Fairchild's Essence of Pepsine

IN "INTERNAL MEDICINE"

FAIRCHILD'S ESSENCE holds a peculiarly important place in the practice of internal medicine—in preventive, palliative and curative treatment; it is the only veritable gastric juice extract.

Given in time, it averts, or later, corrects, the digestive disturbances that attend, with more or less persistency, every morbid condition of the body, and thus in a long illness is of inestimable service in helping to maintain proper nutrition.

Having a wide range of compatibility, and being always pleasing and grateful to the patient, it is an especially happy resource as a palliative.
