

WORLD MEN OF THE WORLD

Millionaires Found in Almost Every Known Land

Germany and Austria Prominent in the Golden Book—Russia, China and Africa Represented.

(From Wednesday's Daily.) Germany is not generally regarded as a land of rich men, and yet the golden book should have a very large section devoted to Germany and Austria-Hungary. It is true that most of the names would have prince before them, but being of royal blood does not alter the fact of wealth. Without counting the private properties of the sovereigns, who ought not to be included, there are a dozen or so Teutonic highnesses whose wealth, not merely in lands, but in money, is enormous. For example, that of the father of the present Prince of Bulgaria was counted by many millions sterling. Many of the dethroned monarchs, again, are very rich, for royal exile has ceased to be a synonym for poverty. No one, of course, knows the exact wealth of the Orleans family, but it is very great, and even the Bourbons are well off. Don Carlos, in spite of the money he has spent on Spanish and other adventures is a millionaire. The Russian empire would also make a good show, for although the great proprietors have suffered of late years, many of the merchants and financiers have done exceedingly well. If we are to be trusted, some of the officers are also very rich. Fabulous sums are attributed to one in particular, the millionaires of Africa would, we suppose, be confined to Kimberley and Rand; but possibly there are some large fortunes in Cairo among the Egyptian colony. Asia will probably make a very respectable show in the golden book. It is true that in the Turkish and Persian empires millionaires are never long-lived, and this fact tends to their non-existence; but for all that, some of the Smyrna Greeks and Damascus Jews ought to be able to gain admission. India, on the other hand, if the native princes who do not possess sovereign rights are counted, as they must be, contains a great number of extremely rich men.

The Mail Arrives.

The first mail to arrive since the close of navigation got in last evening from the river by dog team. There was 500 pounds of the matter and it has been a long, hard trip on men and dogs to get it here. The trail, from the account given of the men who brought the mail, promises to be splendid one this winter, as all the way from Sixtymile to Selkirk they say is glare ice and as level as a billiard table. The ice just above Sixtymile is rough, but after the trail is once fairly broken that will not matter. The worst part of the whole of the river trail at present is between here and Ogilvie, where the route is very wet. The water overflows the shore ice and freezes over in a thin crust, or on ice which breaks when weight is put upon it, and last evening when the mail arrived dogs and men were both thoroughly wet. At some places where the water was deepest the dogs got wet all over, and the water froze on them before it could be shaken off, leaving them a mass of ice. The dogs of the team were all huskies or malamutes, and stood the trip all right, but it is very doubtful if an imported animal could have stood the trip and lived afterwards. This morning the driver reports there are reported to be three more loads each of the same weight as this one, so close behind that they may be expected to arrive in a short time. Superintendent of Mail Service Stillman has resigned his position with the C. D. Co., and is filling the place until his successor, Mr. Burleigh, comes. He is said to be at Stewart.

STROLLER'S COLUMN.

"Well, we are not in it," said Rudy to the Stroller yesterday. "No," replied the Stroller, "we are not; but a true Democrat always takes defeat in that 'fried frog' manner in which he takes his whisky—gracefully and naturally." "I admit that," said Rudy, "and also the fact that Bryan was like the silly boy's pet sheep you told about lately—he is in a bad crowd. Bryan himself is all right, but the load he attempted to carry was too much for him. If he had shaken the bewiskered Pops four years ago and buckled down to solid, straight Democracy, while he might have been defeated all the same, there would have been a much better crowd at his wake. Yes, I am a Democrat still! I may be a still Democrat by the time I get my election bets squared up. Say, it is my treat! Come into the store and we will have some nux vomica! Well, here's to Bryan!"

"See that man walking along the street and constantly snapping his fingers for the benefit of those two dogs?" The Stroller saw him. "Well," continued the First avenue merchant, "that man is as wholly and completely dogized as ever any man was mesmerized or hypnotized. His entire time and attention are devoted to those two dogs. His eyes are constantly upon them and when he is not snapping his fingers to keep them jumping up at his elbows he is clicking, clacking, clucking and whistling to them to come on. He sees nothing else; he rarely ever stops to talk with anyone, but pushes forward with seemingly the only object in view being to exercise his dogs. Who he is and what he is here for none seems to know; but the fact remains that he is dogized. Whether it is but a temporary attack I can not say, but he has it and has it badly."

POLICE COURT NEWS.

Yesterday Dave Gordon was assessed $10 and costs for abusing a dog. Magistrate Scarth presided this morning and the first case was that of E. J. Briant who had looked upon red liquor until he had become a disturbing element. Evidently he had pushed his face against a fist or some other color producer, as his left optic resembled in color an '88 Rex ham. He was fined $5 and costs, which amount he paid in coin of the realm.

The case against Geo. Nichols, charged with theft, was continued until this afternoon when Attorneys Burrett & McKay will represent him. Nichols is charged with having entered the cabin of Chas. Temple, of this city, and of taking therefrom provisions in the form of apples, apricots, extract of beef and flour to the amount of $14.

"When those cats congregate on my back fence and start to yowl at night, I drop a pot of hot water down on them." "That's a sort of concert pitch."

The man who says "I told you so" is very much in evidence since the result of the election was announced, previous to which time he was not known in politics; but now he has a great deal to say and claims to have known for the past six weeks just how it would come out. At present this man has a snap in the way of working suckers for free drinks. He stays in barrooms all the time and everytime a political conversation is started he lips in and stays with it until somebody says something. There are several copies of this same man in Dawson at present and he is as fully qualified to talk on the Dominion as on the American election. He is out for the treat and is getting it.

It was 2 o'clock this morning. A Republican who had won $1400 on McKinley was out celebrating. For a partner and running mate he had a Liberal who was celebrating the return of the Laurier government. One was taking rye, the other Scotch, and during the several hours they had been together they had looked upon their respective deceptions many times. "Zer ain't no use talkin'" said the American, "Bill Laurier and Sir Wilfred McKinley's two of zer besht men zish shide Lantic ocean. Lesh have nusher drink!"

And the Canadian replied: "Right you are. When such men as Hugh John Bryan and William Jennings McDonald jump in and try to down our candidates, zer ish some 'scuse in me an' you celebrating zer defeat. Lesh take two drinks while we're at it."

An amusing thing was heard on First avenue yesterday evening about 4 o'clock: which was nearly three hours after the Nugget, with more telegraphic news than was ever previously contained in any single issue of a Dawson paper, had been issued with the full returns, not only of the presidential election but also of that of the Dominion. One man in particular, after reading all the news in the Nugget, which news was to him very pleasant, proceeded to "liquidate" and, by the time the Daily News was out and being offered for sale, had reached the stage when a man is apt to lose the reckoning of time. "Daily News! All about the election in Canada!"

The inebriated gentleman purchased a copy, remarking as he did so, "Lectiuns sheem to 'be comin' purty fast in Canada!"

Then he opened the paper and began to read. "Shold ergan!" he roared. "Zish is the shame! old 'lection I read about several days ago in zer Nugget."
