FOR RESTRICTION.
Sentiment in B.C. is Strong Though Not Insistent.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 17.—So far as further resort to disorder as a protest against Asiatic immigration is concerned, public opinion throughout British Columbia has become so settled and unflinching during the past week as to put all danger of that character beyond the range of probability.

At the same time, popular feeling is steadily taking deliberate and dignified grounds, unmistakably on the side of restriction of immigration.

"British Columbia, a white man's country," appears to be more than a labor party slogan. The issue inside upon capable legislative treatment.

Confidence in Canadians.
London, Sept. 17.—Baron Komura, the Japanese ambassador to Great Britain, who has just returned to London, after an absence in the country, called on Sir Edward Grey at the Foreign Office, yesterday afternoon, and discussed the anti-Oriental disturbances at Vancouver.

The ambassador took with him long despatches which he received from the Japanese government at Vancouver and Ottawa, and it is understood, assumed the Foreign Secretary that Japan had the greatest confidence that the Canadians would punish those who were responsible for the attacks on the Japanese, and was satisfied with the steps in that direction already taken.

Headed For British Columbia.
Ottawa, Sept. 17.—The Trade and Commerce Department is advised that 400 of the Hindus recently driven out of Bellingham, in the State of Washington, are heading for British Columbia, in small parties.

MAGISTRATE UNDER FIRE.
People Go Back Thirty Years to Rake Up Charges.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—In pursuance of correspondence which has passed on the subject between the complainants and the Department of the Attorney-General, a deposition consisting of the names of Orangemen and two of the councillors, Messrs. Lynn and Henderson, waited yesterday afternoon upon the Hon. J. J. Foy, and requested that a thorough and early enquiry be ordered into the methods employed by the police magistrate of Orangeville, Joseph Paskalo, during a period extending over many years.

About one dozen cases were especially mentioned in this particular; one of the dates was so far back as thirty years ago, and another goes back five years.

Hon. Mr. Foy informed the members of the deposition that he would direct that an examination be made into the complaints which had been laid before the Department.

She Could Swim.
"Look here!" exclaimed the irate suburbanite as he floundered about in the green water and soft mud. "When I bought this lot didn't I tell you I had just been married?"

"You did, sir," replied the land agent boldly.
"Well, do you think this is the proper place to bring a bride?"

"I do, sir. Didn't I hear you call her 'Duckie' two or three times?"

SWINDLED GALT FOLK.

Smooth Young Man Also Disappointed Too Trusting Girl.
Galt, Sept. 17.—Yesterday there were three Galt business men out of money and a girl disappointed.

About two weeks ago J. C. Stewart, ostensibly representing the Dodd Made Co. of New York City, publishers, came to Galt. He hired a rig every day from John E. Koye and his bill amounted to $30. He stayed at the Grand Hotel, where he borrowed $5 and owed for two weeks' board.

He was driving around with a Galt machine, which he promised to marry this week. To get ready for the wedding ceremony he called at W. H. Kennedy's, the tailor, and ordered two suits and gave a check for $30, on which Mr. Kennedy gave him $5.

The check was made out for J. C. Stewart by the Bank of Canada. Poor House, signed by the secretary and president, and payable at the Bank of Canada.

On Saturday morning nothing could be found of him, as he had left on the 9 o'clock car for Berlin. Mr. Kennedy sent a telegram to Bank of Canada House, signed by the secretary and president, and payable at the Bank of Canada.

Stewart has now had nearly three days' start, and it will be a hard matter to trace him.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weakness and falling, or other displacement of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, irregular periods, dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Though the faster are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of women's ailments.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy or know of its merits, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equalled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take and candy.

Escaped Horrible Death.

Carleton Place, Ont., Sept. 16.—There was a narrow escape from a terrible fatality at the Moore street crossing of the C. P. R. here early Saturday morning, when the west-bound Soo express struck the Mississippi Hotel bus while on its way from the station to the hotel.

Inside the vehicle were five persons, all of whom escaped. One of the valuable horses was killed outright, and the other was badly out up and afterwards shot to end its sufferings.

Frank Lodge, who was driving, was considerably injured, some of his ribs being fractured.

It is understood the vehicle was badly wrecked, and the escape of the occupants is most remarkable.

