

In tackling these problems, flexibility, willingness to change, readiness to experiment and emphasis on research must be integral parts of all company policies. The difficulties are great, but in an expanding world the opportunities are even greater if we have the wit and the will to seize them.

---

S/A