BEFLY.

Dr. Moher made a most feeling reply thanking the members for their friendly address and for the kind wishes expressed for his future.
He was leaving Trenton with regret. During his five years residence in the town by the daways met with kindners, and only desire to go to his former home where he thought a wider field awaited him could have induced bim to leave Trenton. His felowmembers had always extended kindness to him and he would, he could assure them, always bear in mind with pleasure his past associations with them. He received their valuable cift with pleasure. Their last act was in keep ing with their past kindness. He concluded by wishing No. 11 and members every success in the future.—Trenton Advocate Nov. 11.

At a very early age Mr. Murphy became associated with philauthrophic movements, and throughout all his life was a most ardent advocate of temperance. He began his temperance work in 1841 when the late Bishop Phelan, was then pastor of the Irish people in Montreal. He was then elected secretary of the association in 1841, and held that office until 1862, when he retired, and his services were recognized by the presentation of an address and a memorial. At various times he was President of St. Patrick's Temperance Society, and in 1872 he was presented with an oil painting of himself in aecognition of his valuable services for the cause which he had so deeply at heart.

In 1860 Mr. Murphy was elected president of the St. Patrick's National Society, which position he filled with credit to himself and honor to the Irish people. In the same year he was gazetted captain of the Montreal Militia, 4th Batt., and was also made a Justice of the Peace. In 1861 he acted as Census Commissioner for the city. In 1862 he visited his native land, and during his absence was elected a director of the City and District Savings' Bank, and after filling that position up to 1877 he was elected president, which position he retained to his death. He was a most conscientions and careful president, and safeguarded the funds of the wideling the sident, and safeguarded the funds of the wideling them.

which position he retained to his death. He was a most conscientious and careful president, and safeguarded the funds of the widows' and orphans' and religious institutions with most scrupilous attention. As an evidence of the esteem in which he was held by the French-Canadian people he was elected church warden of Notre Dame.

On innumerable occasions he declined nomination for municipal and parliamentary honors though in politics he was a stanch Conservative, and at all meetings of that party in Montreal he was one of the striking figures. Mr. Murphy had always sympatized with the movements of the Irish people towards improving the condition of Ireland, but he had repeatedly declared against armed force, but was an ardent advocate of constitutional agitation.

but he had repeatedly declared against armed force, but was an ardent advocate of constitutional agitation.

As far back as 1841-47 he was one of the Canadians who most ardently backed up O'Connell's constitutional agitation. In 1873 he formed the Mentreal branch of the Home Rule League and for years sent valuable contributions to help the cause along. Mr. Murphy will be remembered by many engaged in business as the pioneer who in-augurated the Saturday afternoon half holiday. He was for years a member of the Natural History Society and was an enthusiastic microscopical student. He founded the Edward Murphy prize at the Commercial Academy of the annual value of 8100 to encourage commercial education, and also gave several medals. Mr. Murphy was twice married: first to Miss McBride and then to Miss Power, daughter of the late Judge Power of Quebec, who survives him. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Monk, widow of the 1ste Mr. Cornwallis Monk, advocate, and Miss Murphy. He was a life governor of the General and Notre Dame hospitals and of Laval University. He was not only a governor in name, but took on active interest in the welfare of these institutions, visiting the wards regularly. In May, 1889, on the death of the late Hon. Thos. Ryan, he was raised to the Senate for the division of Victoria. He had been a Harbor Commissioner; a member of the Board of Trade; vice president of the Natural Society and of the Natural Society and of the Natural Military Order of the Holy Sepulchre.

NEW BOOK.

"Charity the Origin of Every Blessing."

—A book that should appeal to all who are aiming at perfection in the spiritual life has been translated from the Italian "as a mark of gratitude, by one of the many who have ben effitted by reading the work." It shows on the authority of Scripture, and on the teaching of the Fathers of the Church, that every blessing is obtained from heaven by means of charity, numerous incidents, historical and otherwise, being given in proof thereof.

OBITUARY.

MR, J. A. HURLEY, PETERBOROUGH.

