HAMILTON.

A Township in the Newcastle District; is bounded on the east by the township of Haldimand; on the north by Rice Lake, and a portion of South Lake; on the west by Hope; and on the south by Lake Ontario. In Hamilton 49,599 acres are taken up, 21,527 of which are under cultivation. Rice Lake occupies a large portion of the north of the township. The town of Cobourg is situated on the lake shore, near the centre of the south of the township. Hamilton is well settled, and possesses excellent farms. There are six grist and seventeen saw-mills in the township.

Population in 1842, 4774.

Ratable property in the township, $4,274.

HARVEY.

A Township in the Colborne District; is bounded on the east by the township of Burleigh; on the north by unsurveyed lands; on the west by Verdum; and on the south by Smith and Emismore. Harvey was originally well settled, by emigrants from the old country, but finding the greater part of the township unfit for cultivation, they left it, and it is now almost deserted. Two hundred acres only are taken up, forty of which are under cultivation. It is separated from Smith and Emismore by a chain of Lakes, a large portion of which stretch across the centre of the township. There is a grist and saw-mill in the
