Suppose you get at the rights of this roofing question—

Slate makes a handsome roof, and a very fair roof, w it's laid right,—and if you will pay the price. It's the only roofing that even compares with "Oshawa" Shingles for shedding wet. But—

A slate roof costs 4 times as much to buy; thrice as much to lay; and weighs 7 times as much—which demands heavy, rigid timbering to sustain it. Yet any slate roof will need repairs four times to an "Oshawa" shingled roof's once,—and then it won't be fire-proof, won't be wind-proof, won't be lightning proof. "Oshawa" Shingles are all that,—they're proof against everything that can affect a roof.

So-called "patent" roofings are mostly paper—that's the base and bulk of them, no matter what fancy names they bear. They can't stand much, at best; and they need painting and patching so very, very often that they're not so cheap as they seem,—not nearly so cheap.

Wood shingles are out of the question, practically. True, they're used a lot, but you wouldn't use them if you'd read "Roofing Right," the Pedlar People's free book. That would show you the facts about cost.

Well, that leaves the other makes of metal shingles. (Ever noticed how most of them dodge the use of the word steel?). They all cost about the same as "Oshawa" Shingles to start with. They are all hard to lay right. Mine are easy. And this is the BIG fact:—

Not one of those other makes is GUARANTEED. Mine are,—guaranteed to be a GOOD roof, in every respect, for twenty-five years, or—a NEW roof for nothing.

If that was all that could be said to praise "Oshawa" Shingles, isn't that one fact of the guarantee, plain and unequivocal, enough to warrant your preference? Better get samples and the book,—now. Write nearest warehouse.

MASSACRE IN SYRIA.

Beirut, Syria, April 18.—A terrible uprising has occurred in Adana. Street fighting has been going on for three days and at least one thousand persons have been killed. The city has been practically destroyed by fire. American missionaries named Rogers and Maurer, the latter from Hadjin, are dead. All the other Americans are safe. The British vice-consul, Major Daughtry-Wylie, is among the wounded. He was shot through the arm.

At Tarasus there was less loss of life. The American quarter, however, was destroyed. Four thousand refugees are housed in the American mission. The need of relief is urgent, for shortly the fugitives will be on the verge of starvation.

Conditions in the vicinity of Alexandretta also are most serious.

AN AGREEABLE PROSPECT.

A New Englander, travelling on foot through the southern mountains studying the people, asked a man whom he met to direct him to a certain cabin at which he had been advised to stay overnight. "Going that?" said the man. "Well, Tom's a first rater, take him just right, but he's mighty queer."

"What do you mean?" asked the traveller.
 "Well, it's like this," and the man looked at the stranger in a calm, impersonal way. "He'll be setting outside, most probably and he'll see you coming; he'll take a good look at you, and if you don't suit him he may set the dog on you."

"If he don't, and you get to talking with him and say anything he don't just like, he may throw you down and tramp on you. But if you are too careful in your talk, on the other hand, he's liable to take you for a spy and use his gun just and listen to explanations afterward."

"But it's no use trying to get by without stopping," concluded the man, with evident relish of the prospect he was opening up to the stranger. "If you was to undertake that 'twould be all up with you, for he'd think you was proud and tizzy."

"If you want to come out of the mountain whole, don't go past Tom's cabin without stopping, whatever you do!"—Youth's Companion.

BY ARITHMETICAL PROGRESSION.

(From Lippincott's Magazine.)

When discussing the growth of prohibition, Hoke Smith, ex-Governor of Georgia, told the following story: "You can't buy rum and rump with the same half dollar," he remarked. "but you can, with the same coin, buy beef and brawn. That's as true in the right sense as it was false in the case of the old slave once owned by a friend of mine. The planter had lost a pig, and accused old Sambo of appropriating the same."
 "Sam, you stole that shoat," he declared.

"No, I didn't, Marse Ridgely," answered Sam; "deed I didn't, sub."
 "Why, Sam, both Tom and Sylvester saw you do it. They tell me so themselves."

"Dey do, sub? Well, dey des didn't see nuffin' o' the kind. Case why? I didn't steal yo'-all's shoat; I des tuk 'im."

"I don't understand you, Sam. There's no difference between stealing and 'just taking' something that doesn't belong to you."

"O, yes, dey is, Marse Ridgely. Sam contested. 'If I'd sold 'im dat'd been diff'rent, but I only et 'im. It's dis-away; dat's yo'-all's shoat, an' I'm yo'-all's nigger. Well, sub, now it's true yo' rot less shoat, but yo' got more nigger.'"

George Ade says that when a certain college president in Indiana, a clergyman, was addressing the students in the chapel at the beginning of the college year, he observed that it was "a matter of congratulation to all the friends of the college that the year had opened with the largest freshman year in its history." Then, without any pause, the good man turned to the lesson for the day, the third Psalm, and began to read in a voice of thunder:
 "Lord how are they increased that trouble me!"—Lippincott's.

