Students, Attention! Rare Chance to Secure a College Education.

We have made arrangements that enable us to place within the reach of a limited number of deserving students, opportunities for securing, on easy terms, a classical or commercial education. A little work during the vacation season will secure this for the one worthily striving for such a boon, but who may not be in possession of sufficient money to realize his heart's desire. The facilities at our disposal enable us to offer a year's board and tuition at

St. Dunstan's College

to any three young men who will fulfill the necessary, easy conditions required. These may be beginners, or former students of the College who have not been able to complete their course. In addition to this we have at our disposal four scholarships at the

Union Commercial College

of Charlottetown. A full course in this excellent Commercial College may be won by any four young men or women, in town or country, who will fulfill the easy conditions we require. Whenever anyone satisfies the requirements in either of the cases enumerated he or she will be given a certificate entitling the holder to the educational advantages offered. A rare opportunity is here placed within reach of those desirous of acquiring a good education, and no time should be lost in taking advantage thereof. Only a little work is required in order to secure the coveted boon, and all can easily be accomplished during this summer's vacation, so that the winners may enter either college at the opening of the next academic year.

For particulars apply in person or by letter to the editor of the HERALD, P. O. Box 1288, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

The Archbishop of Westminster on the Situation in France.

"We have seen elsewhere (said his Grace), and nearer home, how a faction can be taken to represent a nation, and I thank God that we are not obliged to judge the French nation by the words and actions of her present rulers. (Applause.) May the 'entente cordiale'—(hear, hear, and applause)—flourish and grow strong and be permanent. May France be powerful and great; but her greatness and her power cannot be the result of her development until the Christian name is more respected and until the French Church is left free to do the work for the salvation of the souls, and the bettering of the lives of the children of France, that work for which alone she exists and which alone she desires to accomplish. (Loud applause.) The Church is ever desirous of seeing in the closest harmony with the civil power in every country. (Hear, hear.) She avoids way continually in order to avoid conflict, relinquishing over and over again the privileges legitimately acquired, and even rights which are not essential to her existence. Nowhere has she shown greater patience than in dealing with the French Republic, and the policy of Leo XIII. in this respect has been followed very closely by Pius X.

"But a moment comes in which compromise is no longer possible, and in which people and Government must be reminded that the Church possesses rights and obligations which she cannot yield without being untrue to her Divine Mission. (Applause.) A time comes when the only answer to the unjust demands of Governments is 'Non possumus, quia, non licet.' We cannot do this thing, because it is unlawful. (Applause.) Like Peter and John of old, the Sovereign Pontiff can give but one reply. 'If it be just in the sight of God to hear you rather than God, judge ye.' Questions of expediency, of worldly interest, of avoidance of difficulties, simply disappear, the thought of duty to God only remains. Such is the moment that has come in France." (Applause.)

His Grace concluded with a reference to Mr. Birrell's Education Bill. "It," he said, "the proposals of the Government are carried into effect, if half of our schools are condemned thereby to ultimate destruction because they are deprived of all public support, then many of our people will be living in areas in which there will be no school to which they can send their children to be educated in accordance with their own conscientious convictions.

"What do his Majesty's Ministers intend to do? Do they intend to exert the compulsory powers of the Law in order to force Catholic parents to send their children to non-Catholic schools? If so, let them be warned in time—(loud applause)—that they are approaching perilously near to the boundary line which divides legitimate legislation from an utterly illegitimate violation of the rights of conscience—(applause)—and that they may force men to ask themselves, as they have often had to do in the past, 'Are we to obey man rather than God?' (Loud applause.) By every means in our power must we resist and withstand proposals so onerous and so unfair as those which have unfortunately received the sanction of the House of Commons. Although the origin of the conflict is happily dissimilar, the ultimate issue would be the same as in France, and we fear the prolongation of the struggle for the same reasons.

"No nation can be really great which has received the Christian Revelation and then abandoned it. (Applause.) No nation can retain that Christian Revelation if the definite dogmatic teaching of Christianity to its children be prevented or hindered. (Applause.) When this is the case, sooner or later Naturalism and Paganism will assert themselves and uproot all vestiges of Christian training. These results are already showing themselves very clearly in France, where God has for years been banished from the elementary schools. If her rulers had their way, Christ would be expelled from every department of the national life. Not in intention, I trust, but in reality none the less, we are entering upon the same perilous path in England, and, if we do not take heed in time, the result must be the same. May we be warned before it is too late, and may our present Ministers take thought again ere they check and have definite Christian teaching in the public elementary school of the country. (Loud applause.)

Letter-Writing.

FROM "A GENTLEMAN."

If a man gets an invitation written in the third person he must answer it in the third person. If

"Mrs J. J. Smith requests the pleasure of Mr. J. Jones's company at dinner on Wednesday, April 23, at seven o'clock," young Mr. J. J. Jones would stamp himself as ignorant of the ways of society if he wrote back:—

"Dear Mrs Smith: I will come of course. If I am a little late, keep something to the fire for me. I shall be sure to get a taxi to catch that afternoon, and I shall be hungry. Good-by."

