In Memoriam.

THOMAS SLANEY.

The very many friends of Thomas Slaney will regret to hear of his death at Camden, N.J., a few weeks ago. Mr. Slaney had reached the advanced age of eighty years, but was yet hale and hearty when he met with a sad and untimely death through being partly smothered with escaping gas as he slept in his room at the hotel. He was removed to Cooper Hospital, where the treatment of leading specialists failed to combat the attack of the poisoning gas, and without regaining consciousness he died there after four days.

The late Thomas Slaney was a coarse-spoken, blunt, honest fisherman, well and favourably known from one end of the district to the other as an old landmark and a pillar of Church and State. In public matters in his native district he took a leading part, and was always a four-square Liberal and a fearless and bold preacher of righteousness in politics and principles. In church matters, too, he took an active interest, and his dear old Chapel's Cove had none more loyal son than Tom Slaney when he emigrated two years ago to live abroad with his daughter, Mrs. James Aida. The deceased was thrice married. By his first wife, Miss Constance Fardy, he leaves two daughters—Mrs. Patrick Dwyer, Holyrood, and Mrs. John Day, Notre Dame Bay. By his second wife, Miss Kate Curran, one daughter, Mrs. James Aida, 215 Mt. Vernon Street, Camden, with whom he lived at the time of his death. And by his third wife, Miss Mary Flynn, Colliers, C.B., none. His remains now rest in Mt. Vernon Cemetery beside those of his two daughters, who predeceased him, and may his soul rest in peace.

The following nice obituary notice of our deceased friend is clipped from a Camden Journal and I would thank you to publish it with an expression of sympathy to his three daughters who are left to mourn his loss.

Deaths—Thomas Slaney.

Although comparatively unknown to most of the members of the Sacred Heart congregation, still in his untimely death, and the circumstances surrounding it, Thomas Slaney, who was called by Almighty God to his reward on Wednesday, March 2nd, was a household word throughout the parish. This aged and holy man had already passed the 79th milestone of his life, and filled with years of good works and friendship with the good God, wanted to add to his storehouse of food near the church and be able to attend every exercise both in the morning and in the evening, he engaged a room in a hotel about three blocks from the church. The angel of death had decreed otherwise and when the opening exercises of the mission began this holy man lay cold in death, in the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Aida, of 215 Mt. Vernon Street. This was a most striking example of the uncertainty of death. His funeral took place from the Church of the Sacred Heart on Monday morning, April 7th, when a solemn High Mass was celebrated by Rev. William Fahey, with Rev. Father Jerome, C.P., as deacon, and Rev. J. B. McCloskey, LL.D., as sub-deacon.

Concert at Rock Harbor.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—Please allow me space in your most highly esteemed paper to make a comment on so concerning this little place of Rock Hr., as it is seldom anything appears in the columns of your paper from here. We are at present passing through some very dull times, almost as bad as was ever known in the great world's history. But yet the people of Rock Hr. are very energetic and still have the spirit of enthusiasm in them and are looking forward to better times in the future. We cannot expect to have all good times, and prosperous voyages. We must prepare to meet the bad ones some time. The bad voyages are a lesson taught us by invisible teachers, who are endeavoring to make us grasp certain facts, but it seems without success. We are too hard-hearted and will not strive to grasp the ideas taught us.

It reminds me of ancient times relating to the Egyptians who would not let the children of Israel go, and serve God. Our hearts will be softened yet. Our eyes will be unveiled and we shall see clearly when it is too late. The people of Rock Hr. are working together with energy and striving to make their little village a success. They have a neat little school here as well as a Church and are at present building a S.U.F. Hall, which, I am sure, will be a splendid building when they get it completed.

On Easter Monday night (March 28th), a concert was held in the schoolroom in aid of the Fishermen's Society. It proved to be a success. Although the night was disagreeable, yet in spite of bad weather a good audience showed up and the schoolroom was just about packed. Also we must thank the residents of Spanish Room for patronizing us so well, and we did our very best to make the performance an enjoyable one, and I feel sure the audience spent an enjoyable night. Doors were opened at 7 o'clock and the programme started at eight, and lasted until 11.30. It consisted of the following: Dialogues, Songs, and Recitation—Opening Chorus (Mtd. Gem of the Ocean); Dialogue, How Sambo made the money; Recitation, Kitty and Ray, by Elizabeth Brown; Song, Poor old Dad, by Ed. Withers; Recitation, He has never done anything since, by S. Down; Dialogue, Scene at a railway station; Recitation, Oh, Willie we have missed you, by Eliza Brown; Chorus, Old Black Joe; Dialogue, How he teased Ned; Recitation, Pat's letter, by Jos. Hodder; Song, Masses in the cold, cold ground, by L. Hodder and A. Brown; Dialogue, Family quarrels; Recitation, Danny takes after his mother, by Mrs. S. Hooper; Song, The Whistling Coon, by H. B. Stone; Dialogue, Anxious Enquirer; Recitation, The pallet of straw, by Mrs. Ed. Withers; Chorus, The hand that rocks the cradle; Recitation, The Absent-minded man, by L. Hodder; Song, It's funny what Lager will do, by James Hodder; Dialogue, Pat's Dilemma, or too much of a good thing; Recitation, The story of Jack, by H. B. Stone; Song, Dixie Land, by H. B. Stone; Monologue, Miss Grabber's Boarding House; Song, Name it what you can, by L. Hodder; Dialogue, A busy day with Doctor Jinks; Closing chorus, Good night Ladies; National Anthem.

