

The following item from the Quebec telegrams of Monday last will explain the cause of the great infant mortality in the Founding Hospital:—

"A male child well developed, was left during the sharp frost of last night at the door of the Sisters of Charity, wrapped in a blanket. When found this morning the child was dead."

HOME RULE FOR IRELAND:—But a few months ago a speck upon the political horizon of Ireland appeared. It was despised by some, derided by others, condemned by the Orange man and Castle Catholic alike in Ireland, and by the demagogues elsewhere whose brains steeped in Kentucky Bourbon have lost all discriminatory powers if at any time they were possessed of such a valuable commodity, and whose pockets materially depend for expansion upon the thoughtlessness of their less educated countrymen whose passions they would arouse and whose dollars they would possess. In speaking of these demagogues, it must be borne in mind that we are far from imputing the inference or the consequence of the term demagogue to all of those who have expressed their condemnation of the Home Rule movement. We know, and have the honor and pleasure of knowing some of as good Irishmen as ever breathed Irish air, who, wanting more than legislative independence, are not willing to work for less than their ideal. These are those who would die to-morrow for Ireland on the battlefield or scaffold; they are in their several localities known to our people, and hence it will not be understood that we apply the term demagogue to any save those who are so notoriously, and whose reputations being either lost or quickly approaching that happy consummation, cannot be seriously hurt by anything that we may say, the speck of a few months ago has marvellously increased. From end to end of the Holy Island, the people are falling into line. The journals of most antagonistic opinions are uniting upon this one point, "That no power on earth save the people of Ireland on Irish soil have any right to make laws for Ireland." This truth should be remembered by the demagogue as well as by the foreign government in Ireland. It is the Irish people at home who are concerned in this matter, and we in far-distant lands should aid, if possible, a movement guarded and guided by the incorruptible Martin the indefatigable Butt, the energetic Smyth and the learned Galbraith and evidently approved of by the people. Let us—taking it for granted that by peaceable means Home Rule can be achieved—imagine the benefits that would accrue therefrom. Ireland would have control of her revenues. Ireland would not have Cobden Acts. Ireland would not be cursed by absenteeism. Ireland would not be as she is a disarmed country. Ireland would have her militia and then dare insult after insult be hurled at her when her children would be free, would be at home, controlling their own revenues, and carrying their own rifles. It may be argued that Home Rule is not obtainable. To this we can answer, that the ablest men in Ireland say it is, and it would appear that it is too late now to elog with adverse opinions this national movement. The premier of England has challenged John Martin to test the confidence of the Irish people. Martin has not shrunk from the contest. He, depending upon the ever faithful people has taken up the gauntlet thrown down by Mr. Gladstone. He appeals in Ireland's name to Irishmen the world over, to join their voices in union with their kindred at home and to make it heard above the tempests of English passions, the sneers of those badly-informed Scotchmen at Aberdeen who by-the-way have no right at all to interfere with Ireland's business, the ravings of the Castle-Catholics and the Orangemen, that the Irish people at home and abroad are as one man upon this question and that come weal or woe, that their hands have been placed on the plough and that it is not in the power of man or demon to force their resignation of the immortal right of a people to make its own laws, to enjoy its own industries, to have its own defences in a word to be freemen and not the serfs of a government which disclaims the idea of being a paternal one and consequently is the more oppressive.

TIERNAN O'GE.

We beg to inform our friends in Antigonish, N.S., and neighborhood that ANGUS M'ISAAC, Esq., has kindly consented to act as agent for the TRUE WITNESS. We would also inform our Halifax friends that Mr. THOS. O'CONNOR has kindly consented to act as Agent for his locality. Both gentlemen are now prepared to receive subscriptions and grant receipts therefor. We hope our friends in both places will not be slow in calling upon them and leaving their orders.

BISHOP HORAN AT LINDSAY.—CONFIRMATION IN ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

Last week we gave a report of an ordination in the R. C. Church in this town—this morning we briefly notice the interesting ceremony of confirmation which took place on the following Sunday.—The service of the day began at half-past ten o'clock, the church being densely crowded, and was conducted by the Right Rev. Bishop Horan, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Browne, of Port Hope, Rev. Mr. Coyle, of Emily and Ennismore, and the Rev. Mr. O'Connell, of Douro. The Rev. Mr. Stafford, Rector of the Church, occupied a seat in the sanctuary.

