CONVENTION OF TEACHERS OPENED
HERE YESTERDAY

Dr. C. E. Bland Delivers Opening Oration on "National Ideals"; Over 400
Teachers Attend

The annual convention of the Calgary and High River Teachers' association opened yesterday morning in the Central Collegiate Institute with 400 teachers from the city and out of town districts.

The convention opened in the assembly hall by singing "O Canada," led by Rev. C. E. Bland, D.D., delivered an address on "National Ideals." He held forth for a nation to follow, and deplored the prejudice against religious instruction in public education.

He enumerated the ideals for the raising of the nation in three factors: Co-operation, racial unity and love of country.

Individual competition, he said, had given way to group competition, and co-operation is as greatly required to-day as the removal of competition between individuals.

Need of Friendly Regard.

With the mixed population in this country, he pointed out the need of friendly regard each for the other as a national war cry, and does not stand for the high and loyal spirit of devotion it should promote.

At the afternoon session, Dr. McIntyre of Winnipeg will speak on "Social and Moral Education," before the Financial Post and the Financial News. The different committees will be heard.

WILL ADVERTISE

Recommend 5% Tax Discount Period Be Extended to November 20

The city council's finance committee yesterday decided to recommend that the council extend the period for five per cent discount for the payment of taxes to November 20. The city treasurer reported that nearly $2,000,000 have been collected in taxes so far this year. This includes back taxes. The payments up to date are $200,000 ahead of what was paid up to Dec. 31 last year. All loans from the local banks have been paid except $60,000 from the local bank. Mayor Costello reported progress in regard to extending the time for the payment of the treasury taxes.

It was decided to advertise the tax certificates in the Toronto Saturday Night, the Monetary Times, the Financial Post and the Financial News. The latter is a Montreal issue. "Then there will be three American papers, two of which will probably be the Chicago Tribune and the Bond Buyers of New York."

MINSTREL SHOW

High-class Acts Draw Large
Audience; Jeff Lydiatt's
Nigger Preacher and Edmonton Quartet Stellar Turns

Golden smiles, coon-shouting songs, college melodies, a bit of patriotic melody and assorted vaudeville, formed the crux of the minstrel show which was out in force to do their bit for the soldiers' kiddies and a big Christmas for the dependents and widows of the men in France. The talent of the club was behind the footlights and it was real talent, some of the numbers being imported from as far north as Edmonton.

From the general aspect of the crowd last night the outlook would judge that the receipts at the gate will go far toward filling empty stockings. Jeff Lydiatt and his chorus of 50, emceed with a colorful and colorful show, and the accompaniment of the Gulf coast, went through their two acts in a workmanlike manner. The laughs that they brought out from the audience had a genuine ring and their encores were demanded rather than requested.

Splendid Setting

The opening scene of the minstrel show was a setting that indicates that it was directed by a master in stagecraft. Fifty of the colored gentlemen appear on a semi-darkened stage with a center water fountain that splashes the colors of the rainbow. Interlocutor Ernie Willis makes his appearance dressed like a navy "tut" and with a professional twang that leads the end men to climaxes that produce laughter.

The colored gentlemen—who are in reality tired business men—look slightly ill at ease from ringside. Doubtless a fat after-dinner cigar held in each by the chorus would remove the first effects of the spotlight glare. However, even a suspicion of stage fright disappears by the time the first bars of the opening melody are started. The chorus chosen by the director for the evening are the old ones and by reason of this fact they are well versed.

Miss Sullivan, who was Mr. Sam Barton's distinct hit, was Mr. Barton's rendition of "Over There," a late marching song. One feature of this number is the dropping of a large map of France in a curtain form during the singing of the chorus and the setting sends thrills through the audience.

Jeff Lydiatt started with his "Hallelujah" song. His imitation of an aged negro preacher was perfect. Lon Cavauagh followed with an antiphony of Lydiatt's act, appearing as a lively buck, in a dancing melody, "Dat's Harmony."

One of the sentimental touches on the program was Z. D. Stanley and R. W. MacMurray, singing "There's a Long, Long Trail." Gus Arledge creates an impression with his tenor, and is followed by Bert Thompson with another coon-shouting harmony.

