of the latter on April 21, last. The hearing concluded about five o'clock this afternoon, following the hearing of much testimony; showing that Holmes had exhibited signs of insanity for a considerable period prior to the commission of the offence, the expert testimony of Dr. R. W. Bruce Smith, provincial inspector of jails; Dr. Moher and Dr. Mitchell of the Fastern Hospital, Brockville; Dr. Ryan of Rockwood Asylum, Kingston; and Dr. Morton, surgeon of the Brockville jail, practically agreeing that Holmes was irresponsible for his act. George be acquitted of the charge, on the grounds that he was insane at the time of the commission of the act, and we hereby acquit him on the ground of such insanity." This was the verdict of the jury in the tho usands of girls in Toronto now lived by making boxes and paper bags. Prof. Annie L. Laird, associate professor of household science at the university, said that one of the chief objects of the course was the preparation of students for work as teachers of household science subjects. A graduate would be gualified as a teacher for class for working women. Previous experience at home was, however, very advisable, as there was much that could not be taught in a course. Furthermore if the students came with better pre vious training it would put the depart.

C. C. James, deputy minister of agriculture, was the first witness of the evening. Referring to agricultural societies thruout the province, he consid-ered that they should be much more thoroly inspected than at present, if they were to do the work intended. All the farmers' institutes were organized locally and controlled by their own Mcers.

ation. The chief difficulty with the farmers were most amenable to instruction. As an experiment, a county had recently been selected, and a graduate at the agricultural college attached to the staff of the county high school. It had been found that no pupils were forthcoming. The difficulty had been obviated by appointing the teacher a representative of the department, and siving him an office. His time was then devoted to working up a clientele in the county. By this means 16 counties had now been supplied, with definite agricultural instruction, and Mr. James did not think the country could possibly invest its money better than in technical education. He concluded by expressing the wish that the commission would look very thoroly into the method of teaching agriculture in Canada.

Board of Trade Report.

R. S. Gourlay, vice-president of the board of trade, presented a voluminous report, showing the researches carried out by the board and empodying a draft curriculum for technical schools. In discussing the report, from which he read extracts, Mr. Gourlay said that it was important that the very potent gap should be bridged between professional and commercial life. The high schools provided for general citizenship, with a strong emphasis on the professional phase of life. He would ike, without leaving out the cultural studies, to have the stress laid on commercial life, in some of the schools at least. There should certainly be inductive teaching, such as would induce the pupil to look forward to becoming leader in industry, on the same plane as the leader in a profession. It would be an excellent beginning to add a text book on industrial development tal the curriculum.

The report presented gives details of investigations made by a committee of the board of trade in 1899. It suggests the introduction of elementary tech-nology in all forms of the public schools of Ontario, the subjects to vary accord-ing to the industries of the locality. J. F. Ellis, also representing t e board, concurred in the views express-ed by Mr. Gourlay. He thought in-struction in foreibn weights, measur.s and moneys should be more thoroly taught in the schools than at present.

S. P. S. Training. Dean J. Galbraith of the faculty of applied science in the university, said that practically all the students at the school of science were preparing for the vocations taught in their courses, and not for teaching. It was of great idvantage to the student to do practical
