(From the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.) EXTRAORDINARY PASSAGE. - Some were of the opinion that when Capt. Bailey left the good ship Yorkshire his good fortune, as to a rapid passage, might forsake him; but such has not been the fact. In consequence of the indisposition of Capt. Marshall, Capt. Bailey took command of the Isaac Wright.— That ship left this port on the afternoon of the 3d of December. She was towed to Sandy Hook by a steamer during a storm, and the weather very thick. During the night the wind changed to the north-west, and the ship left the Hook early on the morning of the 4th, and arrived at Liverpool on the 17th, making the passage in thirteen days. This, we are informed, is the shortest passage on record, beating the steamer Acadia from Boston nearly two days.

The steamer Union, that left Havre on the 24th of November for New York, was compelled to put back in distress. She

The minimum rate of discount of the Bank of England still remains unaltered at 6 per cent., but out of doors first class paper has been freely accommodated at 5½, and even lower.—Bills of an inferior class have little chance, the consideration relating more to quality than to date or amount. A general readiness has prevailed for some days, which has not materially operated either one way or the other. On Thursday the first quotation for consols, ex div. for January, 85½ to 3/8, at which, after a temporary decline of an eighth, they finally closed. Bank stock left off at 186½ to 188½. In the foreign stock market increased animation was observable, and prices showed a tendency to fluctuate.

Yesterday, consols for account opened languidly, sales having been made as low as 85, after the value was \(\frac{3}{8} \) per cent. higher. Reduced 3 per cent. annuities have receded in the same proportion. Mexican bonds have fluctuated from $17\frac{3}{4}$ to 18, and are

Some interest was excited, a few days back, by the arrival of an extra mail from India, bringing intelligence of the first effect produced at Bombay by the news of the great failures of the East India houses in this country. Fr m this it appeared that no disasters had occurred at Bombay, but although the snaouncement to that effect produced a slight improvement in our atock market, it was really not entitled to be regarded as of the slightest importance since it was not at Bombay but at Calslightest importance, since it was not at Bombay but at Cal-cutta and in the Mauritius that the catastrophe was expected to take effect, and we are yet without advices from those quar-ters. Indeed, so far as I am aware, scarcely one of the failed position of one of the largest Indian joint stock banks, namely, the Union Bank of Calcutta, whose capital was one million sterling, and whose bills I mentioned in a recent letter to have been refused acceptance by Glyn & Co., their London agents, in consource. I India brought also some details regarding the in consequence of apprehensions entertained by them that the bank was going beyond its means and had made large losses.— It now appears that, at the last meeting held at Calcutta, a loss of 200,000L, owing to investments in indigo factories, was acknowledged, and although the nett profits for the year were amounted. announced to be 11 per cent., it was believed that these profits were in part made up of charges of interest on bad accounts, which would never be received, and that questionable means which would never be received, and that questionable intanhad been resorted to to keep up the price of the shares. In this state of things the quotation of the share of 1000 rupees had fallen to 550, and the greatest distrust was prevalent.

When, therefore, the news of the dishonor of the draughts of the hand. the bank by Glyn & Co. shall arrive at Calcutta, a crisis ma be expected to take place, which must seriously aggravate the already fearful prospects of the commercial community.

Much interest is also felt regarding the effect likely to be produced on the West India interest when the news of the dis-honor of the draughts of the West India Bank at Barbadoes, by its London agents, shall arrive out. The last mail brought an account of the meeting at the bank, held on the 31st of August, when their liabilities were shown to be 4,458,996 dollars, and lars, and as the proprietors' capital is only 553,000 dollars, and as the amount of cash held to meet the claims due appears to be less than a twentieth part of the total, there is reason to look to the

With regard to the Union Bank of Madrid, which failed in have resumed, it turns out that the resumption was not so much from their want of credit they had no particular debts, the greater part of the capital of the company, amounting to 600,000%, having, it is suspected, been lost in advances to a set of the company.

Thus much as respects actual events. In connexion with the future I need not by this opportunity add any thing to what I have already prophesied. The next pressure or panic may be deferred to the Spring, but every circumstance which is now taking place only tends to demonstrate its certainty. I still repeat, we have trouble to pass through from which we shall not research that or three years.