Farmer's Tragic Death.

Wingham, Sept. 16.—Richard Leishman, one of the best-known and highly respected residents of East Wingham, came to a tragic end on Saturday.

For the last few months Mr. Leishman has given evidence of a weakened mental condition. In the morning he went out with one of his daughters to get the cows, and on the way stepped aside for a moment into a clump of trees, where there was a little pool of water. When his daughter returned to look for him, a few minutes after, he was discovered lying face downward in the water, quite dead.

HOW TO ARRANGE FLOWERS.

Never Put Different Varieties Together In the Same Vase.

There is an art in the arrangement of flowers as there is in the arrangement of a colosseum, and many a flower "blushes" as privately in the cramped quarters of an overcrowded vase as it would amid the recognized solitude of the "desert air."

She who would obtain the best effects from her flowers should remember the methods of the late Cella Thaxter, the poetess of the Isles of Rhodus. Mrs. Thaxter, who was passionately fond of flowers, had enormous gardens in her island, which daily yielded her quantities of flowers. Her house from kitchen to garret was filled with vases of bloom, and these vases were a joy to the eye used to bouquets of un-congenial tints and alien floral personalities. For, instead of the familiar regiment of flowers, Mrs. Thaxter separated each variety, and so all over her house there were great vases of roses, and there were equally great vases of trailing wisteria, there were bowls of sweet peas and tall urns full of velvety nasturtiums. Every flower was assigned a separate apartment, and the result was a sense of harmony and repose which is never afforded by the indiscriminate mingling of flowers.

But more dangerous than any jargon of floral tints is the huddling together of flowers. Frequently nowadays one sees a vase of daisies which is crisscrossed so tightly together that every petal encroaches upon its neighbor's anatomy. The result is as unpoetic as a knot of hair which is screwed up on the back of the head without any preliminary wave or pompadour. After encountering the untasteful arrangement of flowers, so to speak, it will occur to many that the well known speech of Robert Chambers, "Poet Beautiful" in regard to "a single flower against a mere background of nothing at all" is not without value.

NOVEL SCORE CARDS.
No Great Artistic Ability Required to Make Them.

A novel idea for score cards was seen at an afternoon party recently. The cards were cut in the shape of a face, but none of the features was indicated. A few wavy lines were drawn in. The features were drawn separately, cut out and used as stickers for scoring.

As the games progress the results obtained by the winners were ludicrous in the extreme, as the face gains a feature at a time according to the number of games won.

Two eyes, two eyebrows, two ears, a nose and a mouth provide for eight progressions. If additional progressions are needed, neckties, scarves, eyeglasses and heads may be drawn.

No great amount of artistic ability is needed for this work, as any simple pen drawing may serve as a model and the features copied from that. By changing the lines of the mouth and the position of the eyes different expressions may be obtained. The drawing will answer the purpose if done in black and white, but the effect will be still better if the different features and the face are tinted with water colors.

She Raised the Dust.
A woman who was unskilled in any art of needle became a professional quack. She had never been trained to work and was quite at a loss to know what to do when circumstances rendered it necessary that she should become self-supporting. She had a large circle of friends, who were very well to do, and hearing one of them complain of the carelessness of her maid in dusting the beautiful and costly bric-a-brac with which her house was filled, she offered to do the dusting periodically. She supplied herself with dusters of various kinds, exquisitely clean chambray skins for polishing, camel's hair brushes and skewers for dislodging the dust from crevices. Eventually she had several engagements. This is a true story, and it offers the suggestion that if a person thinks long and earnestly he or she will be likely to find at last something to do.

Forced to Wear False Hair.
Even though a woman's own hair is heavy and beautiful, the milliners are in league with the hairdressers to force her to wear the store kind. The latest creation in headgear from Paris, called the haystack hat, requires the hair to be dressed high. A thick pad must be pinned on the crown of the head, and over that the hair must be rolled. Then the hair is arranged in little curls. On this mass the hat is poised and fastened with two long pins. The hair then is loosened in front and pinned up to the brim of the hat. "This new wrinkle" a woman says, "may require a

A RHYMING WILL.

