Warner delivered a very interesting and instructive lecture on the subject of Forestry in Oddfellow's Hall on Wednesday evening last, under the auspices of the court of Foresters of this place. The lecture, which was delivered in a very humorous style, dealt with the question of life insurance generally, and that afforded by the order of Forestry in particular. The reverend gentleman was listened to with marked attention and was frequently interrupted by amplause.

The work is now completed, and can be obtained by those interested at a moderate price. It contains many points outside of a mere genealogy. It is well printed and indexed, and is embellished with portraits and other engravings.

To the Editor of the Monitor:

DEAR SIR,—In your last MONITOR I notice quite a lengthy article signed Hamptonite. The writer seems to be in search of more light, and I should not think it worth replying to were it not for the vile slander it contains. Your readers would naturally suppose from the communication that Hampton was a hot-bed of frolic and cruelty. Such house, it not the case and I need the rease. however is not the case, and I presume there is as much genuine piety in Hampton and Phinney's Cove as there is from Hampton to Port Lorne. The writer makes a great difference between the dance hall and shaking think those who love him had better refrain from such amusement. As to overloading teams, Hampton has good teams, both of oxen and horses; they are well fed, well treated, and know how to draw a big load, and during the winter that is past I have heard of no cruelty, no maimed or deformed animals, or any that have received any injuries from overwork or cruelty. The only deformed animal is the Hamptonite. When a person gets so low down in the scale of humanity as to attack people on their religion, it is quite certain that the animal prehumanity as to attack people on their reli-gion, it is quite certain that the animal pre-dominates largely over the human. And now as to the salt of the earth and Lot's now as to the sait of the carri-wife; perhaps the Hamptonite contemplates being changed to a pillar of salt, so the young lambs and other animals can frisk about it, and occasionally take a lok.