"Yours devotedly,
"J. J. Jones."

You may be sure that if young Mr. Jones should put in an appearance after that note he would find the door closed in his face.

An invitation to dinner must be accepted or declined on the day it is received. One is not permitted to say he will come if he can. He must say Yes or No at once. The words "polite," "gentle," and "present compliments" are no longer used. "Your kind invitation" now takes the place of "your polite invitation," and "gentle" is out of date. The letters "R. S. V. P." are no longer put on notes or cards. It is thought it is not necessary to tell, in French, people to "answer, if you please." All well-educated people are pleased to answer without being told to do so. The custom of putting "R. S. V. P." in a note is as much out of fashion as that of drawing off a glove when one shakes hands. In the olden times when men wore armor, a hand clothed in a steel or iron gauntlet was not pleasant to touch. There was then a reason why a man should draw off his glove when he extended his hand to another, especially if that other happened to be a lady. But the reason for the custom has gone by; and it is not necessary to draw off one's glove now when one shakes hands.

But it is not the subject of letter-writing. If you are addressing a Doctor of Medicine or Divinity, you may put "Esq." after his name in addition to his title "M. D." or "D. D."; but it is a senseless custom. But "Mr." and "Esq." before and after a man's name sends the writer, in the estimation of wellbred people, to "the bottom of the sea." Paper with gilt edges is never used; in fact, a man must not have anything about him that is merely pretty. Usage decrees that he may wear a flower in his button-hole—and Americans are becoming as fond of flowers as the ancient Romans; but farther than that he may not go, in the way of the merely ornamental either in his stationery or his clothes.

Another Father Damien.

A few years ago the world resounded with the praises of Father Damien, who had sacrificed his life in the service of a community made up of lepers. He stood bravely at his post still stricken with the terrible disease which claimed him as a victim. Heroism of this sort the world seldom witnesses. Men on many a battlefield have been ready to risk their lives in the service of their country, but death on a battlefield is robbed of the horrors that are associated with the slow, lingering agony the victim of leprosy must undergo. So great is the dread of this loathsome disease that a poor wretch who was afflicted with it was recently driven from one State of the Union to another until at last he ended his suffering on a lonely mountain shrouded by all.

Nothing but the love for his fellow man, inspired by the teachings of the Catholic Church, would ever have induced Father Damien to undergo voluntarily the terrible martyrdom that has made his name known throughout the world. But the inspiration that made him so heroic a figure did not die with him. The teachings of the Catholic Church which induced him to devote himself to the service of the abhorred leper, inspired others to tread in his footsteps. One of these Father Lemmens, has just ended his heroic career at Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana.

Born at Maastricht, Holland, on July 23, 1850, Father Lemmens entered the Dutch army as an officer at an early period of his life. In that capacity he went to Surinam, Dutch Guiana, in 1878. Four years later he abandoned the military life at the age of thirty-two, exchanging the uniform of a military officer for the habit of a Redemptorist missionary. In 1886 he was ordained a priest and immediately devoted himself to the work of attending to the spiritual, as well as the physical well being of a community of lepers. There could be only one result of this devotion. The anticipated took place. Father Lemmens, like Father Damien, was stricken with leprosy. He thereupon voluntarily isolated himself and became the chaplain to a hospital for lepers in Paramaribo, the capital of Dutch Guiana. And so out of from all society except that of lepers, he worked on patiently, bravely, heroically, for four years, till his Divine Master called him to his eternal reward.

Lepers Church at Molokai Destroyed.

The following letter from Father Maxime, now carrying on Father Damien's work speaks for itself:—

Molokai, Sandwich Islands, August 15, 1906.

"It is with a heart full of sadness that I write you today. Our beautiful church at Kalapapa, of which I was so proud, was burnt out last Sunday at 5 p. m., two hours after the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The fire is due to the carelessness of a sanctuary boy, who let some burning charcoals fall on the floor.

"Two men were with me when we noticed that the Sanctuary was on fire, but with the means at our disposal it was impossible to get control of it. We had hardly time to save the most Blessed Sacrament. All the rest is destroyed. Sacred vessels, vestments, altar linen, church furniture, all has been lost.

"Our poor lepers, men, women and even children lent their help and thanks to it we were able to save the Rectory. Mr. McVeigh, superintendent of the leper settlement, and the physicians gave us also a most generous help.

"Our church was not insured and an enormous sum for poor missionaries like ourselves. We are without a decent place to celebrate Mass and will have to use for that purpose a barn unfortunately much too small for our leper population.

"I appeal to the charity of the friends and admirers of Father Damien in behalf of these poor lepers for whose salvation he gave his life."

