Editor's Talk

WE have received another indignant letter concerning our attitude on the Canadian navy. This writer goes so far as to cancel his subscription because of his total disagreement with our position. He is both a moral hero and a fatalist. His spirit of self-sacrifice in worrying along without the Canadian Courier proves him to be of heroic mould; his hopeless prospect that the editor's views will never change and that we are without hope of redemption proves his fatalism. He has our sympathy. Perhaps we shall each think a shade differently by this time next year.
