SAUERMAN IS FINED $20

Case Was Not Pushed By Complainant Hazard— Serious Row

Murder Suspect In County Gaol—Taylor Gets Six Months

A bad man from Crawford County, Ill., it is suspected is incarcerated in the local county gaol under an assumed name. Some time ago, the local police received a card from Sheriff C. V. Coulter, of Robinson, Ill., in which it was stated that a young man named George (Curly) Wells, wanted on a charge of murder, had escaped from the State of Illinois, and it was thought he was somewhere in the oil fields around Chatham.

Wells, according to the card, is 27 years of age, light complexion, dark hair, clean shaven face, medium height, slightly drooped in the shoulders, and his right hand is crippled, the second finger having been amputated, and there is quite a scar on the hand. He plays a piano and is a buck and wing dancer. Three hundred dollars reward is offered for information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of this man.

Officer James Dodson, who has been working on the case, has gained information regarding a young man who tallies pretty much with this description. The man is at present in the local gaol. Officer Dodson and Governor Davidson will look the suspect over to-day, to see how the description tallies with his appearance.

Augustus Sauerman, who was charged with assaulting Charles Hazard, came up in Police Court this morning for his final hearing. He was fined $20 and the costs. Sauerman owes his light sentence to his previously good character, his counsel's sagacity, and probably for the most part to the inaction of Hazard in pushing the case. O. L. Lewis appeared for Sauerman, R. L. Brackin for Hazard, and Crown Attorney H. D. Smith prosecuted.

There was a great deal of delay in getting the case started, on account of frequent and prolonged consultations among the lawyers concerned.

The prosecution and the Court put themselves plainly on record with regard to settling the case, out of Court. Crown Attorney Smith stated that this could not possibly be done. He admitted that Sauerman had settled all the civil costs of the case, paying Hazard for the time, he lost, his doctor bill, and other incidental expenses, but it was not a case where the complainant was concerned. Hazard had refused to push the matter, and it was now purely a Crown case, which in the interests of law and order must be dealt with.

The case was then proceeded with, Sauerman pleading guilty to the charge of assault read against him. The written evidence read by the Crown was to the effect that on June 23, when the defendant and complainant were at work in McKough & Trotter's moulding shop, and after a cast had been made, Hazard left the shop for one-half hour. On his return to work, he was taken to task by Sauerman. Hot words passed between the two, who finally clinched, Hazard taking the initiative in the fight which followed.

Sauerman threw Hazard, but after they fell, Hazard succeeded in turning Sauerman over on his back, and while he had him down, hit him a stiff punch in the eye.

The economy in his choice of epithets, Sauerman got up mad with rage, and seizing a five foot iron tube, dealt a blow which split Hazard's epithet hand. The pipe next came in contact with Hazard's head, and his assailant wound up by giving him a parting poke in the ribs with the tube. According to a statement made by Dr. G. T. McKough, who attended Hazard, the latter is rapidly recovering and will not likely suffer any serious results.

The iron tube with which Hazard was belabored, was produced in Court. It looked to be five feet long. Hazard and Sauerman are short stockily built men, of powerful physique. Both were well dressed and respectable looking, but combativeness is plainly written in their faces.

Judge Houston, in fining Sauerman, remarked that if the case were pushed, the offence was one which is punishable with three years in penitentiary. It was a malicious injury without legal excuse. He gave Sauerman credit, however, for trying to make amends as best he could, and said that he had heretofore always held a good character.

The four boys who last week pleaded guilty to the charge of rolling the lawn bowlers lawn roller in the Creek, called at the Police Court this morning, and settled for the costs of the case, as they agreed to do.

Samuel Wittenberg, an Israelite, who apparently does not practice economy in his choice of epithets,

NOTES FROM ERIEAU

Mr. Thomas Pickett and family, of Cleveland, opened up their cottage at Centreville on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Robt. Hoig, of Grand Ave., is comfortably settled at Jubilee. Miss Annie Samson, of Blenheim, was a guest at Drumtochty Lodge on Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. Shackleton, who arrived at the Eau in their yacht Half-Moon on July 3rd, left for their home on Sunday morning.

