Paris, 18.— M. Louis Lacombe, officier de la Légion d'honneur, ancien député de l'Aveyron, maire pendant plus de quarante ans de la ville de Rodez, vient de mourir à l'âge de 74 ans. Le défunt a été, durant près de un demi siècle le chef incontesté du parti radical dans l'Aveyron. Il y mena des luttes électorales violentes dont on conservera longtemps le souvenir.

Comme maire de Rodez, il supprima les processions et souleva contre les congrégations et enseignes en fibre une lutte outrée. Comme député, il prit part à l'élaboration des lois contre les congrégations et de celle sur la séparation de l'Eglise et de l'Etat.

C'est à son initiative que furent décidés les inventaires destinés à assurer sous un faux prétexte la mainmise de l'Etat sur les biens de l'Eglise. Aussi l'avait-on surnommé le "père des inventaires". Depuis deux ans il vivait dans la retraite et se consacrait à ses infirmités, et surtout par une apathie à peu près complète, qui lui avait cependant laissé toute lucidité d'esprit, ce qui lui a permis un retour sur lui-même, aux traditions de sa famille, aux principes reçus dans son enfance chez les Jésuites. Bien avant sa mort, il a révisé la Franc-Maçonnerie, à laquelle il avait appartenu, et est mort dans les sentiments chrétiens, après avoir reçu les derniers sacrements.
