A MOTHER'S LOVE

It is not prosperity, with her smile and beauty, that tries the purity and fervor of a mother's love; it is in the dark and dreary precincts of adversity, amid the cold frowns of an unfeeling world, in poverty and despair, in sickness and in sorrow, that it shines with a brightness beyond mortality, and stifling the secret of its bosom, strives but to pour balm and consolation upon the sufferer, and the cup of misery, filled to overflowing, serves but to bind them more firmly and dearly to No more are youngsters to be thrilleach other, as the storms of winter bid the sheltering ivy twine itself clang of the hammer of the roadside more closely around the withered oak. DON'T SCOLD

There seems to be a widespread belief that the right way to reform a man is to remind him of his sin, and in trying to make men better we have often a great campaign of what is really nothing but old-fashioned, devil-begotten, anger producing scolding. The employer scolds his employees to make them work harder vincial University. The course thus and they simply get mad and loaf. The parents scolds the children to course, the subjects of the first year improve their manners and their morals, and the children get sulky or impertinent, and grow worse instead of better. The pastor scolds his people for not attending church being English, French, science and and prayer-meeting, and he thinks any two of history, psychology, and he is doing his duty; but there is no political economy. increase in attendance, and there is a very manifest disinclination to lisof talking. Scolding has little place in business, home life, or church life. In nearly every case it fails to do the good it is intended to do, and it does is no "cheapening" of university a good deal of harm it is not intended to do.

And the worst of it is that no one ever recognizes that he is scolding. To recognize the fact is to be cured. We are all so familiar with the evil effects of scolding that the monent any reason, failed to avail themit comes home to us that we are selves of youth's opportunity for guilty we put a watch on our words. learning. A STARTLING INNOVATION

Wherever, in any part of Ontario, twenty or more persons wish to proceed to a University degree without discontinuing their employment, facilities to accomplish their ambition are offered by the Provincial University so far as its finances and the size of its staff will permit.

For years the University of Toronto has had special arrangements to enable teachers to secure higher academic qualifications and the degree of B.A. without giving up their teaching positions. At the March meeting of the University Senate these arrangements were extended and adapted to meet the needs of people engaged in any ordinary employment. With only centain absolutely indispensable regulations as to size of classes, control of staff, suitable equipment for scientific subjects, and with only ordinary university fees prescribed, the opportunity is offered for the establishment of what may be virtually local colleges affiliated with the Prooffered is the "pass" or "general" being English, Latin, French, algebra and geometry (one paper), nometry, and science, and those of the second, third, and fourth yours

This departure is in accord with the well-known democratic policy of ten to more of this unpopular style Ontario's University. Its design is to make the advantages of higher education available throughout the University's entire constituency. This education, for university teaching and examinations will be maintained at their traditional high standard. but it does bring higher education to the people's doors-especially to the doors of those adults who have, for will involve just as much work as it

CHILD WELFARE

There is now a widespread public interest in the above subject and instead of advocating new forms of activity it may be necessary to guard against undue multiplication of or ganizations, with heavy expenses and diffusion of effort says the To ronto Globe.

The whole community is getting a firm grip on the idea that all building of character, all progress and form, must begin with the child First, we must see to it that the infant life of the Province there is a healthy foundation on which to build and then add to the happiness and culture of child life so that there may be normal and all-round development. It was in recognition of this principle that the Government recently passed the Mothers' Allowance Act, whereby one million dollars per annum will be paid to widowed mothers to enable them properly to care for their children in their own homes. Provision was made also group of counties, with the duty of helping to educate mothers in the better care of infants so that useful lives may be saved.
