TRADANG QUIET IN THE STOCK MARKET

New York, Oct. 9.—Heaviness of the coalers and strength of the southern roads gave today's stock market its only movements of importance. Following a period of moderate activity in the first hour, the market became dull. Trading was without initiative or purpose. The unwillingness of operators on either side to take an aggressive position indicated that the market had been allowed to fall into a rut, pending developments which will give a more decided cast to speculative sentiment. Although the excited selling which kept the market in an hysterical state most of last month has now definitely subsided, security owners have shown no inclination to increase their holdings or take back stocks sold on the decline. It is regarded by most market observers a question whether such a demand is to be looked for until some of the present political uncertainties are dispelled.

The market opened today on a somewhat higher level, but the improvement was of short duration. The coalers were forced down to well below Saturday's close and the remainder of the list sagged with them. Before noon the market had recovered its losses with the exception of the coal stocks and during the remainder of the session changes were only nominal except in a few isolated cases. Reading was heaviest of the coalers, at one time showing a loss of more than two points. The selling of these stocks was associated with the convening today of the Supreme Court, which is soon to pass upon the government's case against Reading in the Anthracite suit. This is the first case of this precise nature to come before the Supreme Court since its promulgation of the "Rule of Reason" in the interpretation of the Sherman Law.

Nothing more definite than a report of a coming extra dividend for Louisville and Nashville was at hand to explain the buoyancy of southern rails.

Both Atlantic Coast line and Louisville and Nashville advanced more than four points, and other southern roads scored smaller gains. The decline in Allis Chalmers securities which began last week, was continued today. The five per cent. bonds sold down to 58, a loss of nearly two points and the preferred stock declined 2 1-4, although both issues subsequently made a partial recovery. Reports that the company was not earning its fixed charges were followed by the official admission that the corporations business had fallen off largely.

A larger increase in copper stocks than had been expected was shown in the September statement of the copper producers. The increase was due chiefly to the heavy shrinkage in foreign consumption, on account of disturbed financial and political conditions abroad, and the interruption of Trans-Atlantic transportation through strikes. The monthly crop report was without influence on stocks, as it was in the main in line with expectations, although the corn estimate was regarded as somewhat disappointing. Further reductions in the prices of various steel products were reported. U. S. Steel sold on these changes, and on a report, subsequently denied officially, that the department of justice was to bring a suit for dissolution of the corporation at once. The stock yielded for a time, but later recovered fully.

Bonds were irregular. Leading issues showed early heaviness, but the general tone improved later. Total sales, par value, $2,570,000. U. S. threes' advanced 1-8 on call.

CLOSING STOCK LETTER.

By Direct Private Wires to J. C. MacIntosh & Co.

New York, Oct. 9.—Taken as a whole today's stock market was dull and uninteresting as compared with some of its recent predecessors with few distinguishing features. The southern railroad group led by L. & N., ruled very strong throughout the day and it seemed that whatever new buying that had come into the market was concentrated upon these shares. The large cotton crop and the relative favorable traffic conditions in Southern territory together with earning powers of Atlantic Coast Line and subsidiaries largely accounts for this demand. On the other hand there were evidences of considerable liquidation in Reading and other stocks, but here too the offering appear to be better absorbed. The general list closed with unimportant changes from last night's close. The strength of the group of stocks mentioned above was in some degree associated with the aggressively bullish financial review published by one of the morning papers which is popularly supposed to be affiliated with Atlantic Coast Line and L. & N. The selection of these media for a more aggressive bullish demonstration was believed to be in conformity with popular investment opinion which has long been favorable to the Southern group of stocks.

COMPANY HELPS MEN TO BUY THEIR HOMES

Publishing Concern of Des Moines Believes Co-Operation is a Good Investment.

DesMoines, Iowa, Oct. 7.—A system of buying homes for employes who return the money advanced by the company in periodical instalments has been inaugurated by the Wallace Publishing Company. Any competent and ambitious employe may select a residence property and obtain funds for its purchase from the company. A contract is then drawn up whereby the employe agrees to return to the company the money advanced for the purchase.

The company does not make a business of handling real estate. It does not buy property, and then urge employes to buy it. All contracts for the loan of money to purchase homes are drawn up at the request of the employe. The man desirous of buying a home picks out the property he wants. Then he brings the proposition to the attention of the firm. The proposed deal is always investigated by the company and the employe is advised as to the advisability of closing the contract. The decision, however, is always left to the man making the purchase. The money is advanced without knowledge on the part of others as to the source of the funds.