The acting and reciting was of a classical type. L. Hodder presided at the organ and rendered the music very finely. After the concert the people of Rock Hr. invited the far-off guests to their homes to supply the dinner man and then they proceeded back to the schoolroom again, where a dance was in progress and kept up until the wee hours of the morning, and I think everyone spent a very enjoyable time.

On the following night a repetition of the concert was given. Unfortunately it proved to be a more disagreeable night than the first. But yet in spite of the bad weather that was prevailing outside a fair audience appeared, the same programme, being gone through and likewise a dance. Then the people proceeded to their respective homes after spending a very pleasant time. The sum of $46 was raised, which will go to the aid of the Society of United Fishermen.

Thanking you in anticipation for your valuable space and wishing the people of Rock Hr. every success in future.

Lancashire Witches.

No county in the kingdom was more scandalized by the degrading superstition of witchcraft, than that of Lancashire in the days of the Tudors and Stuarts. The term to-day serves but to excite gales, but it is impossible to conceive how different were the sentiments produced by these magical words in the seventeenth century, when the "Solomon of the North" ascended the throne of England, and when, on the proclamation of a general pardon the crime of "witchcraft" was excepted from the common amnesty. A petition from Dr. Des, warden of the Collegiate Church of Manchester, praying to be freed from the revolting imputation of witchcraft, even at the risk of a trial for his life, sufficiently indicates the horror excited by the charge. The first distinct charge of witchcraft in

Mrs. E. Crozier Gains 24 Pounds by Taking Tanlac

Says Her Troubles Have All Disappeared And She Feels Like a New Woman.

"When I began taking Tanlac I only weighed one hundred and four pounds; but now I tip the scales at one hundred and twenty-eight, which is exactly thirteen pounds more than I weighed even before my troubles began," was the statement made recently by Mrs. Elizabeth Crozier, 733 Broadview Ave., Toronto, Ont. "Over a year ago I noticed I was getting in a run down condition. My appetite was very poor, and what little I did eat seemed to do me no good. I was nervous and restless, couldn't sleep any, to speak of, and always felt tired and listless. I fell off over ten pounds in weight, and was so weak and nervous I felt perfectly miserable all the time."

"But by the time I finished my first bottle of Tanlac I was eating and sleeping better and was picking up in weight. When I had finished my fourth bottle, my troubles were all gone, and although three months have passed now, I am still feeling fine. I have a wonderful appetite, everything agrees with me perfectly and I am twenty-four pounds heavier than I was at the time I began taking Tanlac. My nerves are as steady as a clock, and I sleep well every night. Tanlac is just grand."

any way connected with this county is that of the wife of the good Duke Humphrey, the Duchess of Gloucester, associate of Roger Bolingbroke, the priest, and Margaret Jordan, the Witch of Eye, who was burnt to death at Smithfield. The duchess, after having been hurled by her ambition and inquisitive cruelty, from the highest elevation to the lowest degradation, became the prisoner of Sir Thomas Stanley, in the Isle of Man, and suffered confinement in the Castle of Liverpool. The practice of witchcraft was indeed so prevalent about this time, that many men of high position, and many learned people became impressed with the belief that they were bewitched. In fact, Ferdinand, Earl of Derby, died under this impression. On May 12, 1612, several persons accused of practising witchcraft were arrested, and in the autumn of the same year, nineteen persons, most of them women, were arraigned at the Assizes at Lancaster. Ten were found guilty, and sentenced to suffer the punishment of death, whilst the remainder were acquitted. At the appointed time the poor condemned wretches died by the hand of the public executioner—victims, no doubt, in part, of their own fraudulent acts; resorted to for the purpose of eluding a miserable subsistence—but, much more, sacrifices offered upon the altars of ignorance and superstition.

JEM GUMCHEW.

Synopsis of Previous Installments. Jem Gumchew, whilst looking for Sairy Snubbs who has been captured by Bad Bill Blood, the outlaw, is himself captured, and is rescued by Sairy. The two make their escape in an old Ford car.