Our obituary of this day contains the name of a gentleman ose loss will be deeply and severely felt not only by his family and a numerous list of friends, but also by hundreds who have many years been the objects of his benevolence and kindthing like justice to a character so truly estimable as the late Mr. Brenchley, but his memory will long live in the recollections of his fellow-townsmen and friends. A more amiable and straight-forward man never existed, and his attention to his religious and moral duties was most exemplary. In him to charitable institutions of this town always found a steady and munificent patron and contributor. There was a singleness of heart and a sterling integrity which endeared him to all classes of society; and although he had left this neighbourhood some little time, the recollection of his many virtues and good qualities cannot soon be effaced. Mr. Brenchley served the office of Mayor twice, and was for many years a magistrate in the old

ATTEMPT TO DESTROY THE BEST OF LANDLORDS.—Mr. Usher inherited from his father the estate of Ballysaggart, near Lismore. At the period of Mr. Usher's obtaining possession of it, he found it a vast tract, principally mountain land, with a frontage to the Blackwater, along the banks of which a few acres of good land lay; the whole of the remainder, to the amount of nearly 8.000 acres, consisted of heath and gorse, or furze, all reclaimable, but at that period in a state of nature, or nearly 80. Thirty years ago, Mr. Usher undertook the Herculean task of rendering this barren moor a fertile district, of enclosing a park, and establishing his own residence upon it. A princely demesne has been created; planting to the extent of over a thousand acres have been executed; and one of the most beautiful residences in Ireland has been formed. A sum little if at all short of 60,000% sterling was expended in wages during that period, and from eighty to one hundred men daily employed and punctually paid; and thus, for upward of thirty years, from

The well-known Firm of the Messrs. Robin, in the Island of Jersey, one of whose principal establishments for the fishery of the Gaspé coast, is at Percé, contributed £25, towards the repairs of the same Church; and it is anticipated that the Congregation, (who have also been aided by the Societies of the Church at home) will make an exertion to fit up and finish the interior in a seemly and respectable manner. The Church, although it has no sort of architectural pretensions, and is built of wood, is a decent cruciform edifice, and its situation is very handsome, upon the eminence, close to the sea-side, which carries the name of Mont Joli. reclamation of the soil, and the comfort and even afficence of the tenantry, as the land was all highly improvable. Things went on satisfactorily enough for the first and part of the second term; but, during the last two or three years of the second period, which expired last year, an organized system was got up to resist the increased rent of the last period. The tenants, in many instances, ceased to attend to their farms, which were now in a flourishing condition, and commenced a system of selling the turt on the moorland adjoining, to which they had no claim whatever; thus, not only robbing Mr. Usher of his property, but absolutely rendering it impossible to carry further the rebut absolutely rendering it impossible to carry further the re-clamation of the estate, as where the surface was pared off to clamation of the estate, as where the surface was pared off to the gravel no possibility existed of reclaiming the soil left. Mr. Usher was absent, for the purpose of educating his family, for a few years; and on his return he found the organization spoken of complete, and a system of wholesale robbery and spoliation of his estate going on. It need be hardly mentioned that he resisted it, and put a stop to this plunder, and also intimated his intention of enforcing his rights to the rent reserved in his leases; offering at the same time, however, to accept a surrender from all or any of the tenantry who wished to give up their farms. The storm now broke forth; threatening letters were farms. Commercial and Financial.—Since the departure of the Hibernia, the money market has not undergone any very remarkable change. The rapidly improving condition of the Bank of England, which row holds upward of eleven millions of bullion, has greatly tended to meliorate the consequences of additional failures, and to sustain in some measure the tottering confidence of the country. Notwithstanding, however, the operation of this cause as well as other influences of a similar effect, those anticipations of improvement, which were lately founded upon a relaxation of the monetary pressure and increased facilities of discount, have been seriously stargered by the continued fall in the value of produce, particularly Colonial, and the almost unparalleled difficulty of realizing save at an enormous sacrifice. Although the general aspect of trade is gloomy enough, no positive retrogression from the last month's average is observable, and it is regarded as less than suppositious that the depression can much longer resist the growing financial power of the country and the increasing disposition of money parties.

ELECTION INTELLIGENCE.

Kent .- The canvass of Mr. Solicitor-General Cameron in Kent.—The canvass of Mr. Solicitor-General Cameron in this County is as satisfactory as his warmest supporters could desire. The Custom House Inquisitor, although in constant communication with his friends, finds that "familiarity breeds any years been the objects of his benevolence and kindle it is quite impossible for us, as journalists, to do any like justice to a character so truly estimable as the late Ayor twice, and was for many years a magistrate in the old dical pa y, and who is perfectly willing to become a spy on his appropriation, of which he mere distinguished or nament, by the neighbour the neighbour the pattern of the ment of the pattern of the ment of the pattern Mayor twice, and was for many years a magistrate in the outcorporation, of which he was a distinguished ornament, by the exemplary manner in which he discharged his official duties, and by his unrivalled affability and hospitality.—Maidstone Journal and Mr Wetenhall, by Mr. Spence, of the Dundas Warder.—

The Speech of Dr Hamilton, was admirably adapted to the occasion, as it contained a review of the acts of the Baldwin party as contrasted with those of the Conservatives while in power, together with a forcible exposition of the abasement of the former, as regards the humiliating position in which they stand to the French party—calculated to tell with effect upon those present; we sincerely hope that such will be the case, and that Halton by returning Mr. Chalmers, will shew that its sentiments are British, and that a determination prevails that they shall be in the ascendant and remain so.—Hamilton Gazette.

