

Is YOUR Barn "Pedlarized"?

FIRST of all—the Roof—is it shingled with "Oshawa" or "George" Shingles? No matter how strong the foundation, or how tight the walls, if the roof is not weather-tight, fireproof and permanent, the building is—or soon will be—worthless.

PEDLAR'S "Oshawa" Galvanized Steel Shingles have stood the test of time. Made in two distinct models, 660A and 660B, the "Oshawa" Shingle (size 16" x 20") is ideal for the average barn or dwelling. The "George" (size 24" x 24"), for extra large roofs.

A Word About Ventilation

GOOD Ventilation is very important to the health of your stock, or the successful marketing of your crops. A poorly ventilated barn might easily cost you more than a new building. Proper ventilation demands that a large volume of air be kept constantly moving, but not too quickly, preventing dangerous and unnecessary draughts.

PEDLAR'S "Superior" BARN VENTILATOR

is storm-proof, bird-proof, durable, and prevents a downward current of air. It is made with a stationary cap, which is acted upon by the natural air currents, so as to produce a suction which draws up the impure air. This impure air is replaced by pure, fresh air which enters through inlets in, or near, the floor, preventing the accumulation of hot air, vapors and gases which are, all too often, responsible for damage to stock or grain.

No expense or trouble has been spared in making these booklets of real value to the farmer. The building plans, the up-to-date information concerning the handling of cattle, horses, sheep, pigs and poultry, and other farm subjects contained in the booklets, have been prepared by the College of Agriculture of the University of Saskatchewan, and are specially designed for prairie conditions. Information concerning the proper wood to use and the means of figuring cost of material before building are supplied by the Forest Service of British Columbia. The object of these bulletins is to help farmers to use material grown and manufactured in Canada. By showing the prairie farmer how to use our Western lumber to the very best advantage, farm building is made easier and cheaper. Good service and satisfaction for the consumer will increase the market for British Columbia lumber. It is upon the great lumbering industry that the prosperity of British Columbia mainly depends. It is sound business for everyone to help build up the West by buying home products. Any of the above bulletins in which you are interested will be mailed free upon application to the Chief Forester, Victoria, B.C. Complete reference sets will also be supplied to lumber dealers on request.
