The Transcript.

THURSDAY, APRIL 6, 1916.

Newbury

Mrs. Will Grant, of Windsor, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Fenby.

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute will be held on Wednesday, 12th inst., at the home of Mrs. Dixon, at 230 O'Clock.

Born—on March 28th, to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Babcock, a son.

A telegram was received here on Friday from Melville, Sask., bringing the sad news of the death of David Webster, who passed away just four weeks after his wife. Their son and his wife have deepest sympathy in this double bereavement.

Henry Guy is moving into the village and will occupy the Marcus house.

"A Country Squire," as given by the dramatic club under the Red Cross Circle some time ago, will be reproduced on Friday, April 7th. Anyone who missed seeing this play should come out and see it this time.

Tuesday and Wednesday were millinery opening days. The ladies were out to see the latest and get their new hats before Easter.

Miller's Worm Powders work so effectively that no traces of worms can be found. The pests are macerated in the stomach and pass away in the stools without being perceptible. They make an entire and clean sweep of the intestines, and nothing in the shape of a worm can find lodgement there when these powders are in operation. Nothing could be more desirable than their action.

Crinan

Pte. Garrett and Fred Garrett, of London, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McMurchy over Sunday. Pte. Garrett, who is a nephew of Mrs. McMurchy, expects to go to the front shortly.

The Willing Workers held their regular meeting on Thursday afternoon.

David Johnson has returned after an extended visit to friends at Ottawa and Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McMillan spent the week-end with friends in St. Thomas.

G. T. Markham opens the Crinan cheese factory on Wednesday. Mr. Knight, an experienced cheese maker, is in charge this year.

Mrs. Oliver Bowman has presented the Willing Workers with a number of blocks for an autograph quilt. Each block will have 28 names and the names are to be secured and worked on the quilt by the Busy Bees.

Syrup making is in full swing.

The board of managers met in the church on Monday evening. It was decided to hold an anniversary early in June.

PARKDALE

Some of the farmers in the vicinity are busy making maple syrup.

Mrs. Batener, of Cincinnati, and Miss Graydon, and Miss Stotts, of Newbury, were guests of the Misses Smith Sunday afternoon.

Miss Thompson returned home to Strathroy after visiting friends here.

Mr. Fisher, who has been spending the winter at Welland, has returned home.

AS THE OIL RUBS IN, THE PAIN RUNS OUT.—Applied to the seat of a pain in any part of the body the skin absorbs the soothing liniment under brisk friction and the patient obtains almost instant relief. The results of the use of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil have surprised many who were acquainted with its qualities, and once known it will not be neglected. Try it.

Wardsville

The Women's Guild of St. James' church, Wardsville, sent two boxes recently to Hyman Hall, London. They contained 2 mattress covers, 181 handkerchiefs, 127 bandages, 22 pairs of socks and a large quantity of old linen and cotton.

Mr. Ellwood has taken over the bus business from Mr. Linden.

Miss Verna Wilson has been suffering from an attack of tonsillitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Bilton and family have moved into the home which they lately purchased from John McKay.

Mr. Elliott and family have moved into Mr. Petch's house.

J. Whitlock has sold his interest in the blacksmith business to Mr. Stillwell, of Warwick.

Miss Clara Miller has been acting postmistress during the illness of Miss Aitchison.

A memorial service for the late Charlie Constant, who was struck with shrapnel and instantly killed at the front, was held in the Anglican church. Rev. Mr. Hale conducted the service and Rev. Mr. Snell gave an address. The many friends sent a beautiful wreath.

Mrs. C. Palmer was given a pleasant surprise a few evenings ago when a number of the villagers gathered at her home to celebrate with her the anniversary of her birthday. Lunch was served and an enjoyable evening generally was spent. Among those present were her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. I. King, of Detroit.

An Irish supper recently given by the Women's Institute was greatly enjoyed. A feature of the program was a debate, "Resolved that women should have the franchise." The affirmative speakers were Mrs. Hammett, of Newbury, and J. F. McGregor, and the negative speakers Dr. Wilson and Mr. Elliott. Decision was given for the affirmative. The proceeds amounted to $19.36.

THEY ARE CAREFULLY PREPARED.—Pills which dissipate themselves in the stomach cannot be expected to have much effect upon the intestines, and to overcome constiveness the medicine administered must influence the action of these canals. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are so made, under the supervision of experts, that the substance in them intended to operate on the intestines is retarded in action until they pass through the stomach to the bowels.

Kilmartin.

Dr. A. D. Campbell, of New York, is visiting under the parental roof.

Miss Mary Campbell has returned after spending some time with friends in Montreal.

Mac Secord, Detroit, spent the week-end at his home here.

Archie Burke is on the sick list.

James McAlpine left last week to resume his position as pilot on one of the lake steamers.

Appin

Dan McIntyre's sale of cattle was a success. Prices were good.

Mrs. Bruce, of Lion's Head, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Miers.

A meeting of the Park Association was held Monday night and transacted all business and arranged for another garden party to be held on or about the first week in August.