Little Marie had returned from her first visit to Sunday school.
 "And what lesson are you to study for next Sunday?" her mother asked.
 "Nuffin' much," said the four-year-old rather scornfully. "Her jest said to learn all about the catkissin—and me knowed that already."—Pearl Paysure Poore.

Supervisor McKay.

(Educational Review.)

It is a familiar face that is presented in the Review supplement for this month—the portrait of Alexander McKay, the well-known supervisor of the Halifax schools. For fifty years Mr. McKay has been connected with educational work in Nova Scotia, a part of which he spent as a teacher in the public schools. For twenty-five years he has been supervisor of schools in Halifax, a post which he has filled with distinguished ability and to the satisfaction of all classes of citizens. His activities have not been confined to the schools whose interests have been his greatest care, and whose advancement and improvement he has labored for continually with a zeal and ambition worthy of the highest praise. His busy life has been a round of duties, in which not only educational but every kind of philanthropic work has found in him a helper and an advocate, ready at all times to give any worthy movement his active support, and to help it forward with unstinted and unselfish effort.

It would be difficult to mention any important institution which has not felt his stimulating influence. He has always taken a warm interest in Dalhousie College, where for many years he delivered lectures on education. He was one of the founders and the principal promoter of the Victoria Academy of Art and Design, which has been a great stimulus to art education in Halifax. He is one of the board of governors of the Halifax Ladies' College; and as secretary of the Provincial Educational Association of Nova Scotia for more than thirty years, his influence in that body has been effective and far-reaching.

A little more than a year ago the scholars, teachers, citizens and board of school commissioners of Halifax presented to Supervisor McKay a series of addresses and many valuable testimonials on the completion of fifty years of educational work in Nova Scotia, and in consideration of his eminent services as the supervisor of schools for that city. All classes vied with each other in expressions of affectionate esteem for the man who has devoted himself so unselfishly to duty. May his influence continue to be exerted for years to come is the wish of those who know the worth of the man and the enduring character of his work.

Supervisor McKay's addresses and writings on education impress one with the solidity of his views and his firm grasp of the subject. In the literature of educational reform he is an acknowledged authority.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

REGARDING LATE ADVERTISEMENTS.

How many publishers of our country weeklies insist upon having changes of advertisements sent in by a certain hour on such a day? There are few who do, and in taking ads. any old time they happen to come along the publisher is not doing justice either to the advertiser or the compositor. In a great many offices ads. will be sent in at the last minute and this means a rush for the compositor. In nine cases out of ten he will not stop to read his copy over before commencing to set it up. He will get his display lines from the first case he lays his hands on, and the result is a poorly set ad. which attracts little attention. In this way, the advertiser does not obtain the results he would if his copy had been handed in early.

In having copy sent in early the compositor has a chance to lay out his work and knows exactly when he is at. It is much easier to set an ad. that will attract attention if he has a few minutes to study his copy. Especially at this time of the year, when the advertisers are enlarging their space does the compositor feel the necessity of having copy sent in at least half a day before publication. If publishers would insist upon this and refuse copy sent in late, the advertiser and both would directly benefit by such a change. The merchant would have more attractive advertisements and the printer would issue a much neater sheet.—Printers' Publisher.

YOU MUST NOT GAMBLE.

We are publishing today certain parts of the Criminal Code, Section 236, and we ask all to read carefully. A man at times may innocently be a violator of law, but hereafter no reader can plead ignorance on this subject.

Every one is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to two years' imprisonment, and to a fine not exceeding $2,000, who (a) makes, prints, advertises or publishes, or causes or procures to be made, printed, advertised or published, any proposal, scheme or plan for advancing, lending, giving, selling or in any way disposing of any property, by lots, cards, tickets, or any mode of chance whatsoever; or

(b) sells, barter, exchanges, or otherwise disposes of, or causes or procures or aids or assists in, the sale, barter, exchange or other disposal of, or offers for sale, barter or exchange, any lot, card, ticket, or other means or device for advancing, lending, giving, selling or otherwise disposing of any property, by lots, tickets, or any mode of chance whatsoever; or

(c) conducts or manages any scheme, contrivance or operation of any kind for the purpose of determining who, or the holders of what lots, tickets, numbers or chances, are the winners of any property so proposed to be advanced, loaned, given, sold, or disposed of.

2. Every one is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a penalty of $20, who buys, takes or receives any such lot, ticket or other device as aforesaid.

3. Every sale, loan, gift, barter or exchange of any property by any lottery, ticket, card, or other made of chance depending upon or to be determined by chance or lot is void, and all property so sold, lent, given, bartered or exchanged, is liable to be forfeited to any person who sues for the same by action or information in any court of competent jurisdiction.

4. No such forfeiture shall affect any right or title to such property acquired by any bona fide purchasers for valuable consideration without notice.

5. This section includes the printing or publishing, or causing to be printed or published, of any advertisement, scheme, proposal or plan of any foreign lottery, and the sale or offer for sale of any ticket, chance or share in any such lottery, and the advertisement for sale of such ticket, chance or share, and the conducting or managing of any such scheme, contrivance or operation for determining the winners in any such lottery.
