INCREASE IN RATES NOW PROPOSED

The proposal of the executives was submitted to the commission by Mr. Thom, after a conference with its members.

It had been worked out at a series of conferences of railroad officials here since the announcement of the wage award by the labor board at Chicago last Tuesday.

The commission made no comment on receiving the proposal, and did not indicate whether it would order hearings on the billion-dollar freight rate increases. Cases were concluded two weeks ago, and the general expectation has been that the commission would grant a single increase to cover both that and the added expense resulting from the wage advances, so as to permit the filing of the new tariffs before the government guarantee to the railroads expires on Sept. 1, under the terms of the transportation act.

The total increases from all sources of revenue, in each of the three railroad classification territories, would correspond to the estimated increase of wages in those territories, and would be as follows:

Eastern ..... $318,723,935
Southern ..... 69,009,495
Western ..... 237,281,658

Under the executives' estimates the proposed increase in passenger rates would yield an annual return of $111,668,982 in eastern territory, $20,826,400 in southern, and $92,832,599 in western. The additional increase in freight rates would be ten per cent. in eastern territory, yielding $182,020,541, 8.56 per cent. in southern territory, yielding $25,796,296, and 2.25 per cent. in western territory, yielding $122,951,208.

The total increase in freight rates, resulting from the two proposals of the railroads, would be 36.75 per cent. in eastern territory, 38.81 in southern, and 32.03 in western territory.

The surcharge on Pullman fares in the east would be $17,556,104, in the south $5,552,056, and in the west $20,231,200.

The increased charge on hauling milk would be $6,956,418 in the east, $252,115 in the south, and $1,455,558 in the west. The increase in excess baggage charges was estimated at $527,588 in the east, $180,017 in the south, and $713,090 in the west.

CITY NEGLIGENT IS JURY VERDICT

Find That No Measures Are Taken For Sewer-worker's Safety.

A charge of negligence was brought against the city last night by the jury at the inquest into the death of William Greenough, 173 Sumach street, who died while working in a man-hole 17 feet deep at the corner of Scott and Front streets.

In the absence of a crown attorney the inquest was conducted by Coroner J. W. Russell, in summing up the case the coroner informed the jury that they had to decide whether death was caused by an epileptic fit induced by gas acting on a weak stomach, or by asphyxiation due to the absence of oxygen. If the man had been seized by epilepsy, the coroner pointed out, and had a weak stomach, the jury must decide if the man should have been allowed to work in the man-hole. Further, if death was due to asphyxiation, was someone to blame for the absence of oxygen?

The jury's opinion was to the effect that Greenough had been killed by suffocation, and that the city was to blame in that no precaution was taken for the man's safety, and that he was allowed to work in the man-hole 10 hours a day without being visited. Greenough was a returned soldier who suffered the amputation of one arm.

GERMAN MINERS WILL CO-OPERATE

Resolutions by Organizations Indicate Intention to Aid in Reconstruction.

Berlin, July 22.—The attitude of the German coal miners with regard to Germany's engagements at the Spa conference seemingly is indicated by resolutions passed by various miners' organizations. These resolutions testify that it is the intention of the miners to do their utmost to co-operate in the reconstruction of the European economic situation, but express grave doubt whether Germany's engagements are susceptible of being carried out.

Three of the principal Ruhr mining organizations were summoned by the government to Berlin this week to discuss the situation. One of them, through its delegates, laid down a condition of freedom from taxation on overtime, wages, the readjustment of the taxation scheme, and better food for the miners. Another group, including from the miners' Nordhausen, passed a resolution fully endorsing the statement made by Otto Huis, president of the German Miners' National Association, at Spa, and declared solidarity with the International Miners' Union in combating imperialism.

This group also declared its intention to remain passive in the event of foreign occupation of the Ruhr, but added that it would not allow to resist any attempt at enslaving German labor.

SKELETONS SHOW FATE OF SOLDIERS

Bodies at Suvla Bay Found Locked With Turks in a Grim Struggle.

Special Cable to The New York Times. London, July 22.—One of the mysteries of the war fate of a battalion of an English territorial regiment, the 5th Norfolk, in the fighting at Suvla Bay, Gallipoli, has at last been solved. Sir Ian Hamilton, in his despatch on the fighting around Anafarta on Aug. 12, 1915, referred to the fate of this battalion as a very mysterious thing. On the night of attack they found themselves less strenuously opposed than the rest of the force, and the report "and under Col. Sir H. Beauchamp the men eagerly pressed forward. Some were wounded or exhausted, and found their way back to camp."

But the colonel, with sixteen officers and 250 men, continued General Hamilton's despatch, "still kept pushing, driving the enemy before them. Amongst these ardent souls was part of a line company enlisted from the King's Sandringham estate. Nothing more was ever seen or heard of them. They were charged into a forest and were lost to sight and sound. Not one of them ever came back."

The forest into which the battalion gallantly charged was never retaken by British troops. A few men who fell into the hands of the Turks, it was afterwards found, had fallen out of the attack earlier, and not a man of Col. Beauchamp's force was made prisoner.

The Rev. C. S. Edwards, who has just returned from a visit to the peninsula on graves registration work, says that on going over Anafarta Plain he found skeletons of men of the 5th and 6th Norfolk, the 5th Suffolk and 5th Hampshire, more than a mile in front of what was afterwards the British first-line trench.

Apparently the battalions had advanced in perfect order, and to all appearances had been caught by machine gun fire. One man had taken cover behind a stone, and a large pile of empty cartridges was found near him. It showed that he had defended himself to the last.

Just behind the Norfolk front line Mr. Edwards came across the remains of about fifty men who had fallen in the hands of the Turks. Touching each other lay bodies of British and Turkish, the heads of the latter facing seaward and those of the attackers toward their adversaries' lines.