It is our sorrowful duty to chronicle the early death in Chicago of Joseph Angustine Hurley, third son of J. Hurley, Real Estate Agent in Peterborough, and brother of our townsman, W. A. Hurley. On the 18th Nov., while at his usual work, he complained of being sick, and, fearing bad results, went immediately to an hospital. The doctors after diagnozing his case pronounced it appendicitis, and declared an operation necessary. Calling for a priest he was first fortified by confession and Communion, then the operation went on. He emerged from the danger in good spirits and hopes for recovery, and all went well for eight days. But pneumonia and peritonitis creeping upon him, brothe down his vitality by a four days siege. With three priests about his dying bed, he received the last rites of religion and quietly passed away.

The remains arxived home on Tuesday. MR. J. A. HURLEY, PETERBOROUGH.

The remains arrived home on Tuesday, The remains arrived home on Tuesday, 3rd inst. and was viewed by throngs of friends. Next day Requiem Mass was sung in St. Peter's cathedral before a crowded congregation with Venerable Archdeacon Casey, rector, as celebrant; Rev. Father Aboulin, superior of St. Basil's Novitiate. Toronto, as deacon; and A. E. Hurley, his younger brother from the Novitiate, as sub deacon. In the sanctuary were the Rev. Fathers D. O'Connell, D. J. Scollard and M. F. Fitzpatrick. The choir samp beautifully the plaintive Mass of the Dead, and added other sacred pieces, among which may be specially mentioned the 'Ecce Deus' and 'Nearer My God To Thee 'by Mr. Thos. Dunn, from the cathedral. The last remains of 'poor Joe' was accompanied to the Catholic cemetery, and after receiving the final benediction of the Church, was laid to rest.

the final benediction of the Church, was laid to rest.

In his youth he received a good Catholic and commercial education, which awakened in him a strong spirit of faith and developed an able talent for business. Leaving home for Chicago, he took a situation in Marshall Field & Co's, wholesale dry goods store, but relinquished that to go to Texas in the interests of the North Galveston Land Co. Finding his old bronchial trouble quite over, he returned to Chicago and assumed the lurrative and promising position of head book keeper with the John J. Dunn coal firm. This he was engaged in at the time of his death, much beloved and admired by employer and colaborer alike.

A cheerful and off-hand tenderness of heart, the distinguishing mark of his character, displayed itself in him under the many phases of compassion towards the wretched, charity to the poor, dielity to friends and tranquisty of temper over all. He was kind

Ite is gone indeed, but his memory is not gone. It will live for years in the hearts of those who have shared his generosity and will claim from their affection an bonrable mention in their prayers. Yet there is hope for us that mourn: there is consolation in our sadness—consolation in the blessing of a good death. The supernatural jvy soothes the natural sor rows and adds a brighter ray to light the soul that is overeast with the gloom of affliction. The bereaved parents under this trying circumstance manifest a noble Christian humility in their submission to the will of God and are looking forward to the time when it may please our Heavenly Father to unite them again in that paradise beyond the skies the empire of the just.

Mrs. William Berriorst, Chatham.

On Nov. 19 there passed away at St. Joseph's hospital, Mary Catherine, beloved wife of Win. Berhorst, merchant tailor, of this city. The deceased lady, het Mary Catherine Steinmetz, was born in Alsace, Germany, in 1837. She with her parents, came to this country, when a child, and settled in Buffalo, N. Y., where she married Mr. Berhorst. The family moved to Chatham eighteen years ago, where they have resided ever since. The deceased lady was a consistent member of St. Joseph's church, and her earnest Christianity, together with the many noble qualities with which nature had endowed her, won for her a warm place in the esteem of all with whom she came in contact. The sad demise has cast a gloom over the community, and the sympathy of the many friends of the deceased lady is extended to the bereaved husband and daughters.

