon drink. Then the justice remitted the fine.

World's Fair Englishmen Celebrate. World's Fair Grounds, Chicago, July 6.—With the Royal Standard floating over the entrance to Victoria House, the Union Jack hung at the four corners of the typical building, with corners of the typical building, with the naval penant of England interspersed in honor of the royal bridegroom's associa-tion with his grandmother's navy, and with Blamed for Their Brutai Behavior.

Death of a Distinguished Author PARIS, July 6 .- Guy De Maupassant, the distinguished French romancist of the naturalistic school, died here this morning

138 Dead Bodies Taken Out. LONDON, July 6.—At 6 o'clock 138 dead bodies had been recovered from the Thorn-dale mine, in which there was an ex-plosion on Tuesday. Reichstag Elections. Berlin, July 5.—The Reichstag by a arge majority elected Herr Von Levetzow (Conservative), president; Baron Yon Buoll (Clerical), first vice-president, and Herr Beurklin (National Liberal), second vice-president. The Army Bill will be intro-duced in the Reichstag on Friday. Peace Reigns in Paris.

Paris, July 6.—The action of the police in making the arrests at the Charity Hospital vesterday has caused the most intense anti-police agitation. The police broke down the doors and treated the surgeons in the most brutal manner. The city is quiet to-day.

Laughs at the Story. LONDON, July 6.—A report has reached this city from the United States to the effect that King George of Greece had ab-dicated and that a republic had been pro-claimed. The Greek consul-general here was seen to-day in relation to the report. He said: "This is the first news I have re-

Was seen to day in relation to the report.
He said: "This is the first news I have received of the abdication of King George."
He laughed incredulously when the details of the report were repeated to him, and declared that the story was preposterous. Royalty at the Theater. LONDON, July 6.—A gala performance was given in Covent Garden last evening. It was attended by the Duke of York, the was attended by the Duke of York, the Princess May of Teck, the Czarewitch, the Prince and Princess Waldemar of Denmark, the Duke and Duchess of Edinburg and Prince and Princess Christian. The audience was notably representative of England's "amart" society. Military and naval uniforms were examined as the property of the prince of the prince representative of England's "smari" so-ciety. Military and naval uniforms were conspicuous throughout the house and the boxes were ablaze with diamonds. The whole interior was hung with white satin and silk, and all the electric lights were half hidden under festoons of roses. Not a place in the theater was vacant. The opera was Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet," with Mme. Melba and Jean de Reszke in the leading parts. The perform-ance was remarkably fine. From the hour when the royal family arrived until the last curtain the audience was in an en-last curtain the audience was in an en siastic mood.

In the afternoon the Duke of York, the

The Home Rule Bill. London, July 6 .- The House of Com mons was crowded to night with persons eager to see clause 5 of the Home Rule anger to see alone of the Holm Alle Bill forced through the committee.

At 9:30 Mr. Balfour began speaking. He was in the middle of a sentence when Big Ben struck 10 o'clock. He did not wait to thinish, but resumed his seat anid Opposition cheers and cries of "Shame!" and Wilse !"

Aimost immediately Chairman Mellor put the question of the last Unionist amendment. Cheers and counter cheers resounded as Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues trooped out into the division lebby.

Some of the Tories shouted "Gag" and "Coercion." They were answered with Irish cheers and the waving of Irish hats.

Steamship Arrivals.

July 6. From Edam. Amsterdam New York
Fuerat Bismarck. Hamburg New York
Fuerat Bismarck. Hamburg New York
From
July 6. At Montreal
Rosarian London Montreal
Farmer New York
Bromerhamen Bremen New York
Chester Southampton New York

The standard blood purifier, strength builder and nerve helper is Hood's Sarsaparlia. Insist upon Hood's, because Hood's Cures.

Baking Powder.

WHOLE NO. 9613

Use our Baking Powder when you want felicious Tea Biscuits and Cakes. Made fresh daily and guaranteed strictly pure.

Price 25e Per Pound. CAIRNCROSS & LAWRENCE.

Chemiets and Druggists,
216 DUNDAS STREET, BRANCH-

Late Canadian News

Corner Richmond and Piccadilly Sts.

An Elderslie Farmer Killed by a Flash of Lightning — Preparations for the Masonic Grand Lodge Moeting at Ottawa.

Miss Laura MacGillivray, the beautiful oung elecutionist and practitioner of Delsarte, of Toronto, has gone on the stage in Chicago.

Daniel Scotten, of Detroit, on Thursday, purchased the Jolly farm, below Sandwich, or $5,500. It contains 50 acres, with a iver frontage. river frontage.

The Orangemen of Windsor and vicinity will celebrate the 12th of July at Dreaden. They will take the Twenty-first Fusiliers band with them.

Voting on the bylaw to expend $55,000 to extend the waterworks intake pipe above Walkerville, took place Thursday, and the bylaw was defeated.

In some districts of Manitoba wheat is eaded out, and by the end of August, if he present fine weather continues, reaping vill be commenced. Rev. Edward Eve, one of the best-known

Rev. Edward Eve, one of the best-known Methodist missionaries in the Canadian Northwest, was drowned in Nelson River at Norway House on Tuesday.

A man named Mortimore, professional sport, who was intrusted with the management of Brandon's Dominion Day sports, stimed with the artist receiving.

kipped with the entire receipts supped with the entire receipts.

Montreal celebrated the wedding of Prince George and Princess Mary by a general display of flags and bunting, and the firing of a royal salute from St. Helen's Island. The question of appointing Governors for Manitoba and the Northwest, has not yet been considered by the Cabinet. The terms of Messrs. Shultz and Royal expired

Advices from the Congo Free State report

two victories over the Arab slave traders. The Arabs were repulsed with heavy loss, and fled in such disorder that they carried little with them but their gans.

Mrs. Thos. Lyle died suddenly on Tuesday at Kinmount. She had complained of to call her about 6:30, she was dead. Arrangements are being made at Ottawa for the meeting on July 19 of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Canada. The session will be held in the Grand Opera House. Some 4,000 delegates are expected to be present. Hon. Mr. Gibson will preside.

The Governor-General has returned from The Governor-General has returned from the Restigouche and will remain at Ottawa till the 15th, when he leaves en route to England. Pending the arrival of Lord Aberdeen, Gen. Moore, the British Commander in chief at Halifax, will act as administrator.

By invitation of the president and directors of the Niagara Falls Park and River Railway Company, a large party of nowspaper men took a trip over the new electric Chippewa, and were much pleased with what they saw.

On Wednesday morning a heavy storm

TERRIFIC TORNADOS.

A Hundred Persons Reported to Have Been Killed.

Been Killed.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 6.—It is reported that a cyclone has struck the towns of Pemeroy, Fonda and Manson. passed about four miles south of this place between Aurelia and Newell. Fourteet persons are reported killed and many in jured. Ten Condemned Indians Respited. Ten Condemned Indians Respited.

Mcskooff, I. T., July 6.—The ten Chortaw Indians sentenced to be shot on Friday next at Wilhertown for participating in the killing of six Indians of the Jones faction last fall have been granted write of habeas corpus. Officers are now on their way to serve the write, and trouble is apprehended. The write were granted on the ground that the Indians did not have a fair trial.

You Can't Beat

Cottam's Washing Compound And Don't You Forget It! To every purchaser of $2 worth of C. W. O

WE ARE GIVING One of the best and most useful Washing Machines. Hurry up and get one, as we have only a few left.

BART COTTAM 400 TALBOT STREET