As the gipsy, Carmen, Miss Shay was deightful, giving the role the abandon that goes with the character. Her singng was also pleasing, and won more than one encore. Possibly the enthusiastically received of any of the numbers was the toreador song of Achilles Alberti. Signor Alberti has a magnificent voice, and it was a trea to hear him after some of the comic opera voices that have been focussed all winter in the calcium. Helene Nordi's singing was delightfully sweet while a number of the others excellent voices. Altogether the operat was given by principals and chorus, with a swing that marked the production as a success and a triumph for Major Brusewitz, who was sentenced Miss Shay with the London theatermechanic who jostled him and refused
