> HOW GIRLS MAY BE CHARMING.

Every young girl cannot be beautiful, for to every one God has not given a comely face or a graceful figure. But every one can be attractive. Indeed, health and cleanliness go far to giving those bright eyes, blooming cheeks and fair skins which conduce to good looks, though some have plain and irregular features, and can easily see, by the testimony of the truth-telling mirror, that they are not remarkable for external graces. Let them comfort themselves by the when Ruthie came up. Harry looked thought that they may make very beauat her a little sourly, for he did not tiful old ladies if they cultivate sweetness of disposition and contentedness of mind, and trust in God's goodness and love. How can the plain be charming? Well, true self-forget-fulness and kind thoughtfulness for others are always winning. The vain, selfish beauty cannot compete with But Harry felt that he had been the homely maiden who is popular because she is so very lovable. Her father confides in her; her mother leans upon her; her friends go to her for help and advice. The little girls bring their broken toys, and the boys "But I can't get home till you let come for aid when lessons are hard. By-and-bye a marvellous thing happens. She is spoken of everywhere as "the interesting Miss Parker," "the agreeable Miss Dornell," or "the captivating Miss Mark." She has grown interesting, agreeable and captivating; and each quality is far more valuable to women than the possession of mere beauty without other winning personal characteristics.

> A SOLID FACT.—Three years ago I had liver complaint and indigestion. Nothing did me any good until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, three bottles of which cured me. I shall use B.B.B. as my medicine. John Floyd, Barnesville, N.B. B.B.B. regulates the liver.

HOW SHE MADE HIM DO IT. Harry, holding his switch tighter is No. 1!" they shouted. He was not afraid. Why should he be? He was one of them. They said he came out every night, and many others beside. Sure enough, while I was sitting there I counted more than a dozen of these little fellows in different parts of the yard. They were all out for their evening sport as well as the boys. The boys loved to see them and would let no one hurt them. Would not you call that kindness to dumb animals?—Our Dumb Animals.

ELLA AND HER KITTEN.

There is no animal of which young children are so fond, as of kittens.

I had a cat in my yonthful days, of which I was very fond. Once my father moved from one portion of the town to quite a distant and strange part. The cat and four kittens were carried, just at night, in a bag, to the new home. The next morning no cet or kittens were to be seen. Going there. The old cat had carried the kittens all back the long distance, of course being obliged to make four trips.