Hastings.—The election for this county is over, and has resulted in the return of Billa Flint, Esq., who was candid enough to return his thanks to those Conservative electors who toted for him as well as to the Radicals. It is our opinion, that Mr. Flint owes a much larger share of his gratitude to those 73 Conservatives resident in the District who refrained the proposition of the principle by the Mother Country, he was therefore in favour of this country accommodating itself to the measures of the Mother Country, not of taking the initiatory itself. He believed that the gent the public improvements of the country. The great railroad from here to Portland would have large claims on him; as a proof of the interest which he took in these schemes, it was subscribed.

The proposition was seconded by Mr. William Molson.

Mr. Hugh Taylor next proposed Mr. Benjamin Holmes. In dome the public improvements of the country.

The proposition of the principle by the Mother Country, accommodating itself to the measures of the Mother Country, not of taking the initiatory itself. He believed that the gent the public improvements of the country.

The great railroad from here to Portland would have large claims on him; as a proof of the interest which he took in these schemes, it was large the humiliation of the interest which he took in these subscribed.

that Mr. Flint owes a much larger share of his gratitude to those 73 Conservatives resident in the District who refrained from voting. We use the word refrained, because we fancy that they consider they would have done better to have voted, than not, and that therefore a peculiar merit is due to them. Whether the Return will be contested or not, we are not sufficiently well informed to say, but we have our opinion; which we shall express, as soon as the party shall have declared its inwe stall earlier as the tentions. We are however satisfied of one fact, that Mr. Flint will yote for Sir Allan M'Nabb, as Speaker. We are also safe in saying that Mr. Flint will not support any resolution ex-pressing a want of confidence in the present Ministry, until after he has given them a fair trial.

A PUBLIC DINNER TO MR. MURNEY .- As soon as the result of the election was known, and declared by the Returning Officer, the friends of Edmund Murney, Esq., the late member, got together, and at once resolved upon giving him a public dinner. The invitation was drawn out, and at once headed by Wm. Ketcheson, Esq., who was the first Conservative to nominate Mr. Murney as a candidate for Hastings.—

The invitation was presented to Mr. Murney on Tuesday last, and accepted by him, and the day appointed for the dinner is ne 18th inst.

This then will be purely a party, a Conservative dinner, iven to a gentleman who for ten years, has represented a constituency, and at whose door, not a single word of public re-proach for pledges violated, can be laid. For after all, what charge is brought against Mr. Murney? What pledges unre-deemed? what promises broken? What principles violated or abandoned? None, we can hear of none. But we hear a abandoned? None, we can hear of none. But we hear a host urged by caprice and capidity; by personal considerations and malice, raise the hue and cry against him, and in the fulness of their manly integrity, and by the cajolery of the enemy, they consent to sacrifice the interests of their party in this county to their private interests and capidity.

But the envenomed arrows malice and slander have defeated the party, let those who were satisfied to remain at home, without polling their votes, not fancy that it is Mr. Murney they have defeated, they have deteated themselves and their party; and they will soon find, that their personal feelings and considerations have moved them upon this occasion in the wrong and they will soon find, that their personal feelings and considerations have moved them upon this occasion in the wrong way. What, now the strife is over, will they ask each other, what have our personal feelings to do with the interests of the country? What have the interests of the country to do with our private motives? and the answer will be, Nothing!—What right then had they, if they claim to be members of the Conservative party, what right had they to abstain from giving the party the support which it deserved? Will they call Conservative party, what right had they to abstain from giving the party the support which it deserved? Will they call their staying at home, "exercising the sound right of the franchise, under the conviction that they were acting for the public good, and for the good and advancement of those doctrines, which they together with their party in general support?"

Thus then to shew to the world, that although the Conservative candidate has been defeated by the treachery of Conservatives to their own cause, yet the great body of the Conservative electors, are ready to shew that in noways has the candidate been the cause of this abandonment of friends, for they defy been the cause of this abandonment of friends, for they defy friend or foe, or both united, to shew wherein Edmund Murney, Esq., the late member for this county, has ever broken his promises, left pledges unredeemed, or forsaking the principles to support which, he was elected in 1836.