The Anvil Chorus

The finale of the first act is the time-honored anvil chorus, which more than won the crowd. The intermission between the two acts is taken up with a story screen play of local nature. Then there is a short Mutual film of the British recruiting mission at work in the United States, showing a regiment of veterans from Canada arousing sentiment among Britishers in the southern country.

The second half of the big show is local talent in vaudeville. Ben Creak swings Indian clubs and with a combination of electricity and music pulls off an act that is novel and unusual. Oral D. Ciokey plays the xylophone, just like they do it on the western circuit.

The Edmonton four is a quartet of male voices that is one of the most appreciated turns on the bill. It consists of Dave Jones, George Elton, Norman Smith and D.M. Duggan, from the Edmonton Rotary club.

The two final acts are characteristic of rotarians. One is a lecture by a genuine actor, whose personality is not honored with a name on the program and appears under the nom de plume of Hans Jotz-bull. The final act is a burlesque of a comedian, reminding one of the mystery stunts. The Calgary Rotary club has engineered a real show, one worth going to smile at and to hear.

WESTERN VERACITY

Victim of One Man Car Accident Makes Affidavit
That Superintendent Mc-Cauley's Interview Was a
Myth

Miss Katherine Sullivan of New York City, victim of the one-man car accident on the night when she was caught in the door of a car and she was thrown under the moving car, informed The Albertan last night that the Far West newspaper in which Superintendent McCauley is quoted as saying: "Supt. McCauley said he had interviewed the young woman in another newspaper that the young woman's skirt had been caught in the door when the motorman closed it, was erroneous."

"I don't see how they do it," stated Miss Sullivan. "McCauley interviewed me for the first time tonight, some 24 hours after he informed the evening paper he had done so."

Miss Sullivan signed an affidavit last night that The Albertan's report of the accident was correct in all details. In a certain form during the night the motorman closing the door on her skirt and not by Miss Sullivan stepping into the car.

Miss Sullivan in her affidavit declares that Supt. McCauley's statement that "I stepped on the edge of my skirt, fell to the pavement is absolutely false, as I did not step on my skirt."

As a matter of fact after Miss Sullivan fell, she was dragged along the pavement until the one-man car door was opened by the motorman-conductor.

In his post-mortem interview with Miss Sullivan last night, Superintendent McCauley blamed the evening paper for misquoting him as to the interview. "I have stated that the accident was caused by the operation of the one-man car."

The High Cost of Living committee appointed by the city council met yesterday and considered the report from the special committee on the price of coal. As only three or four coal companies have answered the inquiries sent out by City Clerk Miley, the committee decided to instruct City Solicitor Ford to compel the coal companies to supply the required information.

As Ald. Marshall had to leave, the committee was left without a chairman and could not officially consider the milk question. Ald. McTaggart expressed himself as being anxious to have the milk handled by the city as a public utility. He said that this is the only satisfactory solution of the trouble. Ald. McTaggart intimated that he was going to bring up the question of wisdom of making the alderman an allowance. It was pointed out that Ald. Broach is actually out of pocket from $10 to $12 every month on account of having to give up his work to attend the meetings of the council and of the committee.

At the meeting of the supreme court of the I.O.F., held recently in Toronto, the delegates in attendance adopted the following resolution:

"The executive council is hereby authorized and directed to accept for membership in the order men of the ages now or hereafter subject to draft for military or naval service, for an amount of mortuary benefit not exceeding a thousand dollars at the ordinary rates of premium, with the provision that if such member is drafted or otherwise enters the military or naval service and is killed or disabled, one-half only of the mortuary or disability benefit shall be paid, but the certificate shall be restored to the full amount of the benefit so soon as the member returns from the war, and has been discharged from military or naval service, without medical re-examination, provided always that the executive council shall not admit to membership any person who has actually entered military or naval service in the order."

This legislation applies also to all women members of the order at present on active service.

London, Oct. 25.—Concurrently with the unofficial announcement last night that employers would form a great combination for the purpose of protecting the interests of capital and in an endeavor to adjust the relations between employers and employees, the government issued a statement to the effect that it adopted as part of its policy of industrial reconstruction the recommendations of the special committee which reported last June. The committee advised the establishment of industrial councils representing the employers' associations in each industry.

