

graceful instrument for the Cause;—while legal prohibition, as the proper testimony against the evil which we deplore, and the great remedy which we should provide for ourselves and posterity, should be steadily kept in view, and approached as rapidly as circumstances will allow.

For the purpose of staying intemperance, and promoting the opposite virtue,—your Committee find at once suggested to their minds, the great agencies of the pulpit, the press, and the platform. The pulpit, of every denomination;—the press, including the newspaper and the tract;—the platform, of the regular lecturer, and of the occasional public meeting. For some of these objects, money is a requisite, and that, the Grand Division, as a body, has not at command.

To supply this requirement, and to meet the suggestions just made, will demand the earnest consideration of the Grand Division: to its charge the Committee now commend the subject, with confident hope for more prosperous days, and prayer to the great Disposer of events for His continued favour and benediction.

J. S. THOMPSON.

T. H. PORTER.

DANL. DIMOCK.

P. G. W. P. Thompson, moved the following resolutions, which were seconded by G. W. Freeman, and adopted after a lengthened conversation :

Resolved : That this meeting of the Grand Division recommend to the brethren assembled in annual session, an earnest appeal to the Clergymen of all denominations, for their active professional aid to the Temperance Cause, and that a copy of such address be sent to each Clergyman in the Province.

Resolved : That this meeting recommend to the annual session, the most serious consideration of efficient means whereby our beloved Province may be saved from the spread of Intemperance, and be additionally benefitted by the advance of the Order and other Temperance agencies.

The Grand Scribe moved the following resolution, which was seconded by the Rev. T. H. Porter :

Resolved : That a Provincial Temperance Convention be