The following appears in the current issue of the "Globe": "All placer claims and tenements on Vancouver island and adjacent islands, and in New Westminster district, which are legally held, may be laid over from date to the 1st June, 1895."

Louis Olsen, once a respectable member of society, and formerly a schooner captain, was in the police court today, charged with supplying liquor to Indians. He had been there before, and upon his conviction Magistrate Macrae dealt with him severely. He fined him $100 with one dollar costs, and if in default he ordered him imprisoned for four months. Olsen will very likely have to go to jail and serve out his time.

The Lincoln, Rutland and Stamford Mercury of October 19th says: "News reached Plymouth on Monday of a terrible gun accident on board the Satellite cruiser, on the Pacific station. In firing a salute the head of a gun cartridge exploded, with the result that a gunner's mate, the name of whom is unknown, had his head blown off. The cartridge, owing to improper loading, is supposed to have been defective."

A Seattle dispatch says: "It is asserted that the reason of District Passenger Agent George McL. Brown's visit to Seattle on Tuesday last was to make inquiry into the disturbed and threatening condition of passenger rates on the coast and at Portland. In connection with Travelling Passenger Agent Calder Mr. Brown yesterday left for Portland. The Canadian Pacific will not be slow to meet any cut made by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific."

General Roberts, United States consul, received a letter this morning asking him to write a history of the Nineteenth regiment, North Carolina infantry, during the war. Dr. Gustavus Hamilton Griffin, the notorious swindler who served a term in the penitentiary at New Westminster, has been married to the daughter of a Chicago candy store. So says a dispatch from Chicago. It was known that the doctor was operating in Chicago but it was thought that his courtship of the fair cashier had been brought to an abrupt end by the exposure of his swindling. Evidently the doctor's silver tongue succeeded in winning his bride over to his side.

The sloop Irene was stolen from Port Townsend harbor on Wednesday in broad daylight and it is thought was brought across the border. In plain view of a dozen people, a well-dressed stranger went aboard the sloop, raised the anchor, got under way and sailed out of the harbor. The Irene was well equipped with provisions and supplies, and in one of the chests was a considerable sum of money. The deed was so bold that no one expected that the sloop was being stolen until she got well down the straits, with a stiff breeze astern.

The United States revenue cutter Richard Rush, Captain Hooper, has arrived at Port Townsend from San Francisco en route to the north end of Vancouver Island to search for the wreck of the sloop Irene. On the receipt of orders from the department the Rush will take on fuel and sail for the north. Captain Hooper says he will make a thorough search along the coast, calling at all the Indian settlements and trading posts to make enquiries. He will be absent two weeks or more, if necessary.

There was an interesting dog case heard in the police court today. Frank Higgins recently lost a valuable canine, and after advertising for it and searching the town over found that it was in the possession of a man named Mark Lepine. The latter acted very strangely all through the transaction, and it was only after a week's delay that Mr. Higgins forced him to give the dog up. The latter had Lepine summoned for stealing the dog, and as stated, the case came up for hearing in the police court today. Lepine was convicted and fined $20, with $4.50 costs. If he fails to pay he will be imprisoned for a month.

At a meeting of the Quesnell Quartz Mining Company, held at Quesnell yesterday, a proposition, which will probably lead to the working of the mine on a large scale, was submitted and adopted. There were about 250,000 shares represented at the meeting. The proposal is to give a syndicate a little more than a half interest in the Hixon creek mine on the condition that $100,000 is spent in the property. The intention is to work ore by the cyanide process, tests having demonstrated that 95 per cent. of the gold can be saved by that method. It is expected that arrangements will be concluded during the winter and that the new company will be organized and ready to begin operations next summer.

Officer Abel received information that the Chinaman was in the shed, but arrived too late to be of any assistance, the Chinaman dying a few minutes after the officer's arrival. THE CAPTAIN'S STORY.

He Gives His Version of the Case of the Bark Detroit.

The crew of the American bark Detroit were paid off by Captain Rice at the United States consulate this morning. Five dollars were deducted from each of their salaries according to arrangement between them and the master of the bark. Captain Rice, speaking to a Times man, said:

"I wish to remove an impression that has been made current that I was acting harshly with the men. The truth is I have acted leniently—too leniently, perhaps. A few days before the crew deserted the bark was inspected and passed by the agent of the board of marine underwriters of San Francisco. I felt satisfied myself that the ship was all right. If I had not done you think that I would have risked the lives of my wife and two little ones. I don't look quite a monster, do I?"