The councils will deal among other things with the means for securing for the workmen a greater share in controlling the conditions of labor, with a readjustment of wages so that the workers will obtain a share in the increased prosperity of industry, the establishment of regular methods of settling differences and other means of insuring closer co-operation between employers and employees with a view to attaining better conditions of employment; and a higher standard of comfort for the workers. The statement says that a large number of employers' organizations and trade unions have expressed their approval of the scheme.

NOTHING WRONG

Northcliffe Says Only About
One-third of the German People Tired of War

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 25.—Discounting recent reports of the intensification of the war in Germany, signs of the weakening of that nation in the war, Lord Northcliffe, distinguished English publisher, and head of the British war mission, today told 200 editors of seven of the middle western states, at a luncheon given here in his honor, that the war has just begun.

"It is impossible that this should be a short war," he declared. "There are no people who will form the basis for such an opinion. While it is positively true that one-third of the German population has become sickened of war, the ruling two-thirds are firm in their conviction that the war is being prosecuted to a victorious culmination for their government."

Lord Northcliffe asserted that American newspapers are presenting the news of the war in an erroneous way. He said that the fact that something was wrong with Germany was being featured when as a matter of fact, the only thing wrong with the nation was the Kaiser. He told of the policy of his publication in England which he said was to give the same treatment to British losses as to British gains.

Minister of War Announces in Italian Chamber That Army Is Fully Prepared and Can Hold German At-

London, Oct. 26 (via Reuters' Ottawa Agency).—The situation on the Italian front is at present obscure. The minister of war yesterday electrified the Italian chamber in a strong speech, reassuring the people that the army was fully prepared, and asserting that "the enemy will never tread Italian soil."

Reuters' correspondent at Italian headquarters, telegraphing Thursday, stated the weather had broken and there is mud and slush everywhere. Nevertheless, the artillery duel is ever increasing in extent, and in beginning to reveal the vast nature of the Austro-German movement, which stretches from Plesio to the Carso. The second and third Italian attacks are offering the most stubborn resistance. The Italians are using machine guns to their utmost in an endeavor to stem the enemy advance. British artillery is playing a great part in the battle.

Montreal, Oct. 25.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier left for Ottawa early train today. Doherty, and addressed by Hon. Dr. Reid and the Hon. C. C. Ballantyne. A committee was appointed to begin organizing locally.

Conference of Irishmen Was Opened at Dublin Yester-

Gold Supports the Movement in Ireland

Dublin, Oct. 25.—The Sinn Fein conference opened today under the presidency of Arthur Griffith, founder of the organization. There were 1,700 delegates present, including many young priests.

The secretary reported that more than one thousand clubs had been organized, with a membership of a quarter of a million.

In his opening address, Mr. Griffith said that the Sinn Fein movement began to spread from the moment John Redmond in the house of commons in 1914 claimed that England's war was Ireland's war. But the movement would not have obtained the isolation it had except for the martyrdom of the 16 men executed after the Easter uprising. He denied that the Sinn Fein movement was supported by German gold. It was carried on, he said, by thousands of persons working without fee. They had got all the gold and service they needed from their own.

Montreal, Oct. 25.—Hon. J. J. Guerin was nominated tonight at a Liberal convention as the party candidate for St. Anne's division. (Ex-Alderman Dan Gallery introduced an element of discord at the convention by declaring that he received the Liberal nomination for St. Anne's last April and he said he would run as a Liberal candidate, notwithstanding the result of the convention tonight. Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who shared the chairmanship with E. B. Devlin, M.P. for Wright, had some difficulty in ruling Mr. Gallery out of order, and putting an end to Mr. Gallery's indignant protests.

"Up to the beginning of the war," said Dr. Guerin, in addressing the convention as the party candidate, "we thought that we were living in an autonomous country, but now we see that we do not rule, but that Downing street tells the prime minister what should be done, and he does what he is told. Looking at conscription, this was passed because they wanted something to hide the scandals and take away the attention of the people. It was not not loyalty to Britain, but simply because the Conservatives wanted you to forget the atrocious crimes they had committed that it was passed."