Aims for the rebuilding of the lepers' church at Molokai will be received by the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, 627 Lexington Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Items of Interest.

English exchanges chronicle the death of Lord Arundell of Wardour, which took place on October 26, John Francis Arundell, twelfth Baron Arundell of Wardour in the peerage of England, and a Count of the Holy Roman Empire, was the son of the eleventh baron by his second wife, second daughter of Sir Henry Tiobborne, eighth baronet.

Lord Arundell was thus the first cousin of the Roger Tiobborne whose impersonation by Arthur Orton led to the famous Tiobborne case. The Arundells are probably the most ancient Catholic family in existence, the deeds in the muniment room at Wardour Castle, in Wiltshire, taking their pedigree back to 1200. Lord Arundell leaves no issue, and he is succeeded in the title by his brother, Rev. Edward Aloysius Gonzaga Arundell, who was born in 1834, graduated B. A. at London University, and is a Catholic priest, stationed at Westbourne, Bourne-mouth.

There are good reasons, says the London "Catholic Times" why the Catholics of Ireland, and of Great Britain as well, should watch with anxious interest the progress of the struggle in France. In the penal days, when Catholic priests were under a ban in those island and Catholic services were held only in hiding places, the Catholics of France extended to the persecuted a cordial and practical sympathy. They not only received refugees hospitably, but many of them helped to provide the means of education for the Catholic exiles.

A most edifying spectacle was witnessed on October 19th, when the Bishop of Forlì, Monsignor Zuffi, unveiled a monumental cross (one of the twenty which the Roman committee decided to raise on as many heights in various parts of Italy in honor of our Most Holy Redeemer) on Mount Maggio, an eminence commanding a splendid panorama of the Romagna, and aptly known as the Belvedere of that magnificent scenery.

"IT'S ONLY A COLD, A TRIFLING COUGH"

Thousands have said this when they caught cold. Thousands have neglected to cure the cold. Thousands have filled a Consumptive grave through neglect. Never neglect a cough or cold. It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

is the medicine you need. It strikes at the very foundation of all throat or lung complaints, relieving or curing Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Croup, Sore Throat, and preventing Pneumonia and Consumption.

It has stood the test for many years, and is now more generally used than ever. It contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other powerful remedies. It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and soothes inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucus, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations. Don't be humbugged into accepting an imitation of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trademark, and price 25 cts.

Mr. Julian J. LaBiano, Belle Gate, N. S., writes: "I was troubled with a bad cold and severe cough, which assumed such an attitude as to keep me confined to my house. I tried several remedies advertised but they were of no avail. As a last resort I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and one bottle cured me completely."

MILBURN'S

"Let us have some dinner on the veranda," said a nervous young gentleman during the first stage of his honeymoon.

"Certainly, sir," said the head waiter, politely. "Table d'hotel or a carte, sir?"

"Er—well," said the young Benedict, who was anxious to impress his wife with his lavish expenditures, "bring us some of both, please!"

Milburn's Sterling Headache Powders give women prompt relief from monthly pains and leave no bad after effects whatever. Be sure you get Milburn's. Price 20 and 25 cents, all dealers.

A Liverpool lady had given her butcher her daily order over the telephone, and later in the day decided to change it a little and countermand an order she had given for some liver.

Ring up her butcher she said: "You remember that I gave you an order for a pound of liver a while ago?"

"Yes" was the reply.

"Well, I find that I do not need it, and you need not send it. Before she could put down the receiver she heard the butcher say to someone in the shop, "Take out Mrs. Black's liver. She says she can get along without it."

There is nothing harsh about Laxa-Liver Pills. They cure Constipation, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, and Bilious Spells without griping, purging or sickening. Price 25c.

"You don't look as if you were enjoying yourself, Mr. Shrinker. I wish all my guests to be at home."

"I'm sure they all wish they were, Mrs. Hostess."

Beware Of Worms.

Don't let worms gnaw at the vitals of your children. Give them Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup and they'll soon be rid of these parasites. Price 25c.

A teacher was instructing a class of boys, and had spent half an hour trying to drive into their heads the difference between man and the lower animals, but apparently with little success.

"Jacky," he said, coaxingly, to a little chap, "do you know the difference between, say, me and a pig or any other brute?"

"No," replied Jacky, innocently.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

The liver is the largest gland in the body; its office is to take from the blood the properties which form bile. When the liver is torpid and inflamed it cannot furnish bile to the bowels, and the result is constipation. The symptoms are a feeling of fulness or weight in the right side, and shooting pains in the same region, pains between the shoulders, yellowness of the skin and eyes, bowels irregular, coated tongue, bad taste in the morning, etc.

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

are pleasant and easy to take, do not grip, weaken or sicken, never fail in their effects, and are by far the safest and quickest remedy for all diseases or disorders of the liver.

Price 25 cents, or 5 bottles for $1.00, all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