CHAPTER IV. (Continued)

Jem looked back and saw a long string of outlaws mounted on animals ranging from pack horses down to donkeys, following hard upon their trail. Their flight was discovered. Desperately he headed the old Ford up the mountain side. On and on up the steep, precipitous cliffs raced the car, gradually out-distancing the pursuing outlaws. Just, however, as Jem thought they were free from pursuit, there was a loud explosion from behind and Jem nearly swallowed his false teeth from the shock. One of the rear tyres had blown out! For a moment Jem gave up all hope of safety. Then, a brilliant idea suddenly rushed through the sawdust in his head. Taking a wad of chewing gum from his mouth, he spread it over the gaping hole.

(Editor.)—"From what I know about blow outs Jem must have had rather a large mouth to carry enough gum to fill one."

Author—"If you didn't have such a large mouth you might be inclined to exercise it less. Do dry up."

Falling on his face in the dust, Jem next applied his mouth to the valve of the tube and blew until nearly every bit of breath he possessed had been forced into the tyre. Then, he started the car and again raced up the mountain side. (Marvelous—Editor.) Well, it's a Western story. Author.

CHAPTER V. RESCUED.

The outlaws were now hard on his heels and no matter how much he pressed the car, they steadily gained on him. Just as they were climbing the steepest part of the mountain, and just as Bad Bill's head was within an inch of the hood, the engine stopped! Jem hastily applied the brakes, but to no avail. Down the steep incline shot the Ford, taking horses and men before it. (How did it turn round?—Editor.) Author. "It didn't. It went down backwards."

Clinging to the top of the hood was Bad Bill, whither he had been thrown by the terrible impact between his horse and the car. Suddenly, there was an awful crash. The car had struck a rock on the level ground.

THE TROUBLES OF A VERSE WRITER.

I sit and think whilst minutes fly
And now and then I heave a sigh
Tremendous.

I help my thoughts by drinking fizz.
A poor verse writer's worry is Stupendous.

Try as I may no thoughts appear
Whilst into vacancy I stare
In silence.

In vain I court the pensive muse
Although I heap on her abuse
And violence.

She will not help me out to-day
So pardon this wretched verse, I pray.

A Bigger Bank Account Pipeless Heating Offers You

The price of fuel CANNOT COME DOWN much next winter, but an Enterprise Blazer Pipeless Furnace will put DOLLARS IN THE BANK for you—dollars that in past years have gone to pay the coal bills.

From everywhere the story comes:

"Last winter the Enterprise Pipeless saved half my coal."
"I heated the entire house on what it took to heat two or three rooms with stoves."
"Saving money at this rate, my Pipeless will pay for itself in no time."

"We've had twice the heat at half the cost." Read the testimonials.

Letters like these are coming to us in every mail. The wonderful new Pipeless system is cutting the cost of heating in HOMES, STORES AND PUBLIC BUILDINGS all over Canada. And MONEY IS NOT ALL THAT PIPELESS SAVES. There is practically NOTHING TO THE INSTALLATION—no cost, trouble, dirt or mess. A single hole is cut for the ONE BIG REGISTER and the job is done. ONE DAY is all it takes. NO UNSIGHTLY AIR PIPES to crowd the cellar, spoil the beauty of the home and waste the heat—NO WATER PIPES to freeze—no tearing out of floors and walls. If you buy a Pipeless Furnace TODAY you can be through with the whole job TOMORROW, ready for next winter and the winters of the next twenty or thirty years. On the bitterest winter's day every nook and cranny of your home—even the furthest from the furnace—WILL BE BATHED IN 70 DEGREES OF DELIGHTFUL, COZY WARMTH.

WHAT USERS SAY:

Economy, Heat and Ease of Management

"I am more than pleased with my Enterprise Blazer Pipeless Furnace in every way. I know of no system that will give the same amount of heat for fuel consumed. For fuel economy, even distribution of heat, ease of management and a cool cellar, it has no equal and I am pleased to recommend it to anyone interested."

The way to worry when you see
That things are not as they should be.
Is just to work with all your might
To make the troubles end all right.
The way to worry, is to go

And hustle for the coin you owe—
You'll never get it sitting down
And putting on a gloomy frown.

When you are in the depths of care,
The way to worry then and there
Is just to stir yourself about
And find the means of getting out.

When plans you've made are apt to fall,
It will not help at all to wallow
There's only one thing then to do,
And that's to see the trial through.

All men must worry, but the wise
Express their fear in action's guise;
When worry comes to earnest men,
They win by working harder then.

IDLE BRITISH SHIPS.

Following on the recent statement of Sir Owen Phillips that 2,000,000 tons of British shipping is now idle as an effort is being made by the Imperial Overseas traders to increase the employment of British ships in trade between this country and our Dominions and Dependencies, it is stated that whilst the bulk of the trade is already done in British bottoms, a considerable number of British ships are employed, and the movement of the movement believe there is no reason why most of the should not be replaced by British Shipping.