York-(Second Riding) .- The nomination took place on York—(Second Riding).—The nomination took place on Saturday last at Brampton, when Geo. Wright, Col. Thompson, and Mr. E. W. Thompson, were proposed. The show of hands being called for by the returning officer, some dozen, chiefly reformers, held up for Mr. Ed. Thompson, more for Col. Thompson, and a great many more for Mr. Wright. The number present was between 400 and 500, and certainly we speak within bounds when we say at least five to one were in favour of him. The returning officer, Mr. Magrath, as a matter of course, at once declared in favour of Mr. Wright, when Mr. Morrison demanded a poll. The election takes place on Friday and Saturday next. Mr. Morrison carefully steered clear of politics, and his speech was a good one for an election, dress in which he at length reviewed the acts of the two last administrations, and shewed the imminent danger we are in from French domination—denounced the union of the Provinces and the removal of the seat of Government from Toronto—declared he was not afraid of the British reformers, if they would only disunite and come out from among Franco-Canadians, and give us back this beautiful province to ourselves.—

The nomination was seconded by —— Hamilton, Esq. Mr. Wright made a most effective address. The cheering was tramedous, and we must confess that we were surprised to hear him, a farmer, and unused to speaking as he is, deliver so admirable a speech. In the most frank and manly style he avowed his aentiments. We never before saw so much enthusiasm displayed in favour of a candidate. We suppose it was from the circumsances that Mr. Wright is one of themselves, living administrations, and liberal education laws. He was prepared to maintain measures and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not men would be his guide, and he would conscientiously and not accurately and not accurately he pr displayed in ravour of a characteristic displayed in ravour of the circumsances that Mr. Wright is one of themselves, living among them, and intimately acquainted with their every want and wish. Numbers were in from every township, (Caledon and wish. excepted, from which few came) and the expression in his fa-excepted, from which iew came) and the expression in its are vour was all but unanimous:

We regret, however, to say we have but too much reason to fear that a small not of some three or four calling themselves Conservatives, at Streetsville, are, as we are informed (to their shame be it spoken), assisting Mr. Morrison under the pretence that they are favorable to Col. Thompson, but in reality to divide the Conservative cause. Col. Thompson, we feel satisfied, is no party to this; and we feel convinced from everything that he exercised in the conservative as he is, that he will withhas occurred like a true Conservative as he is, that he will withdraw—indeed, after Saturday's demonstration, any man must be an enemy to the cause who would divide it; and we know that be an enemy to the cause who would awate it; and we know that Col. Thompson will not be that man. As for Mr. Edward Thompson, we know not what he means. He certainly will not stand, unless he wishes to assist Mr. Morrison.

At the close of the nomination, Mr. Duggan again addressed the Conservatives, urging them to unite in favor of Mr. Wright, which they agreed to do unanimously. We have already lost several Ridings through division, and we now call on all true Conservatives to be united, and give their votes and influence Conservatives to be united, and give their votes and influence to Mr. Wright, and remember that every vote not given to him but assists the enemy, and is worse actually than if it were thrown away. The Second Riding has not only rejected Col. Baldwin and Blake, but also the great gun himself, the Hon. Robert Baldwin, and its Conservatism has gained for it a standing and eminence that must not be destroyed. The only test that could be tried at the hustings resulted in favor of Mr. Wright, therefore let him be unanimously supported and success is certain. - Colonist.

Montreal Election.—The Nomination.—Pursuant to public noticed Election.— The Romantical.— Pursuant to public notice given on Tuesday afternoon, an immense number of gentlemen, electors for the City of Montreal, assembled at a little before 12 o'clock, at Tattersalls, in Great St. James Street, in order to escort to the hustings J. G. Mackenzie and William Lunn, Esquires, the Conservative candidates for the City of It is unnecessary to give a long list of names, it will be sufficient to say that amongst the assembled party, were to be seen nearly all the most respectable and influential men in the city.

At a few minutes to the appointed time the party started in procession to the hustings, which were erected in the Place d'Armes, facing the French Cathedral, and which were already occupied by W. M. B. Hartley, Esq., the Returning Officer, and the gentlemen of the opposite party.

After the reading of the Proclamation by the Returning

Mr. John Young proposed the Hon, L. H. Lafontaine as a stated that his reason for proposing this gentleman was that his views were liberal and enlarged, equal to the exigencies of the times. Free trade was now demanded, and must be carried out. The present administration, he said, had always shirked these great questions; they felt afraid to touch them, although they once and again felt their necessity; yet so vacillating were them. once and again felt their necessity; yet so vacillating were they, that they never would bring them forward. He could not, for one moment, lend his aid or support to such an administration, and for this purpose he proposed to the electors of Montreal the Hon. L. H. Lafontaine, a man every way worthy of their choice, who would not lend his countenance to a Ministry who had paralized the country by their indecision.

red for the advancement of the vital interests of the country. He therefore had the honour to propose a man who was such as he desired—who had shown himself independent, for whom there was no price; who had enlarged and enlightened views of polities; who stood high as a merchant, and as a financier unequalled. Such, he said, was the man whom he had the

The proposition was seconded by Mr. Oliver Berthelot.

Mr. H. L. Routh the pproposed Mr. W. Lunn. He felt confident that it was only required to mention the names of the two Conservative candidates to arouse the apparently apathetic spirit of the body. He was sure that two better men could not have been selected than Messrs. J. G. Mackenzie and W. Lunn; for his own part he did not believe there could have been a better selection made. He had, therefore, the greatest pleasure in proposing Mr. W. Lunn as a fit and proper person to represent Montreal in the next parliament.

The proposition was seconded by Mr. R. Abraham, who proceeded to make a few enquiries of the Opposition members in reference to portions of their addresses. The crowd at the foot of the hustings were however so noisy, that they would not allow him to proceed; he was therefore compelled to desist. our to propose. allow him to proceed; he was therefore compelled to desist.

Mr. Hincks attempted to address the crowd, with the intention, we believe, of inducing the spectators of his own party to be silent while Mr. Abraham spoke, but with no more success than the latter gentleman, the Conservative audience treating him to a sample of their most sweet voices in the most approved

Mr. B. Holmes being then loudly called for, stepped forward. He stated that he had come before the electors of the City of Montreal soliciting their suffrages. He had been induced to do so from the manner in which the present ministry had managed in their duty. The great measures of reform which are now agitating the world, and which were called to by the southery at large, have been passed by unheeded by them. He referred to free-trade and the free navigation of the St. Lawrence. These were questions of the first importance, and he was prepared to advocate them and to advance them to the utmost of his power. The internal improvements of the Province would also, he stated, receive his hearty assistance and support; in fine, he would, if elected, perform his duty conscientiously and fearlessly, as he conceived best for the country in which he had passed the most of his days; but his opinions were so well known that it was useless detaining them longer. In reply to a question as to what were his views on the subject of the Papineau Address, he stated that he thought it unwarrantable and unwise, uncalled for at the time. It was to recollect who it was that had induced Mr. Papineau to issue that address; it was not the Reformers, but the Conservative Solicitor General for Lower Canada, who had by that, he supposed, hoped to make a division among the Lower Canadians. He was sorry to see the divisions of party into which this city was separated. The last time he had stood on the hustings, in 1841, was in support of a great principle which divided the country into factions; but the present was not the time when any such thing was called for or required. It was time that all such petty jealousies should be buried—that all party distinctions of origin should be cast aside, and there be only one, and that party be a Mr. J. G. Mackenzie next addressed the electors. He sta-clear of politics, and his speech was a good one for an election, nasmuch as it meant just anything, or nothing.

Mr. Wright was nominated by Mr. John Duggan, in an adhises in which he at length reviewed the acts of the two last institutions, and liberal education laws. He was prepared to on the part of the other candidates, to be held on the 11th and 12th of the present month.

[We have thus endeavoured to give a sketch of the remarks of the different speakers, but as it necessarily had to be made from memory, owing both to the coldness of the day and our being squeezed up by the crowd who assembled at the hustings, it must be far from all that was sain. We believe, however, that it is an impartial statement, and will exhibit the views of both parties as clearly as possible.—Note by the Reporter.]—Courier.

No cause can be assigned for the fire but that a large quantity of straw had been placed around the cellar window, to protect the water-pipes from the frost, which might have caught fire from the heat of the confectionary department.

The supply of water was—as it usually is—very scanty, and had it not been for the exertions of the Hook & Ladder Company in tearing away the rear of the wooden buildings, the damage would have been incalculable. On the north side the progress of the flames was stayed by one brick house, beyond which was a block of wooden buildings, which must have fallen a prey to the devouring element but for the fortuitous circumstance of their being divided from the burning house by this substantial building.

The Fire Companies and Hook & Ladder Companies were early on the spot, and did substantial service; they were daring as they ever are.

The Hose Company's exertions, which were great, would have secured a better result has works afforded them the required quantity of water.

We have also to acknowledge the promptitude of the officer in command of the Garrison. In a comparatively short period from the time at which the fire was known there, Ensign Hopkins and a body of 70 men were on the ground, a mile and a half from their quarters, to lend their aid in its suppression.—