Richard Nicholls, A. Perry and F. Perry have disposed of their farms, and are moving with their families to Windsor. Peter Ferguson has also sold his place and will leave shortly for California.

Twenty women were present at the Women's Institute meeting. Cut material, consisting of hospital shirts and grey flannel shirts, are on hand for distribution. The committee was authorized to spend an additional $45 in flannel. Mrs. McTaggart reported upon the stage curtain for the town hall. It is a handpainted drop curtain, the gift of the Institute.

The baseball club met Monday night and elected officers for the ensuing year. They expect to play all comes this season, as there is no league formed.

Mrs. McIntyre of St. Thomas, is visiting her brother, Jas. McMaster.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the last meeting for the season of the Appin Improvement Society on Tuesday night. There was a box social in connection with the program. The proceeds, which amounted to $54.40, goes for improvement of the park.

The Late Matthew Gough.

Strathroy Age, March 30:—A well-known and highly esteemed citizen and a life-long resident of Metcalfe Township was the late Matthew T. Gough, who passed away on Friday last at the family residence, lot 12, con. 12, in his 72nd year. Mr. Gough was a son of the late John and Eliza Gough, early pioneers of the township, where deceased first saw light of day. He leaves his wife (nee Emma Dempsey), and three children, Flora, Matthew and Fred, all at home. He is survived by three brothers—Thomas E., of Strathroy; Curtis, of Ekfrid, and Ogle R., of Napier, and one sister, Mrs. Geo. Smith, of Nebraska. Deceased had been in failing health for some time. The funeral was held on Monday to the Gough cemetery on the old Gough homestead. The Rev. Mr. Eason, of Napier, conducted the service and the casket was borne to its last resting place by his three brothers and three brothers-in-law.

The strength of the 135th Battalion is now 1,059.

Canucks Fought in U. S.

It is estimated that 48,000 Canadians enlisted in Union regiments during the American Civil war. The killed in the U. S. war included 18,000 adventurous fellows from Canada.

ANSWERING THE CALL

HOW BRITISH COLUMBIA'S SONS WENT TO THE WAR.

Great Powerful Men Housed in From the Remote Forests, Mountains, and Plains of the Far West and Performed Prodigious Feats to Reach Recruiting Stations—The Worst Part of the War.

"The Lion roared, and the cub came in."

AYE! she roared—and no where was her call heard plainer than in far-off British Columbia. Yet how did those in the remote forests, mountains, and plains know that their country needed them?

Some seemed to hear it on the wind; others saw it in the sky. In one district, for instance, north-east of Port George, there were seven forest rangers, each with different sections to guard. There had a signal among themselves. A beacon fire on a certain mountain meant that there was news, and acted as summons to a previously arranged spot. Three weeks after war was declared this beacon flared up, and at once the seven rangers caught their provisions, and hastened to the meeting-place. They learned of the war, and eaching five canoes they packed themselves in the remaining two, and made their way down the Fraser River to enlist.

Another instance was that of "Rusty" Cameron, a trapper. At the beginning of August, 1914, he secured his winter supply of food and hit the trail for his lonely cabin in the "Nation" River district. After three weeks of paddling and tramping he arrived at his destination, built himself a new cabin, and set out to visit an outlaw trapper. This outlaw had been sought by the police for seven years, having been accused of murder, but he always foiled any attempt to capture him. "Rusty" Cameron usually brought in his provisions, and took out his furs, and it was for this purpose that he was now about to visit him. On his way he met a young surveyor, who informed him of the hostilities.

One of the most famous regiments to leave Canada is the 30th Battalion, which was organized in British Columbia, and consists of men taken from the most part from the rougher or adventurous class. There are men who travelled by horse and canoe day and night to join the regiment. Men who had shot rapids which had never before been navigated, as it was too slow to "portage," for, as they travelled, I wanted to get down before the war was over.

There were two men in the regiment who had been cowboys down in Mexico, but at the call they boarded a ship and went to Canada and enlisted their arrival. Being asked why they had come so far to enlist, one said:

"Only to have a swat at the Germans."

In stature there are not many regiments to equal them, and when Sir Sam Hughes was inspecting them before their departure, he remarked to the officer commanding:

"I have to look up pretty high to see your men."

Then, again, there are nowhere in the Empire men who have endured more hardships in their efforts to reach a recruiting station than have some bold Yukoners.

To Fort McPherson the mail goes but once a year on account of its distance from the nearest center, Dawson City, for it is situated within the Arctic Circle. Even then it must be taken in by dog teams, accompanied by Indian guides.

The mail squad generally consists of five men and four teams, each team hauling two hundred pounds of food. This expedition is entrusted to the Mounted Police, as it requires men of steel.

But there is one man, and only one, that has ever made that six hundred and forty-mile journey alone, bearing His Majesty's Mail. Many have attempted that perilous trip by themselves, but where they lie today only the silent northland knows.

For the most part the most famous guide in Yukon, belongs the honor of having blazed the trail with an axe from Dawson to Fort McPherson.