The funeral took place from the residence. Wellington street, to St. Joseph's church, where Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Paul O. S. F. After Mass Father Paul delivered an appropriate and consoling sermon. During the Offertory Miss Mulligan. Three daughters mourn the loss of a loving mother. The following poem was read by Mr. C. morversary dinner, given in that city January Oliver Wendeil Holmes, and for grace, sweet-ness and rhythmic flow is in my opinion very little inferior to the Boston product. By the merest accident a copy of this beautiful poem reached my hand and I hasten to place it be fore the many readers of the RECORD, feeling certain that it will yield them both pleasure and delight. Would that Mr. O'Neill's gifted and scholarly pen were better and more largely known through the columns of the public press: Yours etc..

Death has visited our esteemed Bro. J.

Cashman and brought sadnesss and gloom into their happy household. Their little daughter, Mary Frances Phylis, a lovely and promising child of seven years, was struck down with that dread disease, membraneous croup. The startling news, when it became known throughout town, created widespread, genuine sympathy for Mr and Mrs. Cashman. Little Phylas was a general favorite and was indeed the idol of her tond parents and their legion of friends in Orillia. "Walsh's Magazine."

The Christmas number of Walsh's Magazine has come to hand. It contains articles by two of the leading Catholic writers in the United States as well as those of well known local talent, besides very choice engravings of "The Madonna and Child," "The Nativity," "The Flight into Egypt," "The Christ Child." The following are the titles of the articles: "Irish Graves on the Continent of Europe" (Eugene Davis), "The New Attack upon Religious Orders in France" (Charles Robinson), "Infectious Novels" (Very Rev. Dean Harris), "Rudolf the Musician" (Maud Regan), "Three Roses" (Joseph Nevin Doyle), "An Irish Brutus" (E. P. Stanten), "About Hopkins" (Win. Emmett), "Derby" (Ella S. Atkinson), "Cardinal Parocchi" (Rev. J. P. Treacy), "Maurice Francis Egan" (Thos. O'Hagan, M. A. Ph. D.), "The Emancipation of Wm. Sneck "U. S. O'Higgins) and "Some Recollections of McGee (Dr. Flannery).

If we may judge by the care and good judgment displayed in the selections of the articles, and the merit of the authors who have already promised to contribute, together with the hearty reception accorded the initial number, the future success of Walsh's Magazine is fully assured.

VOTE FOR THE WESTERN FAIR BY-LAW. Reasons Why.

London cannot afford to do without the Western Fair, and the Western Fair cannot go on without new buildings.

go on without new buildings.

The Western Fair advertises the city better than an other medium. It is impossible to state in words the great advantages derived therefrom.

The Fair Board have no power to raise the amount of money required. All the land, and the buildings which were erected and paid for by the Fair Board are now the property of the city.

of the city.

All surplus funds are devoted to improvements in the park and buildings, the Western Fair Association having spent over $17,000 on the purchase of lands and permanent improvements on buildings owned and controlled by the city of London. (The insurance on the buildings burned has been paid over to the city, and the Fair Board have no claim thereto.)

The Fair Board derive no personal advantage from the exhibitions: on the contrary.

tage from the exhibitions: on the contrary, if directors exhibit they do so with same terms as all others, and they have been in the past the largest subscribers to the funds of the association The Western Fair has made London the Live Stock Market of Western Ontario. The exhibitors do not turn out as largely as they would if we had better accommodations the present buildings having become danger ous to their valuable stock. The Western Fair has, since its inception to the present time, been self-supporting. The small amount asked for will not be a tax upon the people, but an actual source of revenue to the city.

The whole amount of money will be spent mong our own workmen. Every citizen will be more or less benefited thereby, be he manufacturer, merchant, real estate owner, railway man or employee in any branch of industry, who has the welfare of his employer or improvement of the city at heart.

The people have learned to look to London as the business centre of Ontario.

Through these Fairs Western Ontario Breeders have been able to establish beyond a doubt the great advantages of this section of the Province for raising prize winning animals, which are a credit to us all over the Continent, and in the Old World. continent, and in the Old World.

It affords our merchants and manufacturers an opportunity of displaying and explaining the merits of their respective goods, and introducing them to large numbers of people who attend the Fair, thereby vastly increasing the sale of the products of the workshops of London and thus adding to the demand for labor.
