THE CITY OF NEW ORLEANS

ITS BEAUTIES AND ITS DEFECTS DESCRIBED.

The system of drainage—Public and Private Buildings—Resorts of Pleasure—A Judge on Trial for Murder.

Dear World: I will now refer to New Orleans as a city. I cannot see how it can ever be a healthy one. I think I have already told you that the city is flat and what little fall there is is backwards. The river is higher than the level of the city. The water protection from overflow by piles and boardwalk. At the present time the water is two or three feet below the city's level and not likely to rise. The whole drainage is backwards by open gutters at each side of the street. The house drainings all run into this and at a distance back into tanks, where there are drainage machines. These are kept constantly at work pumping and forcing the sewage backwards into a canal, and then emptying itself into a lake, and from it flows into the Gulf. Two or three of the main streets are kept tolerably clean, but all the side and back streets are positively filthy, even at this season of the year. One cannot wonder that the people can keep healthy, and yet they are. The police force number 180, but the chance says it is no bad thing that they employ Farrell's force, and it is a large one. Each policeman pays so much a year. We had a letter from Mr. Farrell but the poor fellow was being carried away to his last home just as we were crossing the city to our lodgings. He was pointed by misadventure of the draught, who is now under charge of a man.

An extraordinary trial is now going on. A judge is being tried for murder, and all out of politics. It is said that one Murphy, a policeman, said some very bad things of Judge Ford (now the prisoner). The judge and brothers met this Murphy, and the latter began to quarrel with the brothers about what he said of the judge, and they at once fired at Murphy. All parties drew their pistols and blazed away. Murphy fired on all the chambers were empty, no one being hurt. Murphy then ran, the judge and brothers followed him. The shots at last took effect, and Murphy fell, and they say the judge rushed up and delivered the final shot. For this the five prisoners have been three days trying to get a jury, as yet only seven are sworn in, and the court house for a few minutes. It was crowded. It seems to be a foregone conclusion that Judge Ford will be acquitted, enough to secure his acquittal if the case ever does go to the jury.

All the heavy business of the city and shipping houses are now the city. For stores, they cannot begin to touch Toronto, and as for dwellings, they are a century behind us. All the buildings are of wood, clap board. The houses are built high up, some of them on brick foundations, the latter being used as store rooms. Some houses have two stories. Some of those on the second story are covered in with lattice work. Many of their gardens have a large orange tree, and are evergreen. Many of them have nice lawns. In the French part the buildings are like old Quebec. The colored people live together, and the white people are called Smoky Row. The newer part of the city is occupied by the best people. The charitable institutions are few. The hospital is one of the finest in the United States. The cotton and sugar exchanges are very fine buildings.

There are three clubs, one called the Pickwick. It is the most modern building in the city. President Arthur is expected here at the Mardi Gras, and his quarters will be at the Pickwick club. The hotels, as I before said, are not the most desirable quarters. A good fire, if no fire of life, would be a blessing, as there is no modern built hotel until the St. Charles or others are burnt.

The custom house, post office and United States court, are all in one very large building. The roads on the principal business streets are large, paved with stone blocks. About a mile up Canal street a roadway made of oyster shells commences, and it runs out to the lake some five or six miles. This road is one of the best for driving purposes I ever saw. These oyster shells are collected by the city authorities and dumped into the roads that are to be made, the wagons running over them pounds them down into a solid road. This morning we went to the cemetery. They are one of the finest. I see that some are buried under the ground, while the most of them are in large vaults built from the ground, which have space for as large as some houses. The walls there are kept in splendid order. They, too, are made of oyster shells. The shrubs, trees, etc., are very fine and all are beautifully kept.

We then went out to the lake, one of the summer resorts. The tramway company bought the land as the lake. It is about six miles from the city, and they run trains every hour. We left at 10 and reached the lake in thirty minutes. It is one of the prettiest places I ever saw. It is to New Orleans what Coney Island is to New York. There is a very large promenade with refreshment places all round, a theatre, and a long pier out a considerable distance into the lake. Running east by the water's edge is a series of walks and shrubberies, trees, flower beds and two "mazes," the first I ever saw on this continent. It was amusing to see folks get into them and then couldn't get either in the centre or outside of it. This walk has many resting places, and they are needed, as it is fully half a mile in length. The place is well supplied with row boats and yachts. The latter would take you to Spanish Fort and back, a distance of about eight miles, for 50 cents.

One can see that the city is fast filling up. The house we are in is now full. We were the first occupants. Still, there is room for thousands, as far as the lodgings are concerned. We can scarcely pass a house without the card "Rooms to Let." It is their harvest, and many families put themselves about to make some money during the exhibition. Of course the Mardi Gras will be their best season. There are hundreds of restaurants, and I believe they will be tried to their very utmost when the folk come in to the great festival. At the exhibition they can easily supply 20,000 or 30,000 each day, and they can easily do it if necessary. At present they do but little, but still what they do is very good. Our party have made up their minds to stay Saturday. I may send you another letter or I say good-bye to New Orleans. I certainly can say I never made a more pleasant visit.

New Orleans, Jan. 30.
