HOW WORDS GROW.

"SIERRE" means a "saw;" hence the use of the term Sierre Nevada Sierre Morena, for the mountains look like great saws turned up to the heavens.

"Frank" comes from a nation that possessed Gaul. They were distinguished from the Gauls by their love of freedom, their scorn of a lie. So marked was this national trait that it was applied to denote moral distinction.

"Slave" was once a noble word, meaning "glory." It was significant of freedom. But the slave (or Schlaves, as once spelled) became captive of the Teutonic race, and so a "Slave" was synonymous with one who was subject to another.

"Turkey" is applied to a fowl that originated in America, but it was supposed by the common people to have come from Turkey.

"Daisy" Chaucer tells us, means "day's eye"—eye of day. The sun had this title first, but those who saw the daisy saw a likeness to the sun—the white flowerets resembling the rays—hence the name.

"Knaave" meant originally only "lad," and now means that in Germany; but so many lads were bad that it got to have a bad significance.

"Villain" meant a man who worked on a villa or farm; but so many of them had rough hard natures that it took a low signification.

A REMARKABLE RIVER.

THERE is a river in the ocean. In the severest droughts it never fails, and in the mightiest floods it never overflows. Its banks and its bottom are of cold water, while its current is of warm. The Gulf of Mexico is its fountain, and its mouth is the Arctic seas. It is the Gulf-stream. There is in the world no other so majestic a flow of water. Its current is more swift than the Mississippi or the Amazon, and its volume more than a thousand times greater. Its waters, as far as the Carolina coasts, are of indigo-blue. These are so distinctly marked that the common seawater can be traced with the eye. Often one-half the vessels may be perceived floating in the Gulf-stream water, while the other half is in the common waters of the sea, so sharp is the line and the want of affinity between these waters; and such, too, the reluctance, so to speak, on the part of those of the Gulf-stream to mingle with the common waters of the sea. In addition to this, there is another peculiar fact; the fishermen on the coast of Norway are supplied with wood from the tropics by the Gulf-stream. Think of the Arctic fishermen burning upon their hearths the palms of Hayti, the mahogany of Honduras, and the precious woods of the Amazon and Orinoco!

SOME MEN'S WIVES.

"I TELL you what it is," said one of a small coterie of wealthy-men who had met in the office of one of their number, "they may say what they please about the uselessness of modern women, but my wife has done her share in securing our success in life. Everybody knows that her family was aristocratic and exclusive, and all that, and when I married her she had never done a day's work in her life; but when W. & Co. failed, and I had to begin at the foot of the hill again, she discharged the servants, and chose out a neat little cottage, and did her own housekeeping until I was better off again."

"And my wife," said a second, "was an only daughter, cherished and petted to death; and everybody said, 'Well, if he will marry a doll-like that, he'll make the greatest mistake of his life;' but when I came home the first year of our marriage, sick with fever, she nursed me back to health, and I never knew her to murmur because I thought we couldn't afford any better style or more luxuries."

"Well, gentlemen," chimed in a third, "I married a smart, healthy, pretty girl, but she was a regular blue-stocking. She adored Tennyson, doted on Byron, read Emerson, and named the first baby Ralph Waldo, and the second Maud; but I tell you what 'tis," and the speaker's eyes grew suspiciously moist, "when we laid little Maud in her last bed, my poor wife had no remembrances of neglect or stinted motherly care, and the little dresses that still lie in the locked drawer were all made by her own hands."

BOGUS CERTIFICATE.—It is no vile drugged stuff, pretending to be made of wonderful foreign roots, barks, &c., and puffed up by long bogus certificates of pretended miraculous cures, but a simple, pure, effective medicine, made of well known valuable remedies, that furnishes its own certificates by its cures. We refer to Hop Bitters, the purest and best medicines.—Republican.