Employes are encouraged to repay the money as soon as possible. It is demonstrated to them that the sooner the amount is paid the less interest will be involved. Easy payments and moderate rates of interest are named in the contracts, and no employe is held down to every payment if he can show sufficient cause for not doing so. Unusual expenses, such as those caused by illness, are always taken into consideration in the fulfilment of contracts.

Four homes already have been bought by the company for as many employes. The system is working well and members of the firm declare that the results obtained are worth the trouble to the company. The demonstration of the practicability of the scheme may lead to its adoption by other employes in Des Moines.

Another plan that is original in Des Moines with the publishing company is that of allowing operators on the linotype machines to become owners of their machines by extra work. In addition to their salaries, the men are credited with a certain amount for setting extra copy. As a result, one man has already become owner of an up to date linotype machine and has traded it for a half interest in an Iowa newspaper.

Both of the plans are virtually partnerships between the company and the employes. Through them, loyalty and responsibility are instilled into the employes, according to H. C. Wallace, who declares that there is nothing that will beget more confidence between an employe and his employer than to let him realize that the company stands ready to protect its interests.

"The system of helping our employes is merely a business proposition with us," said Mr. Wallace. "I do not mean that it is a business proposition from the standpoint of the real estate dealings, but in getting better results in the work turned out by the company. The company helps the men merely to demonstrate to them that the company is willing as far as possible, to protect the interests of its employes.

"It is my opinion that the most dependable employes are those who have some responsibilities. The man who buys a home and goes into debt for it certainly has some responsibilities. He knows that he must save his money. Instead of spending his wages extravagantly he saves the money to apply to his property. In times he becomes a full fledged property owner.

KING IN SPLENDID SHOOTING FORM

Fifty Brace of Grouse Fall to Monarch's Gun Out of Day's Total of 200 Pair.

London, Oct. 9.—King George is in first rate shooting form this season, as he again showed the other day, when out of a total bag of 200 brace of grouse on the Micras moors he had fifty brace to his own gun. The gillies speak of the King's prowess with the gun with the most reverend awe. They sometimes speak of it as being "no canny." He is also in excellent health, and although out day after day on the moors, never seem to tire, and is always in the best of spirits on his return about tea time and when entertaining the small dinner parties which are the rule at Balmoral Castle this year.

King George has been looking forward keenly to the deer stalking at Balmoral, which is now beginning. He does not propose to entertain very largely for the deer shooting this year, but a few of his intimate friends and, of course, the principal members of his suite in attendance, have been invited to join him. Prince Henry also accompanies his father, but a pony is taken in order that the young prince may not overtax his strength. The King himself is a capital walker and never seems to tire so long as his quarry is ahead of him. His chief companion is the Duke of Connaught, who, however, is not so good a shot as the King. The forests of Balmoral, Balloochbule and Whitemouth are all well stocked with the lordly red deer this year.

King George Likes Bagpipes.

King George seems to have inherited from his grandmother, Queen Victoria, a liking for the bagpipes, for one now hears almost as much of their melancholy strains in and about the castle as in the old days when the Queen contrived to breakfast to the accompaniment of the pibroch. King Edward entertained a more moderate liking for the pipes, though the pipers paraded the castle every morning before breakfast.

Queen Mary leads a quiet out of doors existence while at Balmoral. Always an early riser the Queen is astir even earlier in the north than at Buckingham Palace. She is usually busy with her secretaries in the morning and generally goes automobiling or driving in the afternoon, accompanied by Princess Mary or by one of the young princes and a lady in waiting.

The Queen also spends some time every day in doing fine needlework, for she is never happier than when, like a chatelaine of the olden times, she can sit sewing with one or two of her ladies in attendance, while some one reads aloud. This love of needlework has been inculcated also in Princess Mary, who has sent many beautiful specimens of her work to the various bazaars in which she is interested.

Skill With Needle Wins Honor.

It is said to be due to her skill as a needlewoman that Miss Venetia Baring owes her position as maid of honor to the Queen. Miss Venita Baring is, of course a stepdaughter of Lady Ashburton, who is a daughter of J. C. Conelly, of New York. Lady Ashburton is herself a particularly skilful needlewoman, especially in Italian embroidery, and the boudoirs and reception rooms at the Grange, Alresford show many specimens of her needlework, which will be handed down as heirlooms.
