So declared Bernard Noel Langdon-Davies in the course of an address to the University Literary Society in Convocation Hall yesterday after-noon. Conviction that this high ideal will ultimately be attained was ex-pressed by the speaker, altho he be-lieves that many mistaken ideas now held by the nations will have to be done away with before this great re-form can be finally obtained. In introducing the speaker, Princi-pal Hutton of University College said that of the five great institutions working directly or indirectly for the obtaining of peace relations between the world powers, the institution of Manchester, England, which Mr. Langdon-Davies represented was one of the most prominent. "The tendency towards increasing the armaments of the various na-tions," declared Mr. Davies, "is be-coming marked to a degree which has lately assumed alarming proportions, and the great expenditure entailed has been draining the very life blood of the nations of Europe. They are nearing a state of bankruptoy. "In a recent speech Winston Churchill was quoted as saying that the only way for England to be safe was to be so strong that no other na-tion would dare to attack her. A German statesman a little later made the same identical statement, and it was apparent that the tactics of both nations would result in a great ex-penditure of money by each power. A tendency feit by every power was that every other power was threatening to attack them." Ine Leader, JIVU An unusually good value. Ask to see it, and hear play it. The fear that the Germans or any other people would capture Canada was pointed out to be ludicrous by the speaker, who stated that the only ad-vantage to the Germans in Canada if the flag of their country was floating over Canada would be that they would have to undergo the military training which they heartily detested. The effect of war, or even a rumor of it, upon the money market of the world was referred to as disastrous. The theory that the most warlike peo-After attending a lecture at 11 T.