They were accompanied by their little daughter Louise and Miss Eleanor McGavin, of Chatham.

The familiar face of Miss Abram is again seen on the verandah of Shaganappee.

The steam launch Ripple took a large party to Government Park on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Park has had some dredging done, and the Ripple is now able to steam up to the boat-house.

Mr. Will Taekaberry and Mrs. Taekaberry, of Chatham, and Miss Dewey, of Cleveland, were visitors at Mrs. R. V. Bray's cottage.

Mrs. Wm. Young and Miss Smith, of Harvey St., spent Friday at the Eau.

Mr. and Mrs. Webster, who have been guests at the Bungalow, left Saturday morning for their home in Cleveland via Sandusky.

The people sailing on the Bay on Thursday evening were treated to an exhibition of fireworks, and they couldn't think of the cause till they realized it was our American cousins on the bar celebrating the 4th of July.

The cottagers on the lakeside are having their innings now. They are enjoying a nice new sidewalk, while the old ones on the other side is just about worn out.

Miss Dot Wing, of Chatham, spent Friday at the Eau.

Mr. Thos. Irving, at Capt. Post's, has returned from a trip to Dakota and Alberta.

Douglas Park, single-handed and alone, captured a mammoth soft-shell mud-turtle on Saturday.

The cottagers miss the pleasant faces of two pioneers of the Eau, Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

Misses Annie and Lottie Thomson spent the week end with their sister, Mrs. Arch. Park, at Beverly Lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Gray and family have moved into the cottage

Sydney Falls is spending his vacation with his parents at Erieau.

Misses Ethel and Helen Paxton are guests at Jubilee Cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dell were guests at Sandy Knowe on Sunday.

The first granolithic walk on the Eau may be seen in front of Drumtochty Lodge. It looks as though it may prove a great success, and considering the scarcity of lumber, others may follow in the lead of Mr. W. D. Samson.

Mr. John Northwood, of Grand Ave., spent Sunday with his son, E. B. Northwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnatz, of Cleveland, spent the glorious fourth at their summer home, Fairview.

Miss Eunice Paxton is the guest of Miss Martha Hoig.

The cottagers at the Eau enjoyed a quiet Canadian Sabbath yesterday. The railway company are living up to their promise: not to carry on business on Sunday. The coal hoist did not work during the day, nor were any trains moved. This, coupled with the fact that the crew on the suburban train are very accommodating, may tend to settle any differences between the railroad and cottagers.

Old residents at the Eau are shaking hands with an old acquaintance in the person of Ned Cassidy, a former fisherman of Erieau. Mr. Cassidy has not been at the Eau for years, and finds many changes. Ned was always popular, especially with the young ladies, and he is having a great time finding out who have married in his absence. He will be here most of the summer, as he is wheeling on the Dresden.

All ye lovers of music are hereby warned to keep off the bar until the phonograph fever is over! All will be peace and quietness these pleasant July evenings when "entuned in its nose full seemly" comes in the shade of the old apple tree.

You endeavor to get out of earshot only to hear ahead of you, faintly at first, but gradually getting stronger, "Good-bye my lady love, good-bye my turtle dove."

That all tastes may be catered to, comes from another direction, with the same delightful nasal twang, "Take me on the rollers, Charlie," while still more faintly can be heard "I need thee every hour."

STEAMER CREW ARE DROWNED

Mount Royal Struck A Rock While Passing Throught A Canyon

Victoria, B.C., July 8.—The steamer Mount Royal, operated by the Hudson Bay Company on the Skeena River, was totally wrecked on Saturday, while passing through Kitselas Canyon, and six of the crew were drowned.

The steamer left Hazelton on Friday morning for Esquimalt, and entered the canyon Saturday afternoon. She was rushing downstream with a full head of steam, which is necessary to give her steerage way, when she struck against a rock on Ringbolt Island.

