OBITUARY

Mrs. Albert Marshall

With feelings of deepest sorrow, we are called upon to record the death of Sybil, beloved wife of Albert Marshall, and daughter of the late Charles and Sarah Banks, of Outram, which occurred at her home in Port Lorne, on December 10th, 1925.

Our sister had attained the age of 67 years, just the beautiful meridian of life. She united with the Wilmot Baptist Church while quite young and was faithful in her devotions, true to her obligations, hospitable to strangers, kindly disposed to her friends and neighbors, and served her family with passionate love and devotion.

On August 3rd, our sister underwent a very serious operation at the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital, Middleton, under the skillful hands of Drs. L. R. and Reginald Morse, of Lawrencetown, assisted by Drs. Spangale and Miller. Since then she has spent the time with her two daughters, who tenderly cared for her, in her great suffering. She returned to her home on November 15th, a peaceful but still a troubled being. A peaceful but still a troubled being. A peaceful but still a troubled being.

She was called to her home on Sunday afternoon, December 6th, at 3 p. m.

She leaves to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and mother, a grief-stricken husband and three children; two daughters, Mrs. Chas. H. Banks, Brooklyn, Anna, Co. and Mrs. Wm. L. Morse, Upper Grandville and one son, Percy, of Port Lorne. Also one brother, Parker, of Outram, the last surviving member of six children.

Twelve grandchildren and two great grandchildren survive her, all of whom were present at the funeral which took place at Port Lorne Baptist Church on Wednesday afternoon, December 9th and was very largely attended.

The deceased and her husband had enjoyed 43 years of happy married life.

The service was conducted by her pastor, the Rev. David W. Dixon, who spoke comforting words from John 14th, verses 1 and 2; the text being: "A peaceful but still a troubled world." He was assisted by her former pastor, the Rev. Asaph Whitman.

The choir sang very beautifully her favorite hymn: "Some Day the Silver Chord Will Break."

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, including a Sheaf, husband; Wreath, Mother, Minnie and Family; Chrysanthemums, Emma and Family; Spray, Percy and Family; Spray, Freda and Fred; Wreath, Idella; Cut flowers, Mrs. Wallace Marshall; Spray, S. Wentzell.

Her body was laid to rest in the Port Lorne Cemetery.

Like full rigged ship with sail spread wide, Embracing the ocean breeze, So her soul was set to the gospel tide, Joyous its grace to seize.

Like lofty masts of a vessel grand, That point to the azure blue, So her christian heart and beckoning hand, Directs to the good and true.

She buried her sorrow within her breast, And smiled to disguise the pain, For her eye discerned the future rest, She was safely soon to gain.

We leave her now in the strong embrace Of that Love that died to save, With soul embalmed in His saving hand, And bathed in His blissful wave.

When the foe fears us, we must dare everything, The less one thinks the more one speaks.

Great thoughts come from the heart.

OBITUARY

In the recent death of Alexander Banks of Harmony, Kings Co., N. S., we have lost a devoted servant of the Lord who gave time, talent and worldly resources to advance the Kingdom of God in the world.

At the age of 29 he put on the "whole armour of God" and was never known to waver in the conflict. The verdict on all sides. He was a good soldier of Jesus Christ.

He was twice married. His first wife being May Spangale, daughter of Deacon Caleb Spangale of Greenwood. His second wife was Edith Hutchinson of Morristown, an indefatigable worker in the missionary activities of the church.

He leaves a worthy son who possesses all the noble qualities of his father also a half brother, a devoted worker in the church.

DEPLORES MODERN MANNER OF LIVING

Chief Palmer, of Halifax Attributes Much of the Crime Wave to Loose Morals. Says only Hope is Get Back to God.

"Crime today is the result of a code of morality practiced by the people at large, that is not in keeping with their better sense of perception. And crime will continue, no matter what is done to prevent it, until people begin to live like their mothers and fathers before them. Loose morals today are the cause of much misery, and this state of things must prevail unless the 'Back to God' slogan is taken up and practiced."

Such was the significant statement made recently by Chief of Police W. E. Palmer of the City of Halifax, in discussing the present-day tendency to crime. He thought that much of this, in fact all of it, could be dispensed with if the home life, such as it used to be, were the rule. He deplored the modern dress, the night life and the loose living in general, which was not only partaken of by those of inferior intellect, but by many who possessed every advantage in Christian training.

"Mothers and fathers," said the Chief, "who allow their children to mix with any company that offers, must answer for it. Those children, who should grow up to be fine, useful men and women, have a terrible handicap right at the commencement of their careers. They start by committing petty offences, and if left to themselves their tendencies to commit crime grow with the passing of the years until it is tragic to reflect they end up in the penitentiary."

OLDEN DAYS

Chief Palmer, who seemed to be in a retrospective mood, remarked that one used to delight in visiting a dance hall where couples were wont to enjoy themselves in innocent amusement. Such a sight, said the Chief, was haunting. "But what is it today? Everybody knows that the modernity of the times has swept away a great deal of this innocence."

Chief Palmer stated unreservedly that the immorality of the present times had attained such a hold on the people that something was bound to happen. "I might liken it to a giant wave," said the Chief, "that is rolling up on the beach. That wave can only go so far. It must recede, and in receding it falls upon anybody and anything in its path."

He went on to say that he was edified to know that there were still great many people who were God-fearing and led decent, respectable lives, despite the gibes and sneers of those who called them "old-fashioned."

This fact constituted a rift in the clouds through which there was a ray of sunshine, and it was these people who kept affairs on a balance. Only for that he did not know to what extent things might go.

"The sooner the people take steps to get back to God," said the Chief, "the sooner they will begin to live as they should, and the happier they and all concerned will be. This must be so if we are to enjoy the end for which we were made," he concluded.

THE WINNERS OF THE POPPY ESSAY CONTEST WILL BE ANNOUNCED IN A DAY OR TWO. WATCH FOR THE WINNERS

The local branch of the G. W. V. A. wish to inform the school children who took part in the Poppy Essay that the essays have all been carefully examined and that there only remains four essays out of which to choose the three winners. It is expected to have the names of the winners in a few days time and then the lucky contestants will be told how and when they will receive their cash awards. We hope the children who will be unfortunate enough to not receive a prize will not think that and partially was used in the selections of the winners, for the judges had no idea of who wrote the essays as the name of the writers was withheld from them. They did not even have the slightest idea of the town or village from which the essays were written. Considering these facts, the children must realize that the judging has been done fairly and honestly without any idea of favoritism.
