

XXVIII.

And still her name is cherished,
By all the men of Eldon;
And without her, Croquet's bother'd,
And all the game is undone,
And ^{they} say to one another,
That a player so soft and bold,
Was never seen, upon the green,
In the brave days of old.

