

Lowney's shows you how Cocoa ought to taste

Partly because—the cocoa beans used for Lowney's are selected from the very finest beans to be found in the tropics. These beans command high prices. We pay them.

Lowney's shows you how Cocoa ought to taste

Partly because—the beans, after thorough cleaning, are carefully roasted to bring out the full, rich flavor of the finest cocoa beans. The process demands rare skill and experience.

Lowney's shows you how Cocoa ought to taste

Partly because—cocoa beans from various tropical sections are combined and ground into an exquisite blend.

Lowney's shows you how Cocoa ought to taste

Partly because—after excess cocoa butter is removed, the cocoa powder is reground and sifted through silk. This insures a fine powder that gives up its rich flavor more quickly than would be possible with a coarser powder.

Lowney's shows you how Cocoa ought to taste

Because—it is impossible to get finer flavored beans than you will find in Lowney's. Because it is impossible to blend, roast and grind these beans with more experienced skill or greater care than we use at our factory in Montreal.

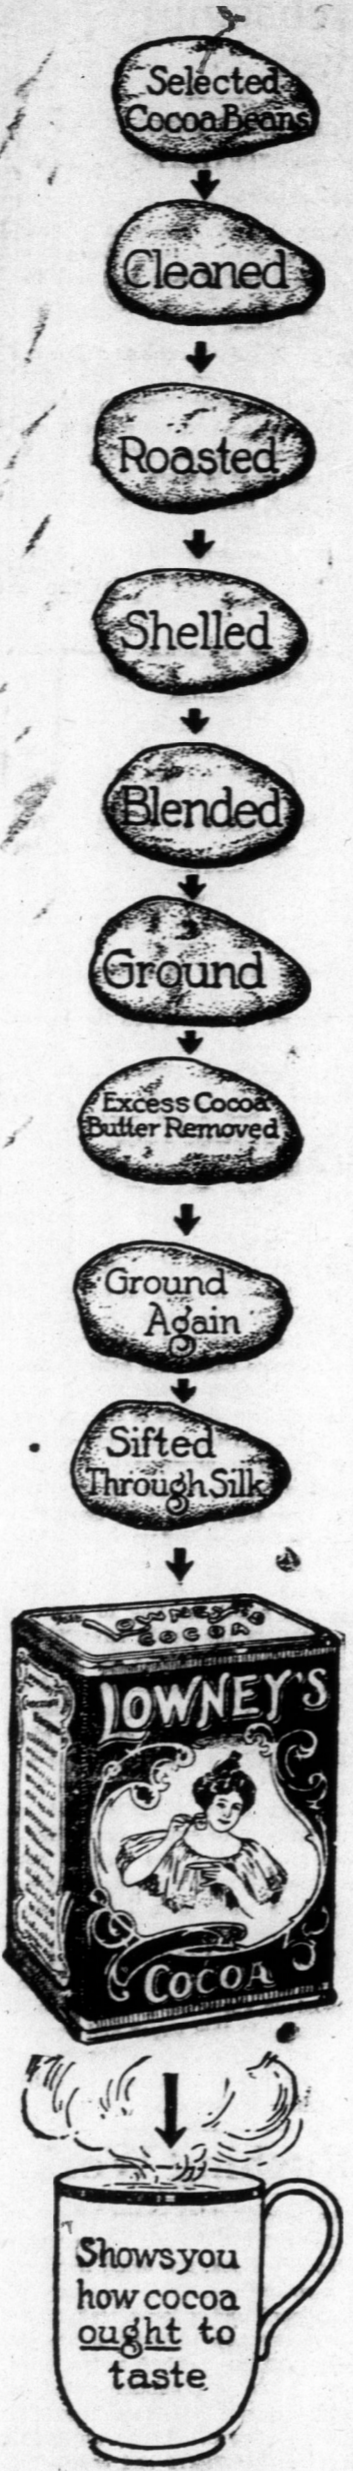

Lowney's Cocoa gives you the very best flavor that the finest cocoa beans can yield. It simply shows you how cocoa ought to taste.

Sold by grocers. In tins—10c to 50c sizes.

LOWNEY'S COCOA

The Best Way to Make Cocoa
Mix two even tablespoonfuls of cocoa with two of sugar. Add ½ tablespoonful of salt. Mix gradually with two cups of boiling water. Stir to a smooth paste. Boil 5 minutes. Add two cups of scalded (not boiled) milk, and beat with an egg-beater until frothy.

An Enjoyable Concert.

The concert given by the C. E. T. S. in the Synod Hall last night was attended by a fairly large audience, all of whom enjoyed it thoroughly. Excellent solos were given by Misses Strang, Irving, Butler, Pippy and Hanlan. Miss Sybil Johnson performed on the violin with the skill of a virtuoso, and received the applause which the delightful music she furnished merited. A trombone solo by Miss Hanlan was unique and highly appreciated. Mr. Hearder recited "The Legend of the Little Vulgar Boy" in an inimitable manner. Mr. Mews performed in a most creditable manner on the cello, and the items by Messrs. Crocker and Noseworthy on the piano were listened to with extreme pleasure. Messrs. Clarke and Spooner rendered a duet in excellent form. The proceeds go to the Marine Disasters Fund. The promoters of the concert are to be commended on its general excellence.

A Newfoundland Romance.

Mr. Frank White, of this city, who is a graceful and prolific writer, and who is now studying in Toronto for the profession of an architect, is becoming appreciated in that city for his ability in literary work. Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

Why Who's Who.

BY H. L. RANN.

The only six-cylinder brain at large in this country is the one used by Senator Elihu Root of New York. His brain is concealed in a small, 6½ head, and fills the entire cavity, leaving no room for light and airy perlage or other bric-a-brac. When Senator Root's brain is in a state of eruption, very few people care to engage him in a catch-as-catch-can debate. Senator Root is a thin, compact gentleman, who looks as if he could use additional storage capacity for his teeming thoughts. Whenever these thoughts begin to teem in a series of high voltage relays, the senator discharges some of the most rapid-fire and compressed-yeast English ever hurled from the American rostrum. He is one of the few men we have who can talk unintentionally for several hours without committing a solecism or injecting any spilt infinitives. By profession Mr. Root is a lawyer, but his business is to furnish the brains for the United States senate. When not engaged in this pursuit, he is kept busy construing the constitution for the benefit of the Supreme Court. Elihu is conceded to be our greatest little construer since Dan'l Webster. He can construe in any direction without losing his balance or using a word of less than six syllables. Senator Root is a high-priced workman, and usually has to be retained with the aid of a swollen certified check before guaranteeing to acquit the defendant. He never accepts a case unless he is satisfied that his client is the victim of a foul conspiracy and is in good standing at the First National bank. Senator Root's eagle eye, determined will and string mustache have done yeoman service in presiding over turbulent gatherings of the plain people. As chairman of the Chicago convention he gave a fine imitation of a human icicle subduing an insurgent uprising. Toward the close, however, his hearing became so defective that he couldn't distinguish a cataract of "Nyas" from a trickle of "Ayes."

MARINE ENQUIRY.—Consts. T. Lynch and E. Quinlan arrived here yesterday from Trepassay and will be present as witnesses this afternoon in an enquiry in the Marine Court into the stranding of the S. S. Wilhelmnia. Several other witnesses also came along for the same purpose.
