

PROOF.—Continued.

- of publication, by proof of defendant's writing, 168.
- of publication, not shewn by refusal to answer as to same, 160.
- of slanderous words, 156-158.
- onus of, in cases of privilege, 190-191.

PROPERTY.

- injury to, special damage for, 766-768.

PROPRIETOR

- of newspaper, liability of, 183, 184, 186.

PROVOCATION

- by complainant, 526-530.
- by libel or slander, of a breach of the peace, 726.
- by plaintiff's conduct, 727-728.
- by previous libels, when evidence in mitigation, 726-727.
- evidence of, and in mitigation, 804-805.

PUBLICATION, 155-186.

- admission of, when compulsory, 165, 651-655.
- at defendant's request, 276.
- by admissions of officers of corporation, 163.
- by a postcard, 167, 175.
- by a telegram, 167, 173-175.
- by corporations and companies, 206-209. (See Law concerning Corporations and Companies.)
- by distribution or sale of libellous paper or book, 183, 184, 185.
- by handing manuscript to newspaper editor, 164.
- by mistake, 172.
- by posting of libellous letter, 272.
- by public singing of libellous song, 185.
- by railway companies, 175.
- by signers of a petition, 160.
- criminal responsibility for, 184.
- defamation not actionable without, 2.
- defects in mode of proving, 262, 263.
- distinction between, in civil and criminal cases, 156.
- each sale of book or paper a separate, 185.
- effect on proof of, where words used in a peculiar sense, 182.
- evidence of plaintiff's character previous to, 718-720.
- "for the public benefit," 438.
- in criminal cases, 272.
- in newspapers, 174-176, 181, 183-184, 185, 262-277.
- in Quebec, 272.
- insufficient proof of, 275, 277.
- modes of proving, 264-269, 276.
- must be to third person in civil cases, 155, 156.
- no action maintainable without, 155.
- of accounts for sale, injunction against, 142.
- of a pamphlet, sufficient and insufficient proof of, 158.
- of apology "at the earliest opportunity," 466, 467.