The Emperor Napoleon's speech to the French Legislature is universally discussed. The interpretations put upon it differ so widely that while some journals regard it as eminently pacific, others look on it as indicative of war. Some English journals ask if the Emperor really means that war is inevitable without a Congress on the Polish question. Paris and London journals are alike at variance in their views of the speech. Vienna journals agree that the speech is calculated to create uneasiness. Paris bourse was dull and low on the 7th
