LOOKS LIKE A MURDER

At the inquest before Coroner Dr. George W. Graham last night, Dr. Arthur Jukes Johnson, chief coroner, who conducted the post-mortem, testified that the man came to his death from fracture of the skull and other injuries. These, in his opinion, did not result from a fall or from one blow, but from several blows on the head. They might, he said have been caused by a club.

Gallagher left home about 2 o'clock in the morning and said he had visited restaurants on Queen and York streets. Coroner Graham, addressing the jury, stated that the police had visited a series of Chinese places where it was thought the unfortunate man had stopped. They had been as yet unable to get any definite trace of his movements.

The jury returned an open verdict, and the coroner observed that the police would make additional inquiries. Ottawa, Nov. 26.—The insurance bill was before the banking and commerce committee of the Senate this morning. Discussion was confined to the question of whether it would be better to receive representations and arguments from the insurance men and the policyholders before the holidays or afterwards. Opinion on the question was almost equally divided, but it was finally decided not to take the bill up until after the holidays because the committee work could not be finished before Christmas and to divide it would result in repetition and loss of time. When the bill is taken up it will be by sections. A day or more will be given to the investment provisions and evidence, and argument will be altogether confined to that. ## WHY DO SO MANY PEOPLE NOW WEAR GLASSES?

The eye is the most delicate complex organ of the body, yet no part of the physical system suffers greater abuse of neglect. Its character has been imperfectly understood until recently even by scientists. The ages of ignorance, neglect and abuse of the eye on the part of our forefathers is no doubt largely responsible for the prevalence of eye-trouble among their posterity. Much close work is also a cause. Rest lenses should be worn by all who use their eyes constantly for close work.