At the close of the ordinary service of the day the ceremony of confirmation took place. The children for confirmation, to the number of 333, occupied the front pews—the boys on the right and the girls on the left of the nave. After the Bishop had addressed to them the words of the ordinance, and made the invocations prescribed in the Ritual, they moved up in perfect order, and knelt at the railings. The Bishop, accompanied by two priests, made on the forehead of each postulant the sign of the cross, saying, "I sign thee with the sign of the cross. I confirm thee with the chrism of salvation. In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." His Lordship then addressed a few earnest and solemn words, of exhortation to the newly confirmed, reminding them that by baptism they had become children of the Church, and now by the sacrament of confirmation they were enlisted as soldiers of the cross, Christians by baptism: strong and perfect Christians by confirmation, strong to resist and overcome sin, perfect by the practice of every Christian virtue.

He then complimented the choir on its excellent singing, and noticed

VARIOUS LOCAL MATTERS.

amongst others the improved appearance of the church. He said he was delighted to see it beautified and embellished with such good taste, and to know it was done by the contributions of the children just confirmed. He was proud of their splendid school houses, both in Lindsay and Ops, and the manner in which they were conducted. Parents gave the best possible proof of their own good sense and superior intelligence by showing a proper appreciation of the VALUE OF EDUCATION.

and by making the necessary sacrifices to procure the highest and the best for their children. He said of the Separate School House, in Lindsay, that it was an ornament to the town, and would be a credit to any city in Canada. Next came the

there the Bishop spoke warmly. He urged the members to persevere in spite of the sneers of bad men, and the snares of the devil. He reminded them that the drunkard would never see God—that the intemperate use of ardent spirits made the drunkard and the use of them led to the intemperate use. That intoxicants were a poison both to the soul and body, the bane of society, a curse to Irish Catholics whenever used by them, and the cause in our day and country of almost all the vices, crimes and misery, that afflict us. He again urged on them to be firm and steadfast, and to place their trust in God—health, happiness and prosperity, in this world, eternal life in the next, would be the fruit, the crown and glory of their noble conduct. They were brave men; he was proud of them, and admired their generous courage, and only hoped that every parish in his diocese might imitate their example. His concluding words were spoken to the recently established here, exhorting its members to continue in their charitable work, to assist the poor of God, first the poor of their own congregation, but never to offer a deaf ear to the cry of want, from whatever quarter heard. To the poor the profit, to all men salvation, and to God the Glory. Such words are worth a mine of gold. Personally is a fine-looking man, about medium height, stout, with well defined features, high forehead, intelligent expression, and grey eyes. His appearance is dignified, his voice is sweet, and well toned and cultivated; he looks like one made to command, and yet is said to hold a gentle rein.—Canadian Post.

GRAND CEREMONY AT ST. ANN'S CHURCH.—On Sunday last, took place in St. Ann's Church a religious ceremony which has rarely, if ever, been witnessed in Canada—the consecrating of three new and magnificent marble altars just erected therein. The service which began at 8 o'clock, a.m., lasted until nearly two in the afternoon, and was participated in by Bishop Pinnamont of Montreal, Bishop Laroque of St. Hyacinthe, Bishop Goobland of Burlington, and Arch-Bishop Tache of Manitoba. The altars are masterpieces of the sculptor's art, and were designed, in part, by Mr. Michael O'Brien, one of our young and talented citizens, and executed by Mr. Forsythe. The conception and execution, are, in every detail, highly classic and masterly, and speak creditably both for the artist who designed and the worker who executed. They cost between $5,000 and $6,000. The mass sang on the occasion was Mozart's 12th, and the manner of its rendition certainly reflects the highest credit on the choir, composed of members from the Bishopric, St. Patrick's church, and the chorists of St. Ann's itself. Mr. John Sheridan, the Conductor, also deserves the praise of the congregation for the able manner in which he managed the vocal and instrumental performance. The choir consisted of not less than 100 artists. The "Incarnatus" solo, sung by the Rev. Mr. Lefebvre, of the Montreal College, was particularly fine, as also the execution of Mr. P. J. Caran, the talented young organist of this church. A number of lay gentlemen were invited by the worthy parish priest, Rev. Mr. Hogan, to be present, among whom were noticed the Mayor, Messrs. M. P. Ryan, M. P. P. Cassidy, B. Devlin, Dr. Hingston, and others. At seven o'clock in the evening grand Vespers and musical Benediction took place, on which occasion the grand altar was illuminated by over 1,000 gas jets. The sight was simply gorgeous, and the effect magnificent. During the service a very eloquent sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Egan of St. Patrick's church.

ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday evening of last week as two of the Sisters of Providence were coming into the city in the carriage of the cure of Ottawa St. Louis, the horse run away when near St. Jean Baptiste village and threw the unfortunate occupants of the carriage out on the ground. They escaped with sundry bruises of a more or less painful nature, and were placed under the care of Dr. Poitevin.

