

Fun and Fancy.

The pen is mightier than the sword, but it can never hope to compete with the toy pistol. A party hearing of an engraving of a dog after Landseer, wanted to know what he was after him for. Boston delights in it. It now flies the pennant for baseball, baked beans and ben butter. 'You will grow up ugly, Ada, if you make faces.' 'Did you make faces when you were a little girl, auntie?' A contemporary mentions a case beyond the ordinary oculist. It is that of a young lady who, instead of a pupil, has a college student in her eye. A travelling man who boasted of his intimate acquaintance with several kings and queens, was found afterwards to be a professional poker-player. The making of wooden trinkets from timber grown on the lands of Abbotsford, the home of Sir Walter Scott, is said to be devastating the forests of the State of Maine. When a church committee called upon a merchant for a subscription toward the oyster supper, he liberally offered to contribute the oyster—and yet they were not satisfied. 'Yes,' said the druggist, 'I'm very sorry I gave Mr. Snaggs the wrong dose by mistake and he died. He's the second good customer I've robbed myself of in that way this year.'

Household Hints.

Do not tack your bedroom carpets down, but take up and shake often. Scatter fresh-cut grass instead of tea-leaves on the carpet before sweeping. When threading a needle, hold it over something white; it will help the sight. Patch short quilts at the corners of pillow and feather beds; it gives good circulation. Scrub floors with an old broom and strongly lye, little at a time, then mop with warm water. One teaspoonful of chloride of lime in three quarts of water will take stains from white goods. To extinguish fire in the chimney, put some powdered brimstone in the fire and shut the stove all up. To clean willow furniture, use salt and water; apply with a brush and wipe very dry. Hiccough can immediately be relieved by administering a lump of sugar wet with vinegar. The yolk of an egg mixed with a little molasses makes a rich brown glaze for the top of rusks and buns. The best way to sweep your best carpet is to sprinkle it first with dampened cornmeal. It lays the dust and brightens the colors. Green tomatoes sliced and fried in butter, a la egg plant, are much relished by some people. The slices should first lie in salt and water for two hours. Hard-boiled eggs pressed with chicken or veal add to the relish and the appearance also of these dishes when cut in slices. Pains must be taken not to press the eggs out of shape. This is said to be a very good remedy for hoarseness:—Beat the white of an egg to a stiff froth, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar, the juice of one lemon, and a glass of warm water. A pretty way to decorate plush panels for an evening is to arrange a spray of flowers, either natural or artificial, and tie it with satin ribbon, and hang it in a graceful, carefully balanced way on the panel. Country housewives who must wait long for the oyster are obliged to invent dishes for tea which may take its place. 'Veal oysters' will sometimes do this. Cut the veal in small squares, dip in butter, and fry until brown in hot lard. Serve while very hot, with a pinch of Cayenne pepper and plenty of salt on them. This way of making a plum pudding cannot be too highly recommended. If fresh plums are in season, use them; if not, take a quart can of plums; put them in a basin on the stove; when hot, sweeten them plentifully; soak several slices of bread in the juice, then line a pudding dish with the bread, and pour the plums in. Serve cold, with cream. An Iowa housewife sends this receipt for cookies, and says:—'We did not like cookies at our house, but we like these.' One cup of New Orleans molasses, half a cup of water, half a cup of shortening (this may be of butter or lard, or of nice beef dripping), one teaspoonful each of ginger, cinnamon, and soda. Do not use enough flour to make a hard dough, but have it as soft as you can and yet have the cookies smooth. A novel entrée is made by boiling until tender an equal quantity of carrots and turnips. When done, mash and season with pepper and butter, and a little more salt if necessary. Butter a vegetable dish, and put in first a layer of all the dish is full. This may be turned out on a small, deep platter, and if close ly packed it will keep its shape. A correspondent asks for a receipt for making 'cologne water':—Two drachms of oil of lemon, two drachms of oil of rosemary, two of oil of bergamot, one of oil of lavender, ten drops each of oil of cinnamon and of cloves, two drops of rose, tincture of musk eight drops. Put all these into a quart of the best alcohol, cork tightly, and shake hard for a few minutes. This improves with age. If it is not strong enough for your pleasure, use less alcohol. Red cabbage mixed with white makes an excellent pickle. Slice the cabbage very fine; for three heads of cabbage scald two quarts of vinegar of medium strength, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar; put into a bag one tablespoonful each of cloves and cinnamon, and half a teaspoonful of black pepper, put the little bag of spice in the vinegar when you scald it, and let it remain in the pan when you pour the vinegar in over the cabbage; press the cabbage down with a plate with a weight on it, so that the cabbage will be under the vinegar. A very pretty tidy is made by sewing strips of Valenciennes insertion together until you have the desired size for a tidy; line this with ribbon of different colors, and it may be of different widths; finish with a face edge. The ribbons need not be entirely fresh, but must be ironed smooth. Another way to make a handsome tidy at small expense is to get an oblong or square of satin, cover half of it diagonally with lace insertion sewed together, trim with a pretty edge, and at the corner of the satin which is not covered by lace work a spray of flowers. Hugh Lowe of Stanley, sold five Shropshire Down ram lambs at the London fair for $35 to $45 each. An aged ram of Mr. Love's, when being returned from London, was killed on the cars. He had been offered $75 for it. Novel Remedies. People who would never dream of asking a merchant for a dollar's worth of goods for nothing, think it quite a matter of course that publishers should advertise their wares or schemes as a matter of course. The number of these people is large, and those who think the cap will fit them may put it on. Newspapers are published in the interests of the public as well as of their owners, and are generally found willing to assist in promoting praiseworthy undertakings, but it ought to be clearly understood by merchants that in cases where money is gained by publicity, the instrument of such publicity is entitled to be paid for services rendered.—[St. Thomas Evening Journal.

