As Fine and Accurate As a Beautiful Watch

In the fineness of the work—in the perfection of every detail of designing, and shaping, and putting together of the individual parts—a Fit-Reform garment closely resembles an expensive watch.

The accuracy of the watch depends on the perfection of the hidden parts. So with a Fit-Reform garment.

The intricate hand tailoring of the parts you do not see, makes possible the perfection of fit, the long wear, the elegant appearance of Fit-Reform Suits and Overcoats.

ARTIST LOSES BRIDE IN STORM ON LAKE MICHIGAN

Former Anna Mitchell, Painter, of New York, Drowned Off Racine, Wis.—Washed from Motor Boat.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—A thrilling story of having clung to his overturned motor boat six miles out in Lake Michigan off Racine, Wis., for eighteen hours and seeing his bride of six weeks whom he had chained to the centreboard, washed off by the waves after an eight-hour struggle was told on Sunday by John A. Jones, a landscape artist, following his rescue. His bride was Anna Mitchell, a portrait painter of New York. No trace of her body has been found.

Mr. Jones was rescued by the fishing tug William J. Jones, and is in a serious condition at a Racine Hospital.

Mr. Jones and his bride were on their honeymoon. Jones obtained a divorce last July from his first wife, who was Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, the Socialist, and married Miss Mitchell at Crown Point, Aug. 18. Her family had objected to the match and so the two eloped. They had left Chicago on their honeymoon in an eighteen-foot launch, which carried a square sail. The put in to Ephraim, Wis., Aug. 21, with much difficulty. A storm had disabled the boat and it was half swamped. They went as far as Washington Island, subsequently and were on their return trip. They left Milwaukee Saturday afternoon.

At 3 o'clock the motor suddenly stopped. The waves were high, and while Mr. Jones tinkered with the motor the day passed into night and suddenly the boat capsized.

"I found my wife struggling in the water," Mr. Jones said tonight. "I got her into the boat after I had righted it. I put her in the bow. Then came another heavy sea and the crazy boat tipped over again."

"Then I got the chain and fastened the poor girl. I thought she was secure, but the waves released her from the chain, shot her into the lake and carried her beyond my reach."

Meantime, I had been burning clothing soaked in gasoline. Nobody saw the signal. Nobody came. I saw passing craft all day today but could not attract the attention of any of them."

THE WOODSTOCK EXHIBITION

Woodstock, N. B., Sept. 15.—This, the third day of the Woodstock provincial exhibition, was marked by better weather and the crowd began arriving early. Between 9,000 and 10,000 passed through the gates as well as hundreds of automobiles. In the evening the crowds moved restlessly through the brilliant lights gives to the grounds a brightness and animation of scene that attracts. Down through the midway one can hear the wild uproar of the showmen—"orators," the crash of music from the many shows, the shouts of the hot dog vendors interspersed with the cries of alarm from the first visit to the "whip" and the other thrilling creatures of enjoyment. There is an almost endless opportunity to "take a chance" on anything from a baby teddy bear to hitting a nigger in the head and getting a ten cent cigar, like of anyone being dry for those things that are not barred by prohibition are to be had in all quantities, even two per cent. One can be separated from an endless chain of dimes and have lots of fun in doing it.

Most of the live stock were judged today, a big interest being taken in the live stock sheds. The prize winners have their ribbons displayed and the showing made exceeds all previous records. There was the keenest competition in all classes. Interested spectators could be seen in earnest debate over the merits of the respective winners. It will be of interest to local fanciers of Holsteins to know that the exhibition of this breed is especially good, a heifer coming in for very special commendation. This animal is to be shown in the Chicago exhibition. It is said the owners have received a refusal of an offer of $1,500 for this animal.

A Contest.

An interesting contest featured at the exhibition was the live stock judging competition open to young men not exceeding twenty-six years of age. A dozen young men faced four hard classes of stock, heavy horses, dairy cattle, beef cattle and sheep, which were brought in to the arena to test the young men's judgment. The young men were given twenty minutes to express their opinions, having to place the animals and write their reasons in that time. After each class had been judged, E. P. Bradt, deputy minister of agriculture, who supervised the competition, called upon the exhibition judge in the respective classes to judge the animals and tell the young men reasons for so placing them. A committee consisting of the exhibition judges and Mr. Bradt corrected the cards submitted and gave each competitor his standing. The final summing up showed that Ralph Lloyd, Gordonville (N. B.), sixteen years of age, was the winner of the handsome cup donated by E. W. Muir, Woodstock.

It was interesting to note that the first six young men, listed in order of proficiency, were students who attended the agriculture course at the Carleton county vocational school, Woodstock. These young men, together with their classmates, expect to again enter this institution this fall to complete their two years' course. To become the permanent property of a person the cup for judging must be won two years in succession. The Woodstock exhibition executive is to be congratulated on its featuring a contest of this nature, as it is by such educational medium as this that the standard of live stock will be raised and maintained.

Tomorrow is children's day and it goes without saying that the little tots will have the time of their young lives. They will march to the grounds under the guidance of their teachers and of course their big attraction will be the midway.

The weather looks good and if tomorrow opens well there will undoubtedly be a record-breaking crowd.