And Captain Rice threw himself back in his chair. He did not look like a tyrannical captain, but had the appearance of being a good hearted kind of a fellow. It was in the office of the U.S. consulate.

"No," the captain acted leniently," joining in General Roberts, the United States consul. "He could have compelled the crew to return or have another survey."

Captain Rice continued: "It is like this—if a man is frightened to go to sea with me that settles it. I don't want him. I have respect for a man's feelings and would not have him think that he is going to a watery grave. That is the reason I granted the men their discharge without further ado. But about the ship leaking—I deny that she was leaking three inches an hour, and even if she did the pumps can discharge 25 inches an hour. There's a diver down my self to-day and have located the leak. It was a very small one, and matters are all fixed up now. I expect to sign her papers and it is thought they will be ready to sail on Sunday morning at the latest. I am glad to have had the opportunity of telling you my version, so that the story can be placed before the public in a proper light."

THE MELANCHOLY JAP.

Matsuo, the Saturna Island Suicide, Was a Recluse.

Dr. Hasell, coroner, and Dr. Lang, who went to Saturna Island on Wednesday, the former to hold an inquest on the body of Matsuo, the Japanese who committed suicide, and the latter to return home last evening. At Plumper Pass on Wednesday morning a jury sworn and the whole party proceeded in boats to Matsuo's ranch on Saturna Island, several miles distant. It was a hard trip, and it was night before they returned. Matsuo carefully planned and carried out his own execution. Closing the cabin and barring the doors and windows, he got into his bunk, from which he evidently shot the dog, as the animal was on the floor facing him. He then put the rifle to his neck and fired. He fell backward and died, evidently without a struggle. Dr. Lang in his evidence said that he had probably been dead for ten days. It developed at the inquest that Matsuo had lived alone on the farm for three years. He shunned the society of his fellow men and became almost a recluse. He was deeply interested in the war and desired to go home and fight for his country. He could not make the trip, and worried into a melancholy state, ending with suicide. The jury returned a verdict of suicide. Matsuo had been an industrious man, for he had cleared thick timber off eight acres of land on the farm.

Esterilla Farm, Rapid City, Man., December 23, 1892. Messrs. DICK & CO., Montreal. Dear Sirs: I have a mare which was foul skinned and hide bound, the hair standing on an end, but after I used one of your Packages of Powders I found a wonderful difference in her appearance, and she is now as sleek and glossy as any animal can be. I shall not be without it in the future.

Yours truly, GEO. GERRY.

The National Shoe and Leather Bank officials have offered a reward of five thousand dollars for the arrest of the absconding book-keeper Seeley.

SIR ADOLPHE HEARD FROM.

He Takes Away $50 From the Allowance of Each Post Office Striker.

The post office strikers will receive their provisional allowance of $10 a month from December 1st next. The unpaid allowance from July 1st to December 1st will not be given to the strikers, and those who kept on with their work will get the back allowance. Such are the statements contained in a dispatch from Ottawa received here last night. An official dispatch was received to-day at the office of Post Office Inspector Fletcher. The dispatch says that the Postmaster-General authorizes the payment to the employees of the Victoria post office of the provisional allowance to the 1st of December. No reference is made in the official dispatch to any discrimination between the men who struck and were affected by the allowance and those who remained at their posts. The post office clerks and carriers are not placed at the conditions imposed by Sir Adolphe Caron, the Postmaster-General. They think it is a hardship that they should be deprived of $50 each for the back months, which sum is justly due them, having been voted by parliament, but realizing that they are in the power of an autocrat they have come to the conclusion, and perhaps a wise one, that they had better submit. However, the matter will not be entirely dropped, as it is understood that the board of trade will again be appealed to, and Sir Adolphe, if he ever makes his appearance in British Columbia, may hear more of the affair. An interesting point in connection with the case is that the mail carriers, who, in common with their fellow employees, were "doctored" for the week of suspension, had to put in extra time after reinstatement and overcome the arrears of work, no others having, as many a Victoria knows who had to walk into town for his mail, been placed on in their stead. The temporary men employed in place of the post office clerks were paid at the rate of $1.50 a day, which would mean $45 a month, while the pay of the regular men was only $30 a month. Postmaster-General said he knew nothing more than was contained in the dispatch to the inspector's office. Moreover, it is claimed by the night clerks that they lost no time till the suspension took effect, and yet they will be "doctored" for several days other than the suspended week. It is learned that the men will receive the munificent salary of $2.10 this month in which to celebrate Christmas and to give holiday cheer to wife and children. They one and all thank Sir Adolphe for his Christmas present.