The steamer struck the right bank of the island and remained fast for 5 minutes. Capt. Johnson, realizing the danger, ordered all of the passengers ashore, and all reached a place of safety.

The judgment of the captain was soon justified, for the current caught the vessel and swung her round until broadside to the main channel, and in less than 5 minutes she commenced to break up.

The captain remained on board, vainly endeavoring to save her, till the pilot-house broke away from the main deck and the captain was washed ashore on the island.

Members of the crew were not so fortunate, and Chief Engineer Madigan and Second Engineer Good were carried through the canyon on the wreckage. Six other members of the crew were washed away and drowned.

Mrs. Johnson, wife of the captain, was the only lady on board, and, with other passengers, reached shore in safety.

Madigan and Good were picked up by Indians, who had been sent to the rescue by a telegraph operator. They remained in the vicinity for some time and picked up all the wreckage possible, but with no sign of the missing men. Those lost are: W. L. Lemis, first officer; James O'Keefe, purser; Archie Willis, steward; Berri Frayne, fireman; J. M. Morishima, carpenter; Frank Amata, deckhand.

The canyon, where the wreck occurred, is dangerous, and on several occasions the trip has had to be abandoned.

The Mount Royal was valued at $30,000, and was insured in England. She was built in Victoria in 1902, and was the most powerful stern-wheeler ever constructed in this city. She was 130 feet long and 28 feet beam.

TRAIN RAN INTO CATTLE

Fireman Is Killed And Engineer Receives Fatal Injury

Fort Frances, Ont., July 8.—Friday night No. 2 express, on the C.N.R., was wrecked, six miles from Rainy River. It ran into a herd of cattle. The engine turned over and was demolished. Fireman William Vance was killed, and Engineer William Hamilton so badly scalded he cannot live. The baggage car left the track, but the passengers in the sleeper hardly felt the collision. Passengers bound east were delayed 12 hours.

Neither Fireman Vance nor Engineer Hamilton were able to jump, and before they realized an accident was imminent they were buried under the locomotive. Steam commenced to escape, and soon the men were enveloped in a cloud of steam and hot water. Every effort was made to free them from their position, but before they were liberated Vance had received such injuries that he died within a short time. Engineer Hamilton is so badly injured and scalded there is not the least hope that he will recover.

With the locomotives, four cars left the track. Traffic was completely demoralized for some hours.

FATAL STREET CAR ACCIDENT.

Coroner Orders Arrest of Motorman and Conductor.

Schenectady, N.Y., July 8.—One boy was killed, another was fatally hurt, and two others seriously injured as the result of a street car accident yesterday afternoon. The victims are all residents of Amsterdam, ranging from 12 to 15 years. They are members of a baseball team, which played here yesterday afternoon.

The lads were riding on the running board on the wrong side of the car, as every seat was taken and passengers were hanging on wherever they could. The accident occurred where the double tracks take a sharp curve. The open car on which the boys were riding had taken the curve in one direction, when a heavy closed car bound for Ballston took it on the other track.

Coroner Baxter ordered the arrest of the motorman and conductor of the Ballston car on the ground that they should have waited until the curve was clear before taking it.

The great duty of life is not to give pain.

A BRIGHT SERVICE

The services at the William Street Baptist Church yesterday were very pleasing and interesting. A novel change has been made in which the services are shortened to only occupy three-quarters of an hour during the warm weather.

Rev. Mr. Matthews preached two very effective sermons. In the evening his text — "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches," was ably discussed. He spoke of a person having three names; first, their surname; secondly, their Christian name, and lastly, their reputation. A person's reputation is the greatest heritage he or she possesses.

The music was of a very high order, under the directorship of Mr. Frank Phelps. Miss M. Thurst sang a solo in the morning, and in the evening a solo, "A Dream of Paradise," was sung by J. D. MacAlpine, after which a duet was given by Miss Thurst and Miss Oldershaw.

Men condemn because they do not really understand.