Lost in the woods.—The circumstances attending the loss of two little boys of Mr. Murray, of Lake Megantic, last week, are most heartrending. The Montreal Gazette thus describes the melancholy accident:—"It seems that one day last week the little fellows strayed away from home, missed their way and became entangled in the woods. Every effort possible was made for their recovery by Mr. Murray, his friends and the residents in the neighborhood. But no trace of them was discovered till last Tuesday, when they were both found after five days, wandering in the woods. The younger one had succumbed to hunger and cold, and slept in peace. The oldest one was alive and well, except his being rather thirsty. When found he was digging a hole in the ground to obtain water. When asked where his brother was, he replied that he had died that morning, and that he left him where he died. The little fellow's story is that the first night they lay down under a tree but did not sleep any, the night seeming very long to them. The next night was very cold, and Donald, the younger, put his feet under his brother's, and the surviving one put his with them to keep them warm. He said he got four berries, which he gave to his younger brother, but did not like to eat leaves for fear that he might get some that were poison.

The crops of the present season are now so far saved, and the results ascertained, that the harvest may safely be pronounced the most plentiful that has blessed the labours of the husbandman in Canada during the past ten years, if not for a longer period. Fall wheat averages over a large extent of country more than double what it has done for many years past. Peas and oats have been a noble crop, and barley has yielded well. Every grain has given a good return for the labour bestowed on it. Farmers regard this as a sign of further prosperity, and they have taken advantage of it by doubling the breadth of wheat sown this fall, and making preparations for more extended operations.—Canada Farmer.

Says the Goderich Signal—The lake shore in this vicinity has never before presented such a scene of shipwreck as at the present time. Several of the vessels which were stranded two weeks ago have gone to pieces with the storm of last Thursday night, and large quantities of lumber, flour, and other valuable material, are now floating about the shores, and drifting to and fro in every direction as the wind veers. Some of our farmers, who live in the immediate neighbourhood of the lake are likely to make a double harvest this season, having the advantage, if so disposed, of reaping good crops by water as well as by land. It is understood that great quantities of very valuable property have been picked up, and much more may be expected if the wind blows in a landward direction.

The Galt Reporter says that never before was there such scarcity of water in this part of the Province as there is now. Wells cisterns, ponds, and even rivers are almost dry and all descriptions of stock are suffering in consequence. Farmers are driving their cattle miles to water, and carting the precious liquid in barrels to their homes while those living in towns have to exert themselves in many places to get enough for ordinary cleanliness. The Grand River never has been as low for years, and manufacturers along the banks have to submit to only keeping their factories open an hour or two a day.

The Ingersoll Chronicle warns farmers and others against being imposed upon by a number of sharpers now travelling through the country peddling shoddy cloth, which they represent as good, durable goods. The cloth is generally done up in parcels which they offer for $25. They represent themselves as agents for an insurance company, to whom the goods belong, and that the company will "sacrifice" the goods in order to make a speedy clearance of the stock. We know of several farmers in North and West Oxford who have been swindled by these fellows. On closely examining the cloth, it is found to be utterly valueless. Farmers beware!

A statement has just been published in a "Blue Book" which sets forth the advance that has taken place for the year ending June, 1871, in the exports of the Dominion. It appears that in 1870 there was sent away articles and produce to the value of $73,573,000, while last year it had increased to $74,143,000, being an advance of $570,000. In the imports a still greater onward movement presented itself, the figures being in 1870, $74,804,000, as against $85,857,000 last year, the increase being not less than $21,053,000. These figures are eloquent in the lesson they convey of the prosperity of the country.

The number of arrivals of vessels up to the present time during the season was 575, against 550 at the same period last year. The departures up to this date were 520, against 514 last year.—Witness Saturday.

The Toronto Express, complains that all the grand promises made by the promoters to the narrow gauges, with regard to "cheap" cordwood is being evaded, and that instead of these roads being worked for the "public" interests, they are being manipulated for the benefit of a few.

On Friday evening last, a murderous assault was committed on Mr. T. P. Thompson, editor of the Sporting Times, Toronto, while quietly proceeding to his home. The assault was perpetrated by that most despicable of all creatures, "Whiskey" Mase.—Gazette.

The Shamrock Lacrosse Club of this city have accepted the challenge of the Toronto Club, and will play a champion match in that city on Saturday next.

David Barringer, of Brighton, who was arrested some time ago for the murder of his wife was tried and convicted of the crime at the recent assizes at Cobourg, and sentenced to be hanged on the 14th December next.

The Montreal Star says:—We learn that Mr. Charles O'Brien, who defended John Lee—sentenced to death for the murder of Mrs. Foster—has taken steps to obtain from the Executive a commutation of the sentence to imprisonment for life. How would a Murderers' Pension Fund take? The Province sadly needs a roomy establishment, nicely situated and furnished, with all modern conveniences, to be styled "The Murderers' Retreat" or the "Homicides' Home." Who will give the first brick?
