LATE LOCALS

British mails via Rimouski are due tonight at 9:30 and those via New York by S. S. Mauretania at 11:15 p. m.

The many friends of George Barnhill, of Fairville, will be sorry to learn that he is dangerously ill at his home.

After the reception my lord and lady left for a wedding trip east. They journeyed through Canada and arrived in Boston early last week. Much of their time since they have been here has been devoted to visiting the bride's relatives. Her brothers, Charles and Wellington G. Clark, are both prominent residents of Brookline. Mrs. Ames is the bride's sister.

The Lord and Lady Tully

The lord and lady Tully Fergus will go to Prince Edward Island to visit her mother, and from the provinces they will sail for Scotland to enable the bridegroom to attend to business in connection with the estate there. But it is not his plan to remain in the ancestral home. The call of the west is ever in his ears, and he intends to return to Colorado and make Victor the home of himself and bride.

DID RIGHT TO DEFEND HIMSELF

Judge Ritchie's Remarks in Case of Percy Moore, Attacked on Marsh Bridge

"You were perfectly justified in defending yourself, and if you knocked him down so much the worse for him," said Judge Ritchie in the police court this morning to Percy Moore, who showed that his scrap with O'Dell on the Marsh Bridge on Saturday was in self-defence. O'Dell was arrested on Saturday by Sergt. Caples and Patrolman Marshall, and Moore was examined this morning to answer to the charge of fighting with him.

He said that he was an employee of the St. John Ice Company, and was returning from work when O'Dell called him some obscene name and struck him. In self-defence he struck O'Dell and knocked him down.

"You were particularly fortunate in being able to defend yourself," said Judge Ritchie. O'Dell's attorney has given you your hands and the law says in self-defence you can put force against force. You may go to your work."

Patrick Slavin and Alex. Finley were fined $4 for drunkenness.

DOG WHICH BIT TWO, MUST DIE

Fine of $20.00 on Owner Let Stand on Condition Animal is Destroyed.

Some time was taken up in the police court this morning about the dog which on Tuesday last bit L. W. Belyea, and yesterday tore the trousers of Patrolman Clarke. The owner, H. Melanson was in court.

Clarke told of the dog's attack on him, and Belyea narrated the circumstances of his encounter on Union street, the dog coming up behind him and sinking his teeth in the calf of his leg drawing the blood. He spoke to the driver of the cart the dog was following and also to Patrolman Rankine of the matter. He had the wound dressed in a drug store.

When Patrolman Rankine took the stand, His Honor remarked: "Let me see Rankine, are you a Sergeant yet? One cannot tell of these coming events."

A fine of $20 was allowed to stand with the understanding that the dog be destroyed. His Honor recommending the lethal chamber.

OCAMO ARRIVES

West India steamship Ocamo, Captain Coffin, arrived in port this morning at 7 o'clock from Bermuda, Windward Islands and Demerara, with ten passengers and a general cargo. The steamer had a very fine passage north.

The following is a list of her passengers: First Class—Miss M. Horne, P. H. Boyle, H. B. Willigson, N. A. Wilkinson, Bermuda; Chas. Byrnes, Demerara.

Second class—Miss Rebecca Gibson, St. Kitts; Miss Lottie Jackson, St. Kitts; A. S. Hichshaw, St. Vincent; Miss Helen Mayers, Barbados; James Dougan, Trinidad.

FUNERALS

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret C. McAfee took place this afternoon from her late residence, Hawthorne Avenue. Interment was made in the Church of England burial ground.

The funeral of Thomas R. Pettigall took place at Gondola Point today at 2:30. Service was held in the Church at Rochesay by the Rev. Allan W. Daniel.

P.E.I. NURSE WINS SCOTTISH LORD, A MILLIONAIRE

Miss Elizabeth I. M. Clark Bride of Lord Tully Fergus — To Visit Mother on Island.

Miss Elizabeth Ida Melinda Clark, nurse, a Prince Edward Island girl now can boast to the title of Lady of Tully Fergus as they are now in Boston on a honeymoon tour.

William Miller, the Lord of Tully Fergus, was in Victor, a mining camp in Colorado, when his health failed, and he went to a hospital. It was there he met Miss Clark, who was born in Prince Edward Island, and who went to Boston a number of years ago. At first she was engaged in dress-making, but she had the keenest interest in caring for the sick, and began to study nursing. When she had become qualified for the work, Miss Clark left her town, and became a nurse in the Red Cross institution in Victor.

Wins Health, Loses Heart

When the Scotch nobleman became a patient in the hospital, Miss Clark, who had by that time become his superintendent, took special interest in his case. He was manly and cultured and had had an adventurous career in Cripple Creek and other mining camps, and had gained and lost fortunes in the great hazardous game of winning precious ores from the earth. He left the hospital to attend to his mining interests, but the fair face of the pretty nurse-superintendent continued to haunt his mind. It was hard for him to keep the hospital to attend to his mining interests, but the fair face of the pretty nurse-superintendent continued to haunt his mind. It was hard for him to keep the hospital to attend to his mining interests, but the fair face of the pretty nurse-superintendent continued to haunt his mind.

The prediction of those who said that the Lord of Tully Fergus, who recently inherited a Scotch estate estimated at $2,000,000 in value, would wed the nurse, were verified on August 26, when they were married by Rev. J. Y. Ewart in the Presbyterian church in Victor. The wedding was one of the social events of the town. Five hundred invitations were extended, and after the ceremony there was a reception in a hospital. In fact to show how fortunate he felt himself to be in winning such a bride, the Scotch nobleman bought the hospital wherein he had met her.

After the reception my lord and lady left for a wedding trip east. They journeyed through Canada and arrived in Boston early last week. Much of their time since they have been here has been devoted to visiting the bride's relatives. Her brothers, Charles and Wellington G. Clark, are both prominent residents of Brookline. Mrs. Ames is the bride's sister.
