

Master, and an honest ambition, in your humble measure, to carry forward the great work of Redemption, which He hath begun upon earth;—and, in spite of the discouragements, and difficulties that may surround You; in spite of the efforts of profligacy, and the machinations of infidelity; You shall yet, by His Grace, and with His Blessing, reap the full fruits of your faithful, and unremitting exertions.—Even though You should go on your way, now, with labour and sorrow, yet, “bearing forth good seed, you shall doubtless come again with joy, and bring your sheaves with you.”

FINIS.