Art at Home.

A protecting cover for a lounge can be pretty well made out of two simple materials—cheap cretonne and a strip of common lawn cotton, which is used as a border to the brightly tinted goods, and where the seams are put a row of fancy stitches—using embroidery silk or crewel; finish off the ends with fringe. Another style of lounge cover is made of unbleached cotton, around which may be stitched a strip of turkey red calico—this constitutes the border finish; scatter over the rest of the cover appliqued leaves and blossoms cut out of cretonne, all carefully stitched to the calico, and when the stems are frail embroidery should be brought into requisition. It is surprising how much these home-made covers protect fashionably upholstered lounges. A very pretty industry, with a practical result, is given in crocheted napkins for children. Select linen thread of the required length, fasten it at one end, which will show the size of the ring to be wrought; now crochet round and round until the width of the ring is obtained, finish with small scallops, as rich stiff, and slip over a bottle to dry; when dry run a bright-colored ribbon through the scallops and tie in a tiny bow with short ends; this novel style of child's napkin ring is quite a beauty spot on a well-appointed table. A pretty style of a sofa pillow is crocheted in squares of different colors; select worsted of moderate size; almost any stitch may be chosen; a cord is run around the edge, and tassels, one or two are placed on the corners. A Mexican work-basket is very ornamental, and not difficult to do, either in wood or in paper. Purchase a basket made of soft rushes; embroider a piece of scarlet cloth, cut the shape of the pattern; the valance around the basket is also of a scarlet cloth, and handsomely ornamented with needle-work. The design of the embroidery is in large Mexican stitch, which is very showy and easier of execution than the Berlin work. The appliques are of various colors, cut out of odd bits of fine goods, and outdone stitched on to the cloth; a rustic frame holds the basket; the whole is handsome and quite ornamental. Lamp mats artistically executed are an addition to a cozy cottage home. Materials required are inexpensive. Take two ounces of saphire, rose and white, or blue and white, and one ounce of dark green; take two chairs, put the backs together, leaving a space between of half a yard; place two sticks across the tops of the chairs; sit at the opposite side of the sticks, having some one to assist in the weaving; wind the thread where the knot is, slip the loops of the thread, drawing down firmly, and then pass the saphire over again and continue; the process is simple, and the result exceedingly pretty. These mats are durable and also ornamental. The Car Driver's Darling. For several evenings lately one simple incident has given me such pleasure that now I regularly follow it in some of the corners of galleries that I may remember it. There comes to the corner of the street a young woman carrying in her arms a little babe scarce old enough to say its own first word; there wait, this mother and her child; wait till one certain car is sighted on its way up the street. The mother must then involuntarily press her little one closer to her, for baby brightens up as though it knew papa is near. Presently the car is at a stand-still; the driver reaches over the dashboard, takes the little one from the woman's outstretched arms, kisses once or twice the roguish mouth and then hands baby back again. Sometimes the car is filled with passengers; it is never empty—and then some of the occupants may at first wonder at the stop, the reason is soon found out, and a kindly feeling excuses the momentary delay. Away rattles the car; out of the darkening street into the distance beyond passes the woman with the child, but the pretty picture hangs about the place for a moment after. It's a trifling, simple thing; but I hasten every evening to my accustomed nook.—[Exchange.

Working up to a Climax.

'I can swim the whirlpool at Niagara, said a stranger in a confidential whisper to a hardware man yesterday. 'Can you?' 'I feel that I can. I should like some advice from you. Would you try it if you were me?' 'No, sir—no, sir, I wouldn't think of such a thing. A man who hasn't been in a bath-tub for a year, nor had on a clean shirt for a month, wouldn't stand the ghost of a shower with a whirlpool. You'd better go and tackle a drink of water, and gradually work up to it.' Rev. John Sunday, an Indian preacher at Hamilton, Ont., is reported to have closed a recent address with the following language: 'There is a gentleman who, I suppose, is now in this house. He is a very fine gentleman, but a very modest one. He does not like to show himself at these meetings. I do not know how long it is since I have seen him, he comes out so little. I am very much afraid that he sleeps a good deal of his time, when he ought to be out doing good. His name is Gold. Mr. Gold, are you here to-night, or are you sleeping in your iron chest? Come out, Mr. Gold, come out and help us do this great work, to preach the Gospel to every creature. Ah, Mr. Gold, you ought to be ashamed of yourself to sleep so much in your iron chest. Look at your white brother, Mr. Silver; he does a great deal of good while you are sleeping. Come out, Mr. Gold. Look, too, at your little brown brother, Mr. Copper; he is everywhere. Your poor little brown brother is running about, doing all that he can to help us. Why don't you come out, Mr. Gold? Well, if you won't show yourself, send us your shirt, that is, a bank note. That is all I have to say.' A Life Saving Present. Mr. M. E.
