MASSACRE

In Morocco—Horrible Cruelty
to Women—Nationalist Convention Approves the Home Rule Bill.

Special to Evening Telegram.
PARIS, April 23.
A massacre at Fez, in which a large number of French officers, soldiers and citizens were killed and wounded, has given rise to considerable criticism of the Government authorities for not foreseeing and preventing the occurrence. It is pointed out by the newspapers that the French troops occupied the Moroccan capital more than a year ago. Special correspondents to the French newspapers at Fez indicate that the plan of the rebels included the massacre of the whole French mission, headed by M. Regnault, which recently arrived at the Capital to establish a Protectorate. The plan failed owing to the impatience of some Arabians women to begin the carnage. These women are described by the correspondents as Hecates of terrifying appearance, who pass their time rushing about the streets, torturing the wounded, and sometimes aiding the Moorish rebels in the final mutilation and desecrating of their victims.

An awful scene of horror occurred in the Jewish quarter of the city, where a mob murdered, pillaged and burned all the Jews they could find, throwing their bodies from the roofs. Many young girls were carried off, and suffered indescribable outrages. The Jewish quarter was set on fire and three-fourths entirely destroyed, rendering over 1,000 people homeless.

The story of the death of the telegraphers is a narrative of coolness and bravery, the newspapers comparing their faithfulness to duty with that of the wireless operators of Titanic. Although possessed with only one revolver between them, they kept the howling mob outside at bay for a considerable time, and succeeded in picking off and killing sixteen of the fanatics. All the time one or other of them were sending despatches to headquarters at Tangier, telling of the plight of the city. Finally the Arabs tore a hole in the roof, through which they poured a murderous fire, together with flaming torches which set the room on fire. Three of the telegraphers fell dead, and the fourth turned his revolver on himself rather than fall into the hands of the murderous Moors. He shot, but missed, and later was able to escape from the burning building. Fears are expressed in Paris that similar outbreaks may occur in other parts of Morocco.

IN BAD STATE.—Last night Constables Green and Squibb were called to Pope Street in the midst of the storm where a man was lying in the silted rain in a stupor from liquor. He was drenched by the rain which fell on him, and there being no cabs about, the men had to bring him bodily down to the station.

S.S. Rosalind Change Hands.

The termination of her present trip will be the last time the S. S. Rosalind will be seen on the Red Cross Line route. An allusion to this has already been made in the Telegram. The Rosalind has been purchased by the Black Diamond Line people and will be handed over to her new owners at this port on the return of the ship from Halifax. She will run the passenger and freight service in conjunction with the Ardeolo, which will replace the ill-fated Bonavista, between Montreal and St. John's via Gulf ports and no doubt the Rosalind will prove an ideal boat for her new service. Her present crew, we understand, will be shifted and the Black Diamond people have appointed their own hands to go in her. We learn that the genial Capt. Fraser will control the bridge.

Half-Holiday Question.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Please allow me a short space in your valuable paper for a suggestion as regards the doing away with the half holidays and closing the stores at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Now, as the Association have adopted that rule I hope next they will grant us Sunday for a day of recreation, but I think that will come under the notice of the Lord's Day Alliance and they will be getting angry with us, so I think instead of closing the stores at 5 o'clock p.m., which is the busiest part of the day, as from 4 o'clock until 6.30, let us still continue and have our half holiday during the week as usual. I am sure the closing of the stores at 5 p.m. will cause a revolution among our sporting people, and if an immediate settlement is not arrived at it will be as hard as the coal strike at present in Great Britain. Thanking you for space.
G. C. KENNEDY.

Quick Passage.

The schr. Carenot, Skipper P. Cheseman, which is the first arrival from that section of the Island for the season, reached port from Rushoon, Placentia Bay, yesterday to be outfitted for the codfishery voyage. The craft had a favourable time coming and made an excellent run. She covered the whole distance in twenty hours, and for thirteen hours sailed 130 miles. The schr. sighted two huge icebergs off Cape Pine.
