Canadian Press Despatch.

SARAYEVO, June 29.—The official account issued today of the assassination of the archduke and duchess after stating that the deadly effect of the murderous bullets was explained by the extreme closeness of the range proceeds:

ceeds:

"The Duchess of Hohenberg collapsed against her husband, and Field-Marshal Oskar Potiorek thought she had merely fainted from the shock. He was strengthened in this belief by the fact that the archduke and duchess exchanged a few words in a low voice.

"It was not until the field-marshal turned round after giving instructions to the chauffeur to proceed to the governor's palace that he noticed the archduke, while still sitting quietly upright, had his open mouth full of blood.

"When the car stopped before the palace the duchess was unconscious. After she had been lifted from the car the archduke collapsed in the seat.

"The archduke died about a quarter of an hour afterwards, and a few mindered with advances expured withof an hour afterwards, and a few utes later the duchess expired with-out either of them regaining con-

A report was current here today that the archduke's last words to his wife were: "Sophie live for our children."
The fact that the duchess collapsed against her husband was probably responsible for the story that she threw her arms around his neck.

The elegance of the midsummer hoslery makes it worthy of being counted among the iuxuries of the moment. The reason of their extreme refinement may be explained by the tendency of Dame Fashion to shorten the skirts and to don low-cut shoes. Black silk stockings have embroidered on the instep gold or silver wheat ears or an ornament of colored beads giving an effect of iridescent jewelry which is very elaborate. Many stockings are embroidered with colored wreaths or with large clocks on the sides, and in the case of colored models the embroidered patterns are in a complimentary shades, old gold or blue emerald green or violet being in the height of popular favor.

Those who have tried all sorts of "wrinkle-removers" vain effort to lose those unwelcome traces of age, illness or worry, can scarcely find words to express their delight with the wonderful saxolite formula, once they have given it a trial. The success of this method is due not alone to its marvelous effectiveness—upon the deepest lines and crowsfeet, as well as upon the very fine ones—but also to its surprisingly quick action and its entire harmless ness. DOUBLE MURDER WELL THOUGHT OUT

Danger to Austrian Empire if Victims Warned of Plots Against Lives, But Persisted in Course.

LONDON, June 29—Every despatch today from Sarayevo and Vienna brings additional evidence that the assessination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the DDuchess of Hohenberg was one of the most carefully planned was one of the most carefully planned crimes every attempted and carried out against royal personages.

Indications from the scene of the bloody tragedy show that it was engineered by persons possessing more mature organizing ability than that of the youthful assassins. It is generally thought in Austria and Hungary that the plotters had their headquarters in Belgrade, the Servian capital. Servian hatred of Austrians, which always has been violent, has, it is pointed out, recently been fomented by the newspapers in Belgrade, and by agitators thruout Servia and Bosnia, who have heiped to inflame the minds of the students and to induce them to sacrifice their lives in the belief that they will go down to history as patriots.

Yesterday's crime seems likely to have a contrary effect to that desired by its authors, for even before the bodies of the murdered couple have been interred the Austrian authorities already are contemplating strengthening their forces among the inhabitants of Herzegovina and Bosnia, and likely further to embitter the relations between the two countries, as well as those between Austria and Russia, the protector of all the Serbs.

Archduke Francis Ferdinand, it is asserted today, was well aware of the danger he was running during his tour danger he was running during his tour of Bosnia, which he undertook as indanger he was running during his tour of Bosnia, which he undertook as inspector-general of the forces of the empire, a title which had been conferred upon him last year by Emporor Francis Joseph. His chief task was to dispect the Austrian army which had guarded the Servian frontiers during the recent Balkan wars and prevented any encroachments by Servian trocts. The Servian minister at Vienna told Archduke Francis Ferdinand of the peril of his visit to Sarayevo at the present time and implored him even if he insisted on going there himself, at least to leave the duchess at home. When the Duchess of Hohenberg was informed, however, of the dangerous nature of the journey the archduke was about to take, she said her place was at her husband's side.
