Make Their Hostess Pay Penalty.

THE Loch Lomond Chapter, I. O. D. E., the baby chapter in London, has written in its bylaws that any hostess serving too elaborate refreshments at a meeting will be required to pay a penalty of $1. Further provision is made that refreshments, to be within bounds, cannot include more than one kind of sandwich with tea or coffee, or, as an alternative, bread and butter and one kind of cake. Firm intention of living up to its bylaws was manifested by the chapter Monday, when the hostess of the afternoon, out of the generosity of her heart, served tea dainties that exceeded the prescribed number. The members of the chapter enjoyed, but they were inexorable on the point of insisting that she pay her fine of $1, to go to work the chapter is undertaking.

A very quiet and pretty wedding took place at high noon on Wednesday, April 12, at the home of Mrs. Mae Ellis, Paisley, when her eldest daughter, Gladys May, was married to Elmer Anson Garland, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Garland, of Carleton Place. The bride entered the room leaning on the arm of her brother Howard, to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by her sister, Annabel. The bride was becomingly gowned in embroidered navy blue tulle. Only immediate friends witnessed the ceremony, which was followed by a dainty luncheon. The happy couple left on the afternoon train for their wedding trip to Hamilton, Toronto, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Buffalo. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Garland will reside in Paisley.

Suggests Memorial For Great Londoner

A Toronto reader of The Advertiser has written as follows with regard to a short article which appeared in the women's department on Wednesday, April 19:

I was interested in the report of the Saunders reunion. Mr. William Saunders was my Sunday school teacher in the old New Connexion Methodist Church on Clarence street, when he was a young druggist just out of his apprenticeship with Dr. Salter. I have often wondered why London has not erected some fitting memorial to that wonderful man, whose work has been worth millions of dollars to the agriculturists and horticulturists of Canada. As a musician myself of third generation, though now somewhat in "the sear and yellow leaf," I am pleased to know that the Saunders family takes such an interest in music. J. W. H. Toronto, April 20.

LOSS OF APPETITE

Pimples, Boils, Eruptions, etc.—Mental and Physical Weakness. Are all very prevalent just now, and are positive proof that the blood is wanting in the power to defend the body against contagious and infectious diseases. They show conclusively that the blood needs thorough cleansing, enriching and vitalizing.

Do not put off giving attention to these dangerous symptoms. Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today and begin taking it at once. Remember, this medicine has given satisfaction to three generations, as a treatment for the blood, stomach, liver and kidneys, and for catarrh, rheumatism and other common diseases. It builds up the system, makes food taste good, and helps you to eat and sleep well. For a gentle laxative or an active cathartic, take Hood's Pills. You will like them.

GUIDERS CARRY HOME SWEETEST MEMORIES

Provincial Training Camp Breaks Up Monday—Farewell Visit Paid Commissioner.

"Qualifying for the 200-yard dash?" was the question gaily called after two young women in the Guide officers' uniform as they raced across the Grand Trunk platform for their train Monday afternoon, swinging between them a big suitcase. Tucked under the "out" arm was a huge oblong box. Half a dozen merry faces looked out of the vestibule doors, faces of Guide leaders, each of whom had arrived a few minutes earlier, a big box of sweets tucked under her arm.

It was the last of the second Ontario provincial Guide leaders' camp, homeward bound after a memorable Easter week at the Cronyn farm.

"Only thing we could not get out of the farm," was the way they explained the candy boxes.

Camp broke up Monday morning with folding of bedding and packing up of cots and regretful farewells to every nook and corner of the fascinating old grey stone house of the many balconies, with final visits to the trout-dappled river bank, the flower-dappled, wooded hillsides, the spring, from which gushed the purest, coldest, sweetest water in the world.

Lunch was the last meal together, then the trip by motor into the city, with a visit on the way downtown to the provincial commissioner, Mrs. P. P. Betts, at her Queen's avenue home.

Had the week been a satisfactory one?

"It was a wonderful camp," the girls chorused enthusiastically. "But we didn't get quite so much work done as we expected," said an honest maiden. "You see, we had so many visitors."

Thursday only was to be visitors' day, according to original plans, but with a sizeable snow-storm the night before and cold that made even a Girl Guide shiver, the less hardy "general public" couldn't be expected to choose such a day for a pleasure jaunt to the country. That a pleasure jaunt to the country. That a pleasure jaunt to the country. That a pleasure jaunt to the country.

Especially welcome among the distinguished visitors was the Dominion commissioner, Mrs. H. D. Warren of Toronto who, without even a telegram of warning, suddenly appeared at the Cronyn farm, inspecting everything as enthusiastically as the girls themselves had done, going out with the members of the class to see them build their fires and engage in other tests, and declaring herself delighted with all she saw, and keenly interested in the provincial training camp.

A few were obliged to go home Saturday, the majority rejecting they were able to stay for the quiet Sunday, the service conducted by Rev. G. Q. Warner, and the "last of everything."