Perhaps the most peculiar will ever written was probated in England at Doctor's Commons, July 17, 1789. It ran as follows:

"I give and bequeath,
When I am laid underneath,
To my two loving sisters, most dear,
The whole of my store,
Were it twice as much more,
Which God's goodness has granted me here.

"And that none may prevent
This my will and intent,
Or occasion the least of law racket,
With a solemn appeal
I confirm, sign, and seal
This, the true act and deed of Will Jackit."

TO SAVE SUBMARINE CREWS.

Naval Officers Invent Helmet to Avoid Under Water Tragedies.

Creeps of submarines have hitherto undertaken their duty with the unpleasant consciousness that, if disaster befell the vessel, their chances of escape were slight in the extreme. It is no longer.

Commander S. S. Hall, of the submarine service, and Staff Surgeon Oswald Rees, of H.M.S. Mercury, have invented an apparatus to enable the crew of a submarine to escape from their wrecked vessel. How the new life-saver works was shown at a recent demonstration at the premises of Messrs. Siebe, Gorman & Co., Limited, submarine engineers to the Admiralty, when the experiment was made of sending a man down about fifteen feet of water in a tank and seeing him rise safely.

The guests were invited to imagine at the outset that a submarine had been a hole made in her, and was filling with water. Three problems have to be solved. The first is to save the crew from the effects of poisonous gases generated by the salt water gaining access to the electrical storage batteries; the second, to save the crew from drowning in the vessel; the third, to enable the crew to get out and rise to the surface.

To meet these conditions a special form of diving helmet has been designed. The air in the apparatus can be used over and over again, the carbonic acid gas of the expired air being absorbed by a special substance which is called oxythine, and which restores to the air the requisite amount of oxygen, and renders it again fit for breathing. When an accident occurs the men in the submarine can each put on the dress in half a minute.

Each is completely protected from the poisonous gases which may be generated in the boat; the chief of these is chlorine.

In the construction of a submarine arrangements are made enabling the crew to open the hatch of the conning tower in all conditions, so as to try and reach the surface. Once there, the dress acts as a lifebuoy until the men are picked up. In any circumstances they are assured of living by the aid of this dress for eighty minutes.

A satisfactory test of the appliance was, of course, only made in the happy event of an accident to a submarine vessel whose crew are equipped with it. At present the apparatus is being "considered" by the authorities.

Improvements at Windsor.
Among the many agreeable innovations introduced by King Edward at Windsor Castle during the last twelve months is the provision of a billiard-room and conversational annex, which adjoin the library. As is generally known, the royalties always breakfast and lunch in private, and as a rule do not meet their guests staying at the castle until the dinner hour, unless they happen to send for them specially. Formerly the men guests, if the weather was fine, spent the time between meals in visiting the grounds and the park, but if it rained were practically compelled to confine themselves to their bedrooms, only visitors of royal rank being furnished with suites of apartments comprising sitting rooms. Even Cabinet Ministers on duty at the castle were compelled to do all their writing in their bedrooms. But now the men can spend their time in the billiard-room, in the most comfortable and roomy species of conversational annex, or in the library perusing newspapers, dealing with their correspondence, and playing bridge. In fact, the only thing lacking are some tape machines conveying the news of the day in order to complete the impression of the guests that they are at their club in Pall Mall instead of under the roof-tree of King Edward at Windsor.

Drastic Economy.
Reverend Frederic correspondent says Mr. Hull, the treasurer, in his speech on the budget in the Legislative Assembly, said that the Inter-Colonial Railway revenue had decreased by $500,000, and the revenue of the Transvaal by $250,000. The Government's policy, Mr. Hull declared, must be one of drastic economy as far as was consistent with efficiency, and must include the adjustment of the incidence of taxation with a view to reducing the cost of living. Mining being a perishable industry, the revenue from that source would be earmarked for the establishment and fostering of more stable industries. The Minister added that a portion of the loan of $5,000,000 to be guaranteed by the Imperial Government might be required for the Land Bank and the service of the Inter-Colonial Railway Council this session.

FALL SIGNS.
I do not note the falling leaves. That whirl about the chilling gust. But when that wind bites through my sleeves I realise I must lay in new clothes—oh, season dread!

'Tis then I know old fall is here. I do not notice all the tints With which Dame Nature paints the trees. But, strongest of her many hints, My straw hat dances on the breeze. And then I know