Forrest was with a companion, on one of the many rivers in this country, when informed of the war. These two men, not having any canoes, as the ice was on the river when they had come in, felled the trees with their axes, and whipsawed the wood into the required shapes for building a boat.

Now, whip-sawing is not a very easy thing to do. In simple language, it is cutting lumber by means of a stick and a long, thin piece of hide, but it is the only way when no saw is available.

One of the most interesting things among the Yukoners band of men is the dog "Jack." Jack is a huskie, the kind of dog which is used for pulling the sleighs in this region.

Now they have brought him all the way down and intend taking him to the very front. For, as his master remarked:

"If Jack can't go, I guess none of us wish to go."

For more than once this Arctic dog has been his sole companion in many a long, weary night.

As one man stepped off the train at Prince Rupert, who had had a strenuous time getting in from the bush, he heard to remark:

"Well, thank God the worst part of the war is over." Meaning that which he had endured was war in itself, and many B. C.'ers re-echoed "Hear! hear!"

GETTING AN EDUCATION.

After the Age of Thirty is the Time to Start in Earnest.

According to the Saturday Evening Post, the best time to get an education—perhaps the only time—is any time after one has passed thirty. The stuff that one learns before twenty is not meant to be remembered. It is only a placing of the chutes and an arrangement of the bins for the permanent contents. From twenty to thirty one is all torn up with courting, marrying and getting a foothold in life. After that is the time for education—from then on until death or senile debility.

A man or woman past thirty is exactly at the most favorable period for mastering knowledge, training the mind, forming the taste. Some systematic effort is all that is necessary. Notice the silly and tiresome ways in which enormous numbers of people spend some of their holidays. They know what to do with their working hours, but not with their leisure.

Most of them by a little direction and a little systematic effort might develop some special interest. Boys quickly tire of mere aimless and painless play. Naturally they want a method and a goal in it. Having a goal is exactly what gives zest to the game.

And having a goal is both easy and delightful. To study anything with interest, from logarithms to caterpillars, gives one fun and profit at the same time. Try it.

PROVED ITS WORTH.

Dramatic Test That Was Made With a Bullet Proof Shirt.

"A well known war correspondent, who is a personal friend of mine," writes a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, "tells an amusing story. While in Paris at the beginning of the war in 1914 a French inventor persuaded him to obtain an opportunity for demonstrating the usefulness of a thin chain armor shirt, which he claimed would resist any bullet or bayonet."

"A sample shirt had been hung up and fired at with satisfactory results, but it was with a certain journalistic skepticism that my friend attended the official demonstration at Piccadilly later. Anyway, to oblige the inventor he put on one of the shirts to show its comfort and flexibility. It was then that the French inventor achieved a dramatic effect, for he whipped out a Webley automatic and blazed away straight at my friend's chest."

"He is still alive to tell the tale," adds the correspondent. "Before he had recovered breath a war office official grasped him warmly by the hand."

"Sir," he said, "you are a brave man."

"My friend disappeared with becoming modesty. He had gone where he could get a stiff brandy and soda."

Logical.

"What seems to be the matter, sir?" asked the clerk in the hotel. "Were you expecting some one?"

"I should say I was," said the man angrily. "My wife was to meet me here at 2 o'clock. I just got here, and now it's 4 o'clock, and she isn't here yet. Never knew a woman to be on time any more."

A Dickens Character.

Smike, Charles Dickens' character in Nicholas Nickleby, seems to have been drawn from the life. Said the author in a letter apropos of that novel: "The rascality of those Yorkshire schoolmasters cannot be easily exaggerated. I have kept down strong truth and thrown as much comicality over it as I could rather than disgust the weary reader with its fouler aspects."

How Cripple Creek Got Its Name.

It was the cattlemen who gave Cripple Creek its name. There are a dozen traditions, but the best authenticated is the story of a cowboy whose broncho balked at the jumping of a rivulet, balked and stumbled and fell, breaking a leg for itself and one for its rider. There was no surgeon nearer than Colorado Springs, and the rough anatomical carpentry of his mates made a cripple for life of the unlucky range rider, wherefore he named the rivulet Cripple creek, and the rivulet named the region—Exchange.

A Bloodsucking Earthworm.

South Africa is the home of a species of earthworm, a creature closely related to our common angleworm, which is not only a ghastly among the denizens of the soil, but which is reputed to have a taste for human blood. There are two species of this uncanny wiggler—one of a dark red color and the other almost black. They are larger than one's finger and from three to four inches in length.

A Clever Woman.

"I never deceive my wife."

"You deserve credit for that."

"No. The credit belongs to her."

"How so?"

"I am utterly unable to spin a yarn she can't see through."

In Suspense.

Johnny—Pa, what is a "quandy?"

Father—Pa, what is a "quandy?"

Johnny—Pa, what is a "quandy?"

Father—Pa, what is a "quandy?"

Johnny—Pa, what is a "quandy?"

Father—Pa, what is a "quandy?"

Convinced.

"This time she is positive she is in love."

"What convinced her?"

"His income."
