Happily, nature is now sending the only cure, which is cooler air. But will New York, which must always expect New York, which must always expect its tropical season, never be better able to meet it than it is now? Shall we continue from summer after summer, to suffer from a mortality like that of an Asiatic city in its worst season? And there is yet another question. Whe e shall we find the remedy, the desired means of preventing this annual decimination of the children of the poor? CHATHAM. - - AUGUST 24, 1882. There is an old graveyard in Saratoga, close by one of the hotels, in which many elose by one of the hotels, in which many distinguished men and women have courted. The venerable sexton says he has had four genuine love cases in this graveyard this season. But glancing back over the years that have gone he recalls scores of cases where, in the old cemetery, beneath the bending branches of its trees "soft eyes looked love to eyes that spake spain."